Midnight Monday New Tax Deadline

OTTAWA (CP)—Personal income tax returns for 1965 may be filed without penalty up to midnight Monday night, May 2, Revenue Minister Benson said Tuesday in the Commons. The normal deadline is April 30 but this falls on a Saturday this year.

Super Germ-Killer Found

Antibiotic Attacks Diseases of Man, Plants, Animals

OTTAWA (CP)—A red-colored liquid discovered and tested by three federal agriculture department microbiologists may furnish new anti- biotic weapons to fight diseases of plants, animals and man.

It kills the germs which cause tuberculosis and staphylococcus aureus, the "golden staph" germs which resist current antibiotics and which have caused the shutdown of a number of Canadian hospitals to check its spread.

Its potential to battle cancer now is being studied by the cancer research institute at the University of Saskatchewan but the results won't be known for a year or more.

* * *

Besides medical uses, the new antibiotic kills bacteria which cause potato ring rot, alfalfa wilt, fruit tree fireblight, halo blight in oats and the fungi that rot cereal roots.

Announcing the discovery at a press conference Tuesday, Agriculture Minister Greene predicted that the names of the three discoverers "will long be remembered and honored in the annals of man's struggle against disease."

* * *

Their discovery is named myxin for the group of soil bacteria known as myxobacters from which it was extracted. In lab tests, it has prevented growth of 34 species of bacteria, 49 species of fungi, 12 species of actinomycetes and 12 species of yeast.

Actinomycetes is a genus of higher bacteria, reproducing by spores. They may infect the human body.

Myxin strikes at a wider variety of disease-causing organisms than any other known antibiotic, is relatively easy and cheap to produce and can be used on crops as a spray, a control method too costly up to now for antibiotics.

* * *

Dr. Fred Delmar Cook, 45, now on the faculty of the University of Alberta, noted in a soil research project that a one-celled microbe prevented growth of many other organisms causing serious crop dis-

After Quake

Soviet Chiefs View Havoc

At least four persons were killed and 150 others hospitalized in the early morning quake which crumbled "several" hospitals, destroyed many older homes and leveled schools, public buildings and factories, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported. The reports of collapsed hospitals raised fears of a major disaster.

* * *

Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev, in an unprecedented move for Kremlin leaders, flew to the capital of Uzbekistan shortly after the first shock jolted the city of 1,127,000. The new shocks began nearly 14 hours after the initial quake while Kosygin and Brezhnev were inspecting damage.

More tremors were felt later but Tass made no report of additional casualties or damage.

Terrorist Mine Kills 11

SAIGON (UPI)—Viet Cong terrorists exploded a mine at an intersection on the outskirts of Saigon early Wednesday, killing 11 persons and wounding 20 others. All casualties were believed to be Vietnamese.

Four Americans were wounded along with five Vietnamese in one of the incidents. A terrorist threw a grenade into the Americans' jeep, and one of them quickly pitched it back out just before it exploded, probably saving their lives.

Missile Downs Hottest Red Jet

SAIGON (AP) — American planes shot down a MiG-21 over North Viet Nam only 35 miles from China's frontier Tuesday, a U.S. spokesman announced. It was the first kill of the best Communist jet in Asia.

Peking's New China news agency said North Viet Nam's air force shot down two U.S. jets and damaged several others. It did not mention the MiG-21.

Proximity of the action to the frontier led to speculation MiG-21s were using Chinese bases.

China is believed to be producing planes at this type.

Cyprus R. Vance, U.S. deputy defence secretary, said Sunday North Viet Nam is believed to have about 15 MIG-21s. They could have come either from the Soviet Union or from China.

Sidewinder missiles from a U.S. Air Force F-4C Phantom brought down the MiG in a dogfight 65 miles north-northeast of Hanoi. The pilot is believed to have parachuted.

Ground fighting in South Viet Nam against the Viet Cong dwindled.

The Sidewinders used in the latest engagement are heat-seeking missiles that home in on jet exhaust pipes of opposing planes. A skilled pilot, however, may be able to out-manoeuvre them until they lose momentum.

Spy, Sex Charges Denied by Gerda

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Gerda Munsinger, subject of a Canadian sex-and-security inquiry, denied Tuesday allegations made Monday before the commission, in a statement issued by Neue Illustrierte magazine, publisher of her memoirs. (See also Page 3.)

To an allegation that she had been refused an entry visa to Canada in 1952, Mrs. Munsinger replied she never at that time applied for a visa to Canada, although she applied for one to the United States.

According to the statement, she denied having been arrested in West Germany in 1949 and admitting spying for the Soviet Union, as chief commission counsel J. L. O'Brien said Monday an RCMP security file states.

"I have never been interrogated and therefore have never admitted spying for the Soviet Union," she was quoted as saying. "I have never been a Soviet spy."

To allegations she was sentenced by a West German court for prostitution and theft, she replied: "This claim has been seized out of the air. I have never been brought before a West or East German court and convicted."

The statement concluded: "There are no proofs for these dishonoring allegations, because there can be no proofs. They have been freely invented."

Opposition Chiefs Worried

Truscott Fate In High Court

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The fate of Steven Truscott is in the hands of the Supreme Court of Canada and opposition spokesmen are worried those hands may already be tied.

Conservative leader Diefenbaker said Tuesday "The limitatations on the Supreme Court are of such a nature that they deny the completeness of investigation that is warranted.

"I have great respect for the Supreme Court. But the responsibility placed on it is an inordinate burden on its members.

"This just doesn't cover the situation at all. The Supreme Court hasn't the means it should have to look into this matter."

A justice department official said referring the case to the Supreme Court could have one of three probable outcomes:

● An affirmation of the murder conviction in the June 9, 1959, sex strangling near Clinton, Ont.

● An outright pardon for Truscott.

● A second trial for Truscott, who was 14 when sentenced to hang. The sentence was commuted to life.

The official said the reference gives the Supreme Court unfettered discretion to hear any evidence it feels relevant.

APPEAL DISMISSED

Steven Truscott is the 21-year-old youth convicted seven years ago of murdering 12-year-old Lynn E. Harper. A powerful book written by Isabel LeBourdais maintained he was innocent.

The Ontario Court of Appeal dismissed his appeal and the Supreme Court refused to hear one.

QUESTION

"Had an appeal by Steven Murray Truscott been made to the Supreme Court of Canada, what disposition would the court have made of such appeal on a consideration of the existing record and such further evidence as the court in its discretion may receive and consider."

UNPRECEDENTED

A high government source said Tuesday night the key word is "further." Its use makes the reference without precedent in Canadian history.

In routine murders, the Supreme Court now has the power to decide a case on matters of law or "new" evidence, which means evidence not available at the time of trial.

The use of the word further, in place of new, will allow the court to consider any evidence

The Empty Chair

Government's announcement Tuesday that case of Steven Truscott will go to Supreme Court brought new hope to family of the convicted murderer, shown in their Richmond, Ont., home. Surrounding chair which has been empty since boy's conviction in 1959 are sister Barbara, 13; Daniel Truscott, Steven's 48-year-old father; brother Bill, 16, and Mrs. Truscott. Missing also is Steven's oldest brother, Ken, 22, who lives in Montreal.—(CP)

With Welfare Cheques

Mayor Plays Samaritan

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Albert Kent says he will continue to sign welfare cheques for a Newmarket man with assets of $18,000 despite town council objections.

* * *

But Gilbert Gray, welfare administrator, says he is unable to issue any more cheques for the mayor to sign.

"I cannot disobey council," he said. "After all, they employ me."

Newmarket is 30 miles north of Toronto.

When council objected Monday night to the issuing of two welfare cheques of $142 each to the man, Mayor Kent warned that he will refuse to sign other welfare cheques until council reverses its position.

* * *

The man in question has been unable to work for two years. His sick benefits ran out two months ago and he has a wife and five-year-old daughter to support.

Mayor Kent read a letter from Ontario's director of welfare services stating that the man is qualified for welfare without having to mortgage his home or sell his car.

* * *

Mr. Gray said the man owns his home and lot, a cottage and a six-year-old car with a lien against it.

"A person shouldn't have to be absolutely destitute before receiving welfare assistance," Mr. Gray said.

After Mayor Kent walked out of Monday's council meeting, the councillors reconvened and struck the man's name off the welfare rolls.

* * *

"Council is at complete liberty to decide who they should give welfare to," Mr. Gray said Tuesday. "If the man is dissatisfied he can lodge an appeal with the Ontario public welfare office."

Civil Servants

Ottawa Can Order Strikers to Jobs

OTTAWA (CP)—The government cannot stop civil servants going on strike, but Parliament can order them back to work with compulsory arbitration, Revenue Minister Benson said Tuesday.

* * *

The minister, chairman of the cabinet committee responsible for the government's employee relations, told a press conference that all groups in the civil service but postal workers apparently will accept collective bargaining procedures and a no-strike rule under new legislation being introduced in the Commons.

The postal workers want to take the alternative option, conciliation procedures under existing labor law which recognizes the right to strike. Mr. Benson said they could do so.

Employees among whom a strike would seriously affect the safety and security of the state would be debarred strike action under the legislation.

* * *

Mr. Benson said that if postal workers or any other group of civil servants "are determined to go on strike, . . . there is nothing we can do to prevent it."

Truscott Case Goes to High Court

it wants, including evidence which existed at the time of the trial but was not admitted.

The spokesman said this meant that the court could hear any evidence arising from Mrs. LeBourdais' book and could hear any witness the defence might wish to call.

The government's doubt about Steven's conviction was expressed in a preamble paragraph in the order in council which said:

"There exists widespread concern as to whether there was a miscarriage of justice in the conviction of Steven Murray Truscott and it is in the public interest the matter be inquired into."

New Democrat leader T. C. Douglas had serious reservations about the order in council.

"I'm very pleased the government has agreed to have the case reviewed, but I would have preferred a royal commission inquiry with more flexibility to hear new evidence.

"There's a very real danger the Supreme Court will confine itself to deciding whether or not the previous trial was properly held. If it sticks to a purely legalistic position, Steven might be in trouble," he said.

CLEARER

He said the court should have been given clear direction to establish Truscott's guilt or innocence.

He served notice his party would continue to push for a wider inquiry into glaring breakdowns in the proper administration of justice alleged in the LeBourdais book.

"Perhaps the discussion should be initiated in House of Commons justice committee. Then it could be turned over to a panel of judges or deans of law schools," he said.

'TRUTH'

Liberal James Byrne, who first raised the matter in the Commons, saying he would stake his seat on the boy's innocence, said he was pleased with the government's decision.

"I'm sure the truth will be brought out. I feel pretty gratified. If we can't put our trust in the Supreme Court we haven't much left," he said.

He said he had been convinced that Steven's lawyers would be able to call whatever witnesses and evidence they want.

MONEY HELP

He added that he intended to speak to the solicitor general to make sure the government would provide the Truscotts with "adequate financial assistance to present the case properly."

Mr. Pennell replied: "I am satisfied that the government will ensure that Mr. Truscott will not be handicapped by lack of funds from putting his case adequately before the court.

"No request has been made for legal or financial assistance, but I can assure the honorable member that the lack of funds will not stand in the way of Mr. Truscott having an adequate opportunity to present his case."

Outside the House, Mr. Pennell said: "We're going to be fair about this thing, you can be sure of that. There will be no cause for complaint."

Also in the House, Mr. Diefenbaker asked Mr. Pennell if he didn't see the difficulties that:

"Under the rules of the Supreme Court the limitations on that court are of such a nature as to practically deny any such consideration of the question whether or not there has been a miscarriage of justice."

He asked why the government had not ordered a completely new trial.

Mr. Pennell replied: "I would point out that this has gone beyond the usual rules relating to appeals to the Supreme Court of Canada.

"I would draw the attention of the right honorable gentleman ... to Rule 103, I believe it is, of the Supreme Court of Canada, which permits the Supreme Court of Canada to make new rules to deal with any reference brought before it.

"I might say that we have meticulous consideration to all representations and, in my humble opinion, we reached a conclusion which will meet the purpose, which is, of course, to determine whether Truscott was the victim of a miscarriage of justice."

The only member who expressed disapproval of the government reviewing the case at all was Liberal rebel Ralph Cowan.

"I'm certainly not in favor of this. It casts a reflection on the Ontario Appeal Court—a body for which I have great respect.

"I would have preferred we took no look at all. We'll probably find more evidence to prove Truscott was guilty.

"Now there'll be a book written every time there is a conviction," he said.

Quake Flattens Old City

The first quake was reported to be the strongest to hit the Soviet "showcase" capital in nearly 100 years. It was centred between three and six miles almost directly below the city which was once the stamping grounds of Genghis Khan and Emperor Tamerlane.

It also appeared to be the worst earthquake disaster since the central Asian city of Ashkhabad was leveled and hundreds killed in 1948.

Travellers arriving by plane Tuesday night from Tashkent, about 1,800 miles southeast of Moscow and the sixth largest city in the Soviet Union, said the old quarter was virtually destroyed. Tashkent, which means "city of stone," is actually two cities—the modern city built by the Soviets and the old Moslem section which dates back hundreds of years.

One Russian debarking in Tashkent said the quake roused him out of his bed which "leaped a metre (about a yard(in the air."

PLASTER FELL

"A big piece of plaster fell off the ceiling on my head," he said. "I thought it was a bomb. The third tremor, the biggest one, lasted 35 seconds."

He said foreign tourists staying at the modern Tashkent Hotel were not harmed.

The first quake struck at 5:23 a.m. while most of the city slept. Tass said it registered 7.5 on the international scale—equivalent to about a magnitude of 6 on the Richter scale used in the west.

CAUSE DISASTERS

(Seismic experts in Sweden pointed out that while 6 is relatively weak, quakes of similar magnitudes caused the disasters in Agadir, Morocco, and Skopje, Yugoslavia.)

The report of the earthquake was released with unusual speed by Soviet meida. The official Soviet position is that bad news is no news and Westerners seeking information usually are told "it's not important."

Within a few hours after the morning quake, Tass issued its first dispatch on casualties and damages and reported the departure for Tashkent by the Kremlin leaders with an emergency government commission formed to "liquidate the consequences of the earthquake."

Tass said that ambulances screamed through the city within minutes after the shock and damaged buildings were quickly cordoned off while rescuers searched through the rubble for survivors.

In a dispatch transmitted as the later evening tremors rocked the city, Tass said the quakes hardly disturbed the rhythm of life in the city. It said citizens went about their business, gathered in the main sports stadium to see a local soccer team play against an eleven from Minsk, and went to concert halls.

Tass said all enterprises and institutions, including city transportation and communications, operated normally after the first shock.

Two more shocks hit at around 7 p.m. and others were felt a couple of hours later.

Antibiotic

Dr. Douglas Charles Gillespie, 39, agriculture department research officer, extracted the colored material from a broth in which the bacteria had grown and, with Dr. Cook, showed in tests it had the same killing effect as the living bacteria.

Dr. Gillespie, also developed production, isolation and purification methods and made myxin crystals, thus making further extensive tests possible.

* * *

Dr. Edwin Arthur Peterson, 45, another agriculture department researcher, demonstrated myxin's potential in combating plant diseases through seed treatment or by spraying.

Mr. Greene said strong interest in myxin is being shown by a number of companies which want to perfect and produce it. The government's patent-holder, Canadian Patents and Development Ltd., will be licensing it for commercial development by private pharmaceutical firms.

* * *

Dr. Rolf M. Hochster, director of the department's microbiology research institute under whose direction myxin was developed, said animals used in tests showed no signs whatever of toxicity of any kind.

Any organism successful in the test tube furnishes reasonable hope it will be effective in humans, he said.

Strike Law Explained

But if such a strike seriously disrupted the economy, the government would have to ask Parliament to order the workers back to their jobs.

GUARDS, CONTROLLERS

The minister told reporters that denial of the right to strike would only be written into law for civil servants whose work is vital for the safety and security of the state. These did not include postal workers. Two examples he gave were airport flight controllers and penitentiary guards in maximum security prisons.

Others would have the option of choosing through their staff associations and unions between no-strike pledge backed up by arbitration, after a failure of collective bargaining, and the strike and conciliation provisions normally applying to other workers. He said he is sure the postal workers would have second thoughts about threatening strike action when they have studied the legislation.

SLOWDOWN

Speaking for the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, J. G. Simard said unless the right to strike is guaranteed to postal workers, members of his organization whould begin a "work to rule" strike, slowing mail service almost to a halt.

But James Cox, president of the Federated Association of Letter Carriers, said the proposed legislation accorded postal workers the right to strike with full collective bargaining rights.

Clout on Infant's Head Too Close to 'Battering'

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Molner: I am concerned about the way I see parents correcting their children with a sharp rap on the top or side of the head — even babies two years old. I am worried for fear it may hurt their brains.—MRS. F.W.K.

You have good reason to worry.

There appears to be an increase in the number of so-called "battered children" — those who are brutally beaten to the point of needing hospital care. Some of these children die.

Clouting a child on the head is a step removed from the extreme battering that we read about in the papers, but it is still a dangerous thing to do.

DAMAGE

Such a blow can cause concussion and brain damage. It can damage hearing and eyesight. It is not impossible for such a whack to damage the neck bones. It is both cruel and dangerous.

Parents who lash out at children in such fashion are usually immature and unstable themselves; sometimes, indeed, their own behavior provokes the antics for which the child is punished.

A blow on the head or slap in the face is entirely different from a spank on the bottom. While in theory I agree that it is better if a child can be guided without physical punishment at all, I'm not sure that an occasional spank isn't helpful, if used with discretion.

But cuffing a child's head or face? Never!

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a girl of 10. My father has asthma. He is allergic to hair and feathers. When he gets near animals he has to have a shot before he can breathe.

I would very much like a pet but I do not want my father to be sick. Would you name some animals I could have? The only thing my mother can think of is turtles, but I don't like them.—N.W.

I'm sorry, honey, but pets with fur or feathers just don't belong in a household where someone has asthma. As for turtles, they can carry the salmonella germ, which can cause intestinal disease.

How about a goldfish or tropical fish? You can't cuddle them, but they make interesting pets.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I have a baby and would like to have more, but we can't afford one every year. We both disapprove of artificial methods of birth control. Would you explain how we could practice rhythm?—MRS. J.T.

There's no use blinking at facts. The rhythm method, while it works to some extent, is not as certain as other methods.

My suggestion is that you ask your doctor to help. He knows your views, and knows the pattern of your cycle. While he cannot guarantee perfect results, he can help work out a pattern that will fit you more reliably than you can do alone, or with the help of anything I might write.

Security Crisis Faces Munsinger Hearing

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Munsinger inquiry hurtles into a crisis today as Tory counsel challenges the sources of RCMP reports on the German-born blonde.

The two main witnesses were to be RCMP Commissioner George McClellan and his predecessor, Clifford Harvison, who held the job while Gerda Munsinger was cutting a swath in Canada.

The inquiry will resume in public.

But commission counsel J. L. O'Brien has argued that a public hearing would not be "justified or feasible" as it relates to security matters.

Judge Wishart Spence is expected to clear the courtroom if the cross-examination of the two RCMP chiefs hits the sensitive area of anti-espionage work.

But cuonsel O'Brien has already given the Tory counsel an invitation to press on by disclosing all the important material from Gerda Munsinger's file.

Today, the expectation is that the inquiry will stay open, unless one of the cross-examining counsel moves into:

- The sources of information.
- The names of people who may have supplied information.
- The methods of surveillance.
- People who co-operated with the RCMP.

In these areas the judge is sure to be asked to close the inquiry to the public.

Neither McClellan nor Harvison made the investigations into Gerda.

And to answer these questions would disclose much about the techniques of other security forces, specifically in the U.S. and Germany.

Only One Hint

From reliable sources, it is learned that the bulk of the incriminating evidence about Gerda Munsinger has now been made known.

The suspicion about her security status in Canada is based on the befiel that the Russians, if she had worked for them before, would not give up their interest in her.

But the only hint, and one that is not taken seriously, lies in the fact that Gerda lived in an apartment in a block where a Russian trade official also had an apartment.

It now appears likely that John Diefenbaker, who has been accused of "mishandling" the case as prime minister, will not appear at the inquiry unless he volunteers to do so.

Mr. Justice Spence has blocked any attempt to force Mr. Diefenbaker, or his former justice minister, Davie Fulton, to testify.

The judge told the inquiry it would be "quite improper" to subpoena a member of the privy council (members and former members of governments).

Sources close to Mr. Diefenbaker claim he has not taken a decision on appearing.

His name, so far, has not appeared in any of the evidence.

At present, he is reported considering two courses:

- Would it be to his advantage to appear?
- As a former prime minister, what would be the lasting effect on such an action? No former prime minister has ever been brought before such an inquiry to explain or justify a decision while in office.

All the Facts

Mr. Diefenbaker is known to believe that only Parliament and the people can judge the actions of a prime minister.

The logic here is that only a prime minister has all the facts on which to make a judgment.

For example, if former associate defence minister Pierre Sevigny had an affair with Gerda, at some point Mr. Diefenbaker would have to decide if this was enough to merit his removal from office.

And no one, at any time, has suggested anything against Mr. Sevigny's patriotism. He lost a leg becoming a war here.

Commission counsel O'Brien has told the inquiry that the RCMP files show that Gerda was a common prostitute, petty thief, bad cheque artist and a one-time Communist spy who had an "illicit sexual relationship" with Mr. Sevigny.

The files also show that she was on first-name terms with George Hees, former Tory trade minister, and with an executive assistant to a Tory minister.

The RCMP cross-examination has to be completed today.

Mr. McClellan is leaving for Paris for an executive meeting of Interpol. He is a vice-president for North and South America.

Mr. Harvison was commissioner in December, 1960, when a police report was given Mr. Fulton, then justice minister, on the case.

(Mr. Fleming, at his own request, is to testify this week.)

Mr. McClellan became RCMP chief in November, 1963.

He was still commissioner when a second report was sent to Donald Fleming, Mr. Fulton's successor, in January, 1963.

Interview Pay Tax-Free

OTTAWA (CP) — Withholding tax wasn't deducted from CBC payments to Gerda Munsinger because her services weren't performed in Canada, Revenue Minister Benson told a laughing Commons Tuesday.

He said in reply to H. W. Herridge (NDP — Kootenay West) that the law on payment of withholding tax "only applies to services rendered in Canada."

Mrs. Munsinger, subject of a royal commission inquiry under Mr. Justice Wishart Spence of the supreme Court of Canada, received $5,000 from the CBC for appearing on a television interview in Munich, West Germany.

Coast Yards Not Bidding On Contracts

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Shipbuilders' Federation said Tuesday West Coast shipyards will not bid on two new federal government contracts because there is no hope B.C. would get even one of them.

Tenders have been called for two operational supply ships for the Royal Canadian Navy each to cost about $20,000,000, one of which is expected to join the Pacific fleet.

NO CHANCE

Federation chairman J. William Hudson said B.C. shipyards have no chance to win the contracts on a national bidding basis because of lower wages at eastern yards and higher freight costs on steel in the west.

He said it would cost a shipyard from $70,000 to $100,000 to prepare a bid and it was a foregone conclusion the contract would go to the east.

THROWN AWAY

"That is a lot of money to just throw away," Mr. Hudson said.

B.C. builders claim tenders should be confined to the area in which a ship is to operate.

Greeks Refuse Viet Nam Trip

HONG KONG (AP) — The Greek consulate said Tuesday that 20 of the 25 Greek seamen aboard the Cypriot freighter Antonio II had refused to sail the 7,302-ton ship to North Viet Nam. The seamen said the Greek government had forbidden Greek nationals from going to North Viet Nam.

Late Actor's Son Fights Clear Of Viet Cong Trap

SAIGON (UPI) — Sean Flynn, the combate photographer son of the late actor Errol Flynn, fought his way out of a Viet Cong ambush Monday night, it was disclosed Tuesday.

A Viet Cong ambush caught Flynn on patrol with a special forces group and Nungs, the Chinese mercenaries hired by the men in the Green Berets.

* * *

Flynn was marching near the head of the patrol, about 85 miles northeast of Saigon, when a Viet Cong machinegun opened fire at dusk at almost point-blank range.

"A nung lext to me fell, killed instantly," said young Flynn. "I was carryingg an M-16 rifle and I used it.

* * *

"It really shakes you up when you see those solid tracers pouring out of the muzzle and see the muzzle itself," Flynn said.

"I thought not only me but all of us were greased."

Flynn said he emptied his rifle at the Viet Cong.

"I don't know if I hit a Viet Cong but I tried," he said.

He said grenades finally routed the enemy.

It was a very special rifle Flynn fired. The men of a Green Beret "A" team presented him the rifle after its owner, their captain, was killed in action. The Green Berets said they thought the captain would have wanted the rifle to go to Flynn, who had been in combat twice with the team.

* * *

Flynn has been in Viet Nam three months, most of it with the Green Berets. Few civilians have spent so much time on combat patrols with the special forces as Flynn.

So said the noted writer, Sydney Smith in the early 19th century. Today, many still believe that good beer is a British art. It's certainly a British tradition. After all, Charrington Toby was first brewed over two hundred years ago, in 1757. Only recently have the Charringtons allowed Toby's recipe to leave the country. Firms Will Fix Car Faults

OTTAWA (CP) — General Motors Corp. will fix sticking accelerators in its Canadian-made 1964 and 1965 Chevrolets and Chevelles, Industry Minister Drury said Tuesday in the Commons.

He said no defects have been found in Canadian-made Ford and Chrysler cars.

The minister said corrective action will be taken by the three auto companies on faulty cars produced in the United States and sold in Canada.

He was replying to Howard Graftsey (PC — Brome - Missisquoi).

Mr. Drury also told Reid Scott (NDP — Toronto Danforth) that drafting of an auto safety code now is in progress.

Critics of Mercedes-Benz say that the 230S is "over engineered"—that it is better than it need be. Some facts:

The Mercedes-Benz 230S exists without fancy marketing plans or piles of sales research. Its destiny rests with engineers—just as it did in 1886, when Gottlieb Daimler and Karl Benz invented the automobile.

Fervent engineering research has earned Mercedes-Benz more than 5,200 patents. And produced a unique automobile.

In fact, David E. Davis Jr., Editor of Car and Driver, has said:

"You could be blindfolded, spun around three times and dropped into a Mercedes-Benz, and when you sat down you'd know it was a Mercedes-Benz."

Since 1901 Mercedes-Benz cars have gained 4,403 racing victories. They last entered international motor racing in 1954, competed for two seasons—and won two world championships.

Welded 10,000 times

The Mercedes-Benz 230S will not age to the tune of squeaks, groans or rattles. Its body is a rigid one-piece structure—welded at ten thousand points. It is remarkably strong and twist-resistant.

Perfectionists will search in vain for flaws between body panels. All outside body seams on the 230S are hand-ground, filled with pewter, ground again and polished.

The Mercedes-Benz body is actually a patented safety feature. Front and rear sections are designed to fold if hit in a crash. They act as a shock absorber to cushion shock before it reaches the passenger area.

Inside, door handles are recessed. Twelve danger spots are safety padded—including the steering wheel hub, instrument panel edges, even the window cranks.

The feel of quality

Example: The 230S uses a patented invention of Mercedes-Benz engineers—the single low-pivot swing rear axle.

First used on the Mercedes-Benz 300SLR sports racing car, the low-pivot swing axle gives the 230S an uncanny stability on rough roads, slippery roads, and during braking. Explanation:

The axle has two separate sections. These two halves move up and down independently. They swing on a single centre joint—or pivot. Here are two main advantages:

1. If one wheel hits a bump, the axle simply pivots on its joint—leaving the other wheel firmly anchored to the ground. (With the normal rigid, one-piece axle the rear wheels tend to bounce up and down together.)
2. In any car, when you brake hard, the rear end lifts. The wheels can lock—and skid. In a 230S, the swing axle keeps pushing the wheels down onto the road. They stay glued to the surface; braking is smooth and sure.

Automatic leveling

The 230S has another remarkable device invented by Mercedes-Benz engineers—a hydro-pneumatic load leveler. It actually pumps up the rear of the car—automatically.

No matter how many passengers you're carrying, or how much luggage you have in the trunk, the body stays level.

Because the load leveler compensates for such extreme conditions, springs and shock absorbers can be given a lighter, more delicate setting.

This means you get a smooth ride, without the pitching, swaying or wallowing that are the usual by-products of softness.

Stops without panic

The tough-minded Mercedes-Benz engineers think you should have more braking power than you need. The Mercedes-Benz 230S weighs 2,976 lbs.—one and a half tons. Its brakes could safely stop a car of twice the weight.

With disc brakes in front (where most of the car's weight is thrown in stopping) you face steep downhill curves or deep puddles in peace. No shuddering, no fade. And because front and rear brake systems are separately activated, you actually have two sets of brakes—as smooth as they are powerful.

"When you put the brakes on in a Mercedes-Benz, it still feels like you're putting the brakes on in an automobile—not turning a switch that's going to throw you out the windshield."—David E. Davis Jr.

Power without size

But consider this: it is possible to accelerate the 230S smoothly and rapidly up to 90 mph, stay there, and cruise for days on end without strain (roads and speed laws permitting).

Mercedes-Benz motor cars from $27,000 to $4,302.

Maybe you can afford a Mercedes-Benz without knowing it. Suggested retail prices* for 7 of the 15 Mercedes-Benz models:

600 Grand Mercedes 7-Passenger Limousine	$27,000
230SL Roadster	7,823
250S Sedan	6,275
230S Sedan	5,482
230 Sedan	4,642
200 Diesel Sedan	4,517

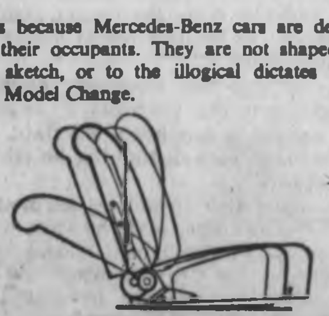
*F.O.B. Toronto. Provincial taxes extra.

The Mercedes-Benz 230S. Built to be driven—comfortably, safely and enjoyably for years and years.

Designed for people

The 230S is a surpassingly comfortable and roomy car. Despite far leaner outside dimensions, it actually provides more interior space than many seemingly larger cars.

That's because Mercedes-Benz cars are designed around their occupants. They are not shaped to a stylist's sketch, or to the illogical dictates of the Annual Model Change.



Reclining backrests. You drive, she sleeps.

The seats in Mercedes-Benz cars are designed by orthopedic physicians. They are firm seats—to prevent muscle cramp and fatigue, whether you drive 60 or 600 miles.

They are contoured to stop you from sliding around; they keep you cool through ventilation—and they never lull you to sleep.

The front seats also have backrests that recline to four positions. With the seat tilted far back, the front seat passenger can sleep in comfort while you drive.

Better yet, stop in at a Mercedes-Benz showroom. And see what it's like to drive a car that's built to be the best—not the best seller.

Strikes Legalized

THE PREPARATORY committee set up in 1963 to study and make recommendations on a collective bargaining system for Canada's 200,000 civil servants held the view that "third party arbitration should be the established method of resolving disputes" in this area and at the same time expressed the conviction that strike action would be inappropriate within the public service.

The government does not subscribe to this view. In legislation introduced on Monday it recognizes the right to strike by the civil service—except in cases where such service is "essential to the safety and security of the public."

The prime minister outlined the plan for compulsory arbitration, pointing out that there is no provision permitting the government to withdraw from an arbitration award. "Arbitration will be equally binding on employer or employee," the bill says.

But for the dissatisfied employees there is an escape route. The bill provides for an alternative method of dispute settlement—the strike.

The preparatory committee, it seems, would have given the cabinet the right to set aside arbitration awards in some situations. But the government view is that such an arrangement would have given the employer an "undue advantage."

Under the bill, in its present form, the advantage would appear to be all on the side of the public servant.

This is an observation rather than a criticism of the general proposal, which appears to find favor with all political elements. But to those who have felt for years that the strike was an outmoded, undesirable and costly method of settlement, this new legislation has disappointing implications. Apparently it is felt that the country has not yet progressed to the point where sensible men and women can sit down together, seeking a solution of grievances, and as a last resort refer their arguments to a court of arbitration.

There have been hopeful signs, from time to time, that private employers and their employees were coming closer together on this issue of tribunals for the settlement of disputes, and a circumvention of the old and damaging strike method. But with the government of Canada, as an employer, accepting the strike as the right of its employees, it is making the tacit admission that it cannot be trusted to act in the best interests of the civil service.

Surely, if ever an employer were in a position to be influenced by public pressures, it is the government. This is an elective, not an appointed body.

And surely at that level of our society might have been found a testing area for the more advanced conception of labor tribunals which, with the same integrity and dedication to justice as other courts of law, could have passed judgment on any matter in dispute, and so set an example to the nation.

Enjoying His Role

A NEWS NOTE from Ottawa cites Mr. Pearson as saying he enjoys being prime minister, which wouldn't be at all surprising. Most occupants of this office do, and certainly there is never any dearth of aspirants hoping to reach this political eminence.

Mr. Pearson was speaking on the occasion of reaching the age of 69 over the weekend, and one extends to him the congratulations normally due to all men on the turn-up of a birthday. In the personal sense the country will wish him continued good health and many more years of life.

Politically speaking of course his enjoyment of office will not be shared by the 60 per cent of the electorate who voted against both him and his party at last November's election, and who view his national leadership with legitimate disquiet. Few prime ministers also have been so afflicted by imbroglios affecting members of his cabinet, but Mr. Pearson has apparently risen above his embarrassments and is now in a cheerful mood.

It is not so long ago, however, even during his election campaign, that his attitudes suggested he had grown tired of holding the chief office of government and would rather welcome a relief from its cares.

He is running true to form, nevertheless, in expressing enjoyment of his position, even if the country would be much better off were he to make way for someone else. To be prime minister is to have status, prestige and an aura that flatters the ego, and there are few instances of prime ministers voluntarily resigning unless they have been defeated at the polls; or otherwise persuaded by their party to retire.

Mr. Pearson has fought four elections as leader of the Liberal party and in none of them has won a majority mandate from the nation, even if in the last two managing to become prime minister with a minority government.

None of this has seemingly daunted his pride or induced him to the conclusion he is scarcely an outstanding success as a political chieftain. He may possibly have his private doubts but he still enjoys being prime minister.

He is cited also as talking as though he will be around for some time, and the care with which opposition groups in Parliament ensure that they don't all vote against his government at one and the same time probably enables him to view his immediate political future with some complacency.

Laudable Decision

THE CITIES ARE far between that have in their bounds a waterway of the potential attractiveness and recreational usefulness of the Gorge, and thus there should be cheers from all parts of the Greater Victoria community for the decision to make a start this year, with an $86,000 expenditure by the Capital Improvement District Commission, on its long-awaited development and beautification.

"Start" is not a strictly accurate description, of course. to use it is to ignore the valuable work that has been done in the last decade or so including the Kinsman Gorge Park and, on the Saanich side, the park that extends from the old Craigflower school around to Gorge Road.

But it is a start nevertheless on what promises to be a regular, stage by stage program, which hopefully will see a shoreline park and promenade extended from Craigflower almost to the Tillicum Bridge, in conjunction with which Saanich will rebuild this section of Gorge Road.

For this, congratulations are in order to Reeve Curtis and his council colleagues who proposed the program, to the commission, and to the provincial government which will supply the funds.

Undying Friendship

Dearest, Oldest Ally

By CASSANDRA from London

OH no, I can't bear it. I can't bear it. Surely we are not preparing to fight "our oldest ally." Portugal.

Ever since I was knee high to the First World War I have been brought up on the historical marshmallow of "our oldest ally."

We have fought almost every two-legged nation in sight—Scots, Irish, Welsh, French, Germans, Danes, Spaniards, Italians, Americans, Russians, Chinese, Indians, South Africans, Greeks, Turks, Arabs, Jews, Bulgars, Scandinavians, Egyptians, Sudanese, Japanese, Kurds and, if there had been Wheys, why the Guards would have been up and at 'em.

But there is now a tendentious yarn, that I refuse to believe, that 10,000 British troops have been engaged in manoeuvres that could be a preliminary to a surprise operation against Rhodesia, which would necessarily involve "our oldest ally." Portugal.

* * *

This latest war game is called "Exercise Lifeline," which is a very skimmed-milk piece of nomenclature compared with the ones I used to take part in a quarter of a century ago, and which bore rousing martial names like "Vulcan" and "Titan."

I was in Catterick, I think, when "Vulcan" took place (or was it "Thunderbolt"?) and when we weren't painting the grey Yorkshire boulders Waitwith Camp green, we were being trained on the promise of having three-inch Crusader tank guns, which would cut through quarter-inch cardboard like hot knives through melted butter.

But although almost every nation on earth had its hand turned against us—not good old Portugal.

Not that "our oldest ally" didn't possess a vitally strategic material like bauxite, oil, ball-bearings or nickel without which the war would have fizzled out in defeat for the Allies in a very short time.

Portugal too had an important military strategic raw material if ever there was one.

Port.

* * *

Without this critical munition officers' messes would have ground to a halt and been starved of their life blood, and victory would have been won years earlier.

I have been checking up on the famous 600 years during which the Portuguese have been able to maintain their most unusual relationship with us—an undying friendship. Actually we have not legally been at each other's throats for only 578 years, so we've only got 22 years of unbearable serenity and peace to go.

It must be something that we and the Portuguese have in common. A love of democracy for instance—Dr. Salazar is the oldest tyrant in Europe, with 34 years of either saying yes or being clubbed. Even old Franco, that Democritias of the Iberian Peninsula, is a youthful Pericles compared with old liberty, fraternity and equality Salazar.

Apart from complete freedom of speech which allows you to scream your head off in solitary confinement, there is also complete freedom of religion in Portugal.

I shall quote you the guarantee:

"There is freedom of worship, with the exception of creeds deemed incompatible with morals and the life and physical integrity of the people. Roman Catholicism is the predominant faith."

Let me tell you how I once broke the 578 years of international cordiality with "our oldest ally."

* * *

Maybe it was a reprisal for not being allowed to land once on the island of Macao, which is near Hong Kong.

Macao was, in those days, a gambling hell full of sexual supermarkets.

They refused to let me land on the grounds that my passport was out of date, but a Portuguese immigration officer was franker:

He said, "We've got enough trouble here already."

But years later I had my own back. On one of those short cuts to New York we flew by jet to Idlewild, as it then was, by way of the Azores, and landed at Santa Maria at about 2 o'clock in the morning—a short cut of about an extra thousand miles.

There we went to the bar and I ordered a badly needed drink, proffering the barman a 10s. note.

He gave me change for a pound.

I drew his attention to the fact that he had done himself out of a ten bob note. He was furious and said that if anybody in Santa Maria knew the difference between a green British ten shilling sterling note and a brick-colored British pound note he was that man.

I collected all the ten bob notes I could from the passengers in exchange for quids and I have never had such a convivial and profitable evening.

It is the only time I've ever been knee deep in escudos.

* * *

THE decision to build 500-seater jet aircraft that will cross the Atlantic in six hours in great comfort with room to swing dozens of cats around is obviously, from the traveller's point of view, a much more sensible proposition than the 120-seater Concord, which will do the trip in about two-and-a-half hours with no room to swing even one small kitten around.

The new Boeing Whopper (this name is my copyright) will be far more spacious and comfortable than the Anglo-French projectile; it will be quieter, the sonic boom will not occur, and it will take off in a shorter distance.

There will be no radiation hazard, and no new metallurgical problems—the latest one I heard discussed in New York the other day was that metal shrinkage due to cooling from great heat, generated from extreme flying speed, might keep the Concord on the ground for two or three hours, before it resumed its normal size and proportions.

Lastly, and perhaps most important of all, fares will be reduced by about 35 per cent—the return trip to New York costing only £75.

The big snag that I see, is how to get out of a crashed Whopper that may well be on fire, with a mass of tangled wreckage and twisted seats all around you.

The new vast airliner will be the size of a small cinema or dance-hall, the exits will be tiny, and the distance to the ground about the height of a two-storey house.

I am all for the Whopper, but when it does come a purler, what a whopper that will be!

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . . ."

By TOM TAYLOR

A READER writes to our newspaper to say that yours truly was "off base" on two items appearing recently in this space, and expressing the hope that "some one will correct Mr. Taylor on these matters."

I am quite happy to apply such correction as may be necessary myself.

The first concerns the colloquial name pinned on that stretch of thoroughfare running from the top of Yates to the Oak Bay Junction, viz: the Dardanelles.

While observing that one scarcely ever hears this reference nowadays and that there must be a whole generation to whom it would be a foreign term, I said I assumed it got this name in 1915 at the time of the Gallipoli campaign.

* * *

In 1915 I was 6,000 miles and more away from Victoria and didn't know then that I'd ever be a citizen of this fair city; that being so, it was, I thought, a fair guess at the origin of the nickname. Otherwise it would seem strange that the name of this narrow and far-off Turkish strait would be borrowed for local use before it became a topic of wartime interest.

Our correspondent however writes that he was stationed at the Willows Camp with the 30th Battalion, CEF, in October 1914 and this civic roadway was known then as the Dardanelles.

On the other hand a colleague who is a native son has a different notion, inclining to the belief it was because the Gallipoli campaign of 1915 was of world-wide news impact that this stretch of Fort Street was so called.

Who am I to debate the question one way or another, and several inquiries made on the subject have drawn nothing but blanks. Perhaps some other readers have memories going that far back.

On the other item challenged by our correspondent — at least as far as the Canadian troops of the first war were concerned — I was certainly off base and had better get back safely to home plate.

* * *

This was the statement apropos the recent Ypres gathering of members of the local Red Chevron Association that the little inverted red V they had worn on their wartime sleeves denoted battlefield action in 1914; the chevrons of later years being blue in color.

Not so, writes our reader, "the first Canadian contingent wore the red chevron and they did not go to France until February 14, 1915."

That they did, as the vanguard of the soldiers Canada sent overseas in large numbers during 1914-18.

Probably I was led astray by thinking of the British soldier, who was not awarded the privilege of a red chevron unless he had been on the Western Front of that sanguinary conflict in 1914. As the secretary of the Red Chevron Association advises me, the right to wear a red V was granted to all Candian troops who left the country during that year.

But there it is, the chevron now accorded its right place, I hope.

And if my error has seemed to downgrade any Canadian soldier who didn't get across the English Channel within the first five months of the Great War, my humble apologies.

From the Scriptures

But when ye shall hear of wars and commotions, be not terrified: for these things must first come to pass; but the end is not by and by. — St. Luke, 21:9.

Washington Calling

Obstacles to a Fair Election

By MARQUIS CHILDS

TO get some idea of what it means to try to hold elections in Viet Nam, consider a historical analogy. Imagine that a proposal had been made in, say, 1863, to hold nation-wide elections in the United States to decide the future of the country at the height of America's Civil War.

While this analogy is far from exact, it suggests the overwhelming difficulties in the way of holding anything like a fair election which would express the will of a majority of the South Vietnamese people. The blood hatreds, the tribal and religious feuds go so deeply, that a choice made through the ballot box must seem all but impossible.

* * *

The Viet Cong have repeatedly practised the most savage reprisals, shooting down in village after village not only men but women and children. Terrorism has killed or maimed far more innocent Vietnamese than military or other forces engaged in the war.

American bombing in South Viet Nam has without doubt alienated many peasants and their families. Although the total of civilian casualties is hard to come by, it is far larger than the official figures. The indiscriminate use of napalm has done fearful harm to individuals and to whole villages. Viet Cong hideouts are inevitably near communities from which the Viet Cong can levy supplies and manpower.

Formidable as the obstacles are, there is a gleam of hope in the fact that Premier Ky has agreed to hold an election for a constituent assembly on August 15. As a partner in the war and in the search for peace, the United States must do everything possible to try to see that a reasonably fair election is held. In that light, a proposal by Senator Albert Gore, a Tennessee Democrat, deserves serious consideration.

* * *

Gore proposed in a speech on the Senate floor that the United States join with South Viet Nam in calling for a cease fire for a two-week period leading up to the election. Obviously elections cannot be held, except in very limited areas, if the fighting goes on. The chances for a cease fire, as other senators pointed out, are virtually zero.

But if the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam rejected such an appeal, this would be evidence that they do not want free elections. Gore noted that he had been the first to propose a call for negotiation early in 1965. This was three months before President Johnson made his Johns Hopkins speech calling for discussions looking to a negotiated settlement of the war. That speech and the peace offensive of December and January helped to persuade the world that the United States wanted peace while the Communists rejected any and all overtures. Gore reported that at the recent conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union in Canberra, Australia, this conviction was strongly evident.

The political upheaval in Viet Nam was a direct outgrowth of the Honolulu conference; and, since that conference was initiated by the United States, there is all the more reason to give quiet background help toward a satisfactory way out. The meeting in Honolulu can be taken as a classic example of how not to conduct diplomatic negotiations with the uncertain government of a state that is weak and dependent.

* * *

To begin with, that meeting—no matter how long the president may have had it in the back of his mind—seemed to have been hastily improvised. It posed as equals Ky, the head of a military directory with little or no popular support in Viet Nam, and the president of the most powerful nation in the world—a fiction that could not deceive anyone. Voices had been raised to suggest that the conference be enlarged, with representatives of other Asian countries having a direct role in Viet Nam or a vital concern in the outcome of the conflict.

But that would have taken careful and extended preparation. In the outcome, the Johnson bear hug was too much for Ky. It underscored his dependence on Washington and his lack of any popular following at home. It might have come in any event, but Honolulu made the Buddhist uprising inevitable.

Perhaps the strongest plank in American policy in Viet Nam is its expressed determination to prevent the Communists from imposing a government on South Viet Nam by force and violence. This, of course, is what the Communists mean to do with the help of an undetermined volume of support from within the country.

Increasingly, however, it must look to the Vietnamese as though Washington meant to impose—despite a disclaimer every other day—a government bearing its own stamp of approval. That was part of the damage done by the Honolulu embrace. History shows not a single instance of an invading army—no matter how beneficent the reason for the invasion—being able to impose a government on an unwilling people. That was what America's own revolution was all about.

So with careful and not too obvious help, the election may precede light at the end of the tunnel. At the same time, it cannot be ignored that the odds probably favor more chaos and confusion.

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A force of 1,811 Americans landed at York (now Toronto) 153 years ago today in 1813 — and the out-numbered British garrison withdrew. The town was sacked and the Parliament buildings burned down. It was in reprisal for this that Washington was occupied four months later and the public buildings there put to the torch. Despite these events, wholesale destruction was not regarded as legal warfare in those days.

1838 — The Royal William, the first Canadian Atlantic steamer, was launched.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1916 — martial law was proclaimed throughout Ireland when the importance of the Easter Rising was recognized; a British battleship hit a mine in the Mediterranean and sank with the loss of 124 lives.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1941 — German troops occupied Athens; Canadian-trained airmen and Canadian army units arrived in England; the production of the Typhoon fighter was announced; Axis columns probed across the Egyptian frontier.

Japan's Security Treaty

By STUART GRIFFIN
from Tokyo

A MYTH is being propagated by the shrill voice of the Japanese left-wing opposition. It is that 1970 will be the year of the crisis and confrontation between themselves ("democratic and peace-loving forces") and the conservative Government party ("reactionary forces.")

Behind this myth is the popular belief that in 1970 Japan's Security Treaty with the United States will automatically expire. Then, says the Left, Japan will be free of ties to the United States and "sovereign and independent for the first time in the post war era."

Already the catchword is that 1970 will be the "Year of ampo sailaitei" (revision of the Security Treaty); to prevent that revision the Left is now building up the myth of imminent crisis.

There are signs, however, that the myth-builders toil under a misconception and are not deliberately striving to mislead ordinary Japanese into a belief that the nation faces irreparable disaster unless citizens soon vote Socialist or Communist. Left-wing publications already speak of June 1970 as the focal month, and even predict that the showdown will have a specific date — June 19.

The treaty — in full, the Treaty of Mutual Co-operation and Security — was ratified by the Diet (Japan's all-important Lower House) on June 19, 1960, to the accompaniment of violent demonstrations by the Left. It came into force on June 23 when U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II and Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama exchanged instruments of ratification. Since then the Left has consistently demonstrated against the treaty — when U.S. submarines arrive in Japan, when bombers first took off from Okinawa for Viet Nam, and, most recently, through fear that the treaty would lead to Japanese participation in the Viet Nam war.

Demonstrations aimed at the end of the treaty, however, are misconceived. Under its Article 10, two conditions alone exist by which the treaty may be terminated. one is that the United Nations becomes an effective enforcer of global peace so as to "satisfactorily provide for the maintenance of international peace and security in the Japan area;" the other is that either party may end the pact following a year's notice after the treaty has been in force for 10 years.

The treaty cannot be abrogated until mid-1971, therefore. And if neither Japan nor the United States wishes to alter the mutual defence agreement as of mid-1970, neither is required to take any action.

As one shrewd analyst points out: "The anti-treaty leftist elements projected ahead into 1970 thus will encounter a situation which will be the reverse of 1960."

In 1960 the Left was striving to keep the government from acting on the treaty. In 1970, the Left will have to force the government to act, which will prove far more difficult. In 1970 there will have to be no journey to Washington by the Japanese prime minister in order to keep the treaty alive, and thus no opportunity for the Japan Students' Federation to try to prevent him going, as they did at Tokyo International Airport in 1960.

Modifications to the treaty may come in 1970 and even abrogation is a possibility, though hardly a likely one in the estimate of government officials. But one fact is undisputed: the Left notwithstanding, the security treaty does not automatically end in 1970.

Italy Contemplates

Easier Adoption

By THOMAS LAND from Rome

PARLIAMENT here is considering a private members' bill which could alter the lives of some 300,000 children now facing the prospect of being brought up in orphanages.

Illegitimate children in North America are often given up for adoption to foster parents carefully vetted by social agencies. Not so in this country. They are whisked away to overcrowded institutions while countless couples would be only too willing to bring them up as their own — had it not been an invitation to blackmail.

For the law lays down that, "Adoption is not a remedy for irregular situations, but an institution intended to keep alive the traditions, property and family ties of a line doomed to extinction owing to lack of progeny."

Thus the adopted child can be legally reclaimed by his natural mother, even after decades of silence. And since the child is bound by the law financially to support his natural parents if the need arises, would-be foster parents are deterred from a legal relationship which might one day turn into a heavy liability.

But this is not all. The law provides that the adopter must be at least 50 years old; it prohibits him from adopting more than one child (except when several children are adopted at the same time); and it precludes the adoption of one's own illegitimate offspring.

Couples applying for legal approval for adoption must sign a form testifying that the chosen child "has long been a visitor to their house, consoling them with his company for the loneliness in which they live." It is difficult for a couple to sign such a statement when they may have seen the child only a few times in an orphanage.

The explanation for the law is to be found in the purpose for which adoption was established in this country. The law dates back to the days when adoption was used merely to save wealthy, childless families from extinction. Its scope is clearly far too limited to serve the needs of modern Italy.

One of the greatest faults of the Adoption Act lies in its breeding of blackmail. The usually strong relationships developing between the adopters and the adopted can be easily exploited here by an unscrupulous mother empowered to take back her child.

The bill seeking to bring the law up to date is sponsored by a group of women MPs. They believe that within four years after its passing, some 80 per cent of Italy's orphanages would be closed forever.

Predictably, it has opened wide public discussions. And while the talks go on, abandoned children are being sent at a rate of 30,000 a year to orphanages where they may become emotionally crippled for life.

Children Taught to Think

School Methods Look to Next Century

By BILL STAVDAL
Third of a Series

A disturbing theme keeps pushing into the conversation of thoughtful teachers and educators.

It's the simple but awesome fact that the education children are getting today must carry them well into the 21st century.

No one pretends to know what that world will be like, but there is a growing feeling that a mid-20th-century education won't be good enough then.

Worth Little

Thirty-five years from now, the facts memorized in 1966 may not be of much use. If a man hasn't been trained to continuous learning so he can adapt to change, he won't be worth as much to an employer.

It has become increasingly evident that survival of Canada as an independent nation will rest on the calibre of its citizens' education.

And so elementary pupils are getting more attention than before. It's been realized that if qualities of adaptability and independent, original thinking are to be developed, the process must begin early.

"The basis of instruction is to make the child discover for himself," says Harold O'Donnell, director of elementary instruction for the Greater Victoria School District.

Social Studies

The challenge of classroom education is vividly apparent in today's social studies classes. The subject (studied separately as history and geopgraphy by old-timers) is regarded as "lessons in living" by Floyd Brooks, a veteran social studies teacher at Willows Elementary School in Oak Bay.

Two or three decades ago youngsters might have learned that Vancouver was a large city on the west coast of Canada. Today they discover why a city grew on Burrard Inlet.

A teacher might have pointed out Moscow and left it at that. Today the kids may learn the geography of Russia and then be asked to deduce Moscow's climate.

"I try to teach history in terms of lessons we can use today," says Mr. Brooks, who is the author of an introduction to history and geography used in this district.

'Why?'

Recently he outlined the career of Alexander the Great to his Grade 7 class. He traced the epic march of Alexander and his army through Persia, India and Egypt, then asked:

"Why did he do it?"

Personal ambition by Alexander was the answer the 12-year-olds came up with, after an informal discussion. Mr. Brooks followed up with highlights of Alexander's troubled youth in Macedon and his bloody family life.

Mr. Brooks' method of teaching isn't brand new, of course. Good teachers did the same thing years ago. The difference today is that this approach to education has been sanctified and encouraged by the department of education.

Visible Terms

Remember having to memorize the definition of strait, peninsula, isthmus and so on? At least one Grade 4 classroom here has the land forms cut out of colored paper, pasted on a contrasting background with the appropriate term beneath. The whole assortment is tacked to the wall for ready reference.

Because children are being asked to discover more for themselves, they are given the tools at an early age.

In Grades 1 and 2 they begin learning about the world around them in terms of their own neighborhood. They read stories about the milkman, the policeman and grocer.

First Look

In Grade 3 they start acquiring an understanding of the atlas, of map-reading, scale and elevation. They take their first look at foreign lands.

Grade 4 youngsters run through a simple survey of Canadian geography. Grade 5 children do more of the same, plus Central and South America.

In Grade 6 they move on to regional studies of Europe, Asia and Africa.

Work on Own

In succeeding grades, the teacher gradually does less direct instruction, allowing pupils more time for work on their own. In Grades 4 and 5 he may be teaching 75 per cent of the time, but by Grade 7, social studies classes are spending 75 per cent of ther time in semi-independent research.

In these periods, and in homework, they produce detailed, illustrated workbooks focussing on one topic. One youngster chose the seven wonders of the ancient world; another examined the personalities of the Greek gods.

Enthusiastic as many teachers are, it's hard to find one who thinks the system can't be improved. One Victoria teacher would prefer to have some aspects of history taught by topic rather than chronologically.

Fresh Air

He would like to deal with the evolution of Parliament and the growth of democracy as whole subjects. Instead, they are apt to be touched on from time to time amid other details.

Even so, both teachers and primary pupils seem to be breathing deep of the fresh air blowing through social studies.

"The advent of good books, good libraries, wonderful TV, has changed things," observes Willows teacher Patricia Hamlet, a woman of electrifying enthusiasm.

"There's been a definite increase in interest in social studies in the past six or seven years," says Mrs. Hamlet.

TV Helping

"Ten or 15 years ago, you couldn't get girls interested. Today the books are better and they're doing more."

Mrs. Hamlet has no worry about TV.

"They read more with TV, not less," she believes. "They see it on TV and they can't wait to get a book and learn more."

One reason is the increase in number and quality of educational movies, Mrs. Hamlet thinks.

"We have marvellous films nowadays, both commercial and from the National Film Board. Even slow learners sit there enthralled at educational cartoons."

Models

Another method of making education a living thing is by means of lifelike models, supplied by the school board's curriculum and special services department.

"Mind you, it counts for a great deal if the child is interested, and that's where the parent comes in," says Mrs. Hamlet.

Parents can broaden their children's vision with little things like a trip to the docks, the parks, the provincial museum.

It may be as simple as not objecting to having the kitchen windowsill covered with saucers for a week while a primary schooler evaporates salt crystals.

Reflections

If parents are alive to the world around them, if they talk with their children instead of hiding behind the newspaper, if they push ideas out for young minds to chew on, it shows up in achievement.

"Parents would be surprised if they realized how their children reflect what they are," says Mrs. Hamlet.

'Not Unhappy'

Saanich to Study Fire Department

Future expansion of Saanich fire department will be studied in a survey this spring, fire committee chairman Alan Newberry said Tuesday.

"There is nothing to suggest that council is unhappy with the department," Coun. Newberry said. "This will not be a personnel investigation but a survey made to blueprint future expansion of both equipment and personnel.

"Saanich is growing rapidly, and with more houses being built all the time there is more chance of fire."

He said the survey would be done by the B.C. fire marshall or some other qualified person outside the municipal satff.

Coun. Newberry said the survey was planned after Saanich Fire Chief Joseph Sutherland recommended an increase in staff at the administrative level.

"The findings of the survey are expected to be known by early summer," Coun. Newberry said, "From then on, any action we may take will be based on a professional survey of the department's needs, rather than various opinions made at any given moment."

Council has allocated $2,000 in this year's budget for the survey.

'Could Be Better Used'

Refundable Tax Hit

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Money that might be more profitably used to increase Canada's export potential is to be put into an idle government fund, says J. V. Clyne, chairman of MacMillan Bloedel Ltd.

Mr. Clyne at the annual meeting in Vancouver said the new 5 per cent tax which will eventually be returned to the corporations paying it, is designed to slow down expansion.

For companies like MacMillan which exports 75 per cent of its production, the temporary loss of the five per cent profits was tying up funds that could be used to help reduce Canada's adverse balance of international payments, and Mr. Clyne did not think this made good sense.

COMMITTED

He also pointed out that MacMillan was particularly hard hit by the refundable tax because it was already committed by contract to expenditures this year of $106,000,000—largely at Powell River.

He hoped the Finance Minister would find some method to exempt from the tax those companies which had become committed to development before the budget date.

"While inflationary controls are admittedly vital," said Mr. Clyne, "the government must be aware it has also, quite properly, dubjected industry to incessant pressure to increase the country's exports."

Even with "slow down" threats by the federal and provincial governments to prevent inflationary pressures, Ocean Cement and Supplies Ltd. is looking to another boom year in B.C.'s construction industry.

W. F. Foster, president, at the annual general meeting in Vancouver this week said that while 1965 was a very satisfactory year for his company, 1966 had started even better with increased sales and profits for the first quarter.

He expects the pace to continue even although labor troubles are threatening the construction industry, and tight money may hold back many proposed projects.

"There is a tremendous amount of work to be done in B.C.," he said. "Such things as the proposed re-planning of various sections of Vancouver, the new First Narrows crossing and approaches and the CPR program for changing the Vancouver waterfront may not be started this year, but there are many other large projects to be undertaken."

Recent purchases of plants in Prince George and Kamloops had put the Ocean into two fast-growing Interior communities, he added.

MONTREAL CLEARS AIR

A giant garbage incinerator to cost $8,700,000 has been ordered by the City of Montreal to combat the city's air pollution problem.

The incinerator will burn 1,200 tons of rubbish a day without, it is claimed, noise, dust, odor or visible smoke from its chimneys.

To be manufactured and erected by Dominion Bridge, it will produce from its boilers 3,600,000 pounds of steam to be used by local industry at an estimated worth of $400,000 a year.

Two leading Canadian oil companies narrowly escaped a charge of collusion when they submitted identical bids for an oil and gas permit in NWT.

B-A Oil and Pacific Petroleums each bid $157,425 for a 314,850-acre block.

They were fortunately able to show that their price was based on 50 cents an acre—a normal way of tendering by oil companies.

After the explanation was accepted by the government department it was agreed that they would share the property as a joint venture.

DIRECTOR

Museum of Science and Technology
OTTAWA

UP TO $20,000

The National Museum of Canada is inaugurating a new branch which will be devoted to science and technology with special, but not exclusive, reference to Canadian contributions and developments. This, the third branch of the museum, will complement the work of the branches concerned with Natural History and Human History. As its nucleus it has the National Aviation Museum and a small volume of other technological display material.

The role of the new director will involve the development of concepts for the new museum, the formulation of policy, and the planning of physical plant. He will analyze the museum's needs for staff and assist in selection of specialists required to carry out progressively the various research and display projects.

The new director must have qualifications that will command recognition and respect in the academic and museum communities. He should also possess outstanding creative attributes with a reputation for carrying projects through all phases from concept to completion. He must have an interest in, and capacity for, realistic planning in a complex technological work area. Further, he must be competent to direct staff in the preparation of materials for public consumption as well as in the preparation of written material for the technical, historical and research community. His knowledge and interest in Canadian science and technology will be an important attribute.

The performance of the duties of this position requires a knowledge of the English language but a knowledge of both English and French will be considered an asset in the assessment of candidates.

If you are interested and consider you possess the qualities required for this position, please submit your resume of education (including curriculum vitae) and experience to PROGRAM DIRECTOR, APPLIED SCIENCES, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION OF CANADA, OTTAWA 4, ONTARIO. Please quote File reference 66-2088.

Turnover 'Normal'

Commission Lacking Internal Difficulties

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said Tuesday there is no internal difficulty in the B.C. Securities Commission, from which several men have resigned in recent months.

Latest to leave will be Don Fast, of Vancouver, a special investigator who announced Monday he will resign and enter private business, after serving for more than five years with the commission.

The attorney-general said, "I don't think the turnover is particularly high. It has been coincidental, though.

"We had a young lawyer go into private practice and we had another chap who was approaching retirement go into private business."

Mr. Bonner said he thinks the turnover of staff is "a sign of the times. This is going on all the time in government service, and in times of extreme bouyancy the trend is accentuated."

Work of the Securieties Commission will not be interrupted because another man has already been found to replace Mr. Fast, but his name will not be announced until deputy attorney-general Gilbert Kennedy returns from Ottawa, he said.

Richardson Elected

Dr. Harvey Richardson was re-elceted president of the Victoria branch of the World Federalists of Canada at the group's annual meeting Monday.

The gathering, held in St. John Ambulance Hall, also elected Ranjit Singh Azad as vice-president.

Other members of the executive are Cmdr. B. W. Fairweather, treasurer; Miss Margaret Hincks, secretary; Miss Gerri Brown, membership secretary; Mrs. B. J. Scott, chairman of the finance committee; D. S. Prosser, chairman of the program committee.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY AUTHORITY

NOTICE OF HEARING

PROPOSAL FOR REVISION OF TOLLS

1. NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING: Notice is hereby given that The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority will conduct a hearing on a proposed revision of the charges in the St. Lawrence Seaway Tariff of Tolls Schedule, as established in 1959. The proposal is put forward by the Authority and the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation of the United States of America following a study of estimated future traffic and a general review of the sufficiency of present tolls. The hearing will be held at the Supreme Court Building, Wellington Street, Ottawa, beginning at 10:00 a.m. on May 25, 1966, and continuing in daily session from 10:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. (E.D.S.T.) until concluded, subject to being recessed from day to day or otherwise at the discretion of the Authority.

2. SUBJECT MATTER OF THE HEARING: The subject of the hearing will be the rates of charges for transit of the Seaway. The Authority and the Corporation have agreed, for the purpose of the hearing, to propose a revision of charges, which will be subject thereafter to joint review to determine the extent to which the proposal will form the basis of recommendations to the Governments of Canada and of the United States of America. The proposed revision would become effective at the opening of the 1967 navigation season for a period of 5 years and is as follows:

SCHEDULE

	TOLLS Montreal to or from Lake Ontario Payable 72% in Canadian dollars, 28% in U.S. dollars	Lake Ontario to or from Lake Erie Welland Canal payable in Canadian dollars
1. For transit of the Seaway, a composite toll, comprising	$	$
(a) a charge per gross registered ton, according to the national registry of the vessel, applicable whether the vessel is wholly or partially laden, or is in ballast	.04½
(b) a charge per ton of cargo, as certified on ships manifest or other documents as follows:
(i) bulk cargo restricted to listed commodities in lots of 100 tons or more	.44	.02	(suspended)
(ii) general cargo	1.00	.05	"
(c) a charge per passenger	4.00	4.00	"
(d) subject to the preceding provisions of this item, minimum charges shall be:
(i) Pleasure Craft	21.00	24.00
(ii) Other Vessels	35.00	40.00

2. For partial transit of the Seaway:
   (a) Between Montreal and Lake Ontario, in either direction, 15 per cent per lock of the toll under item 1, with a charge of $3.00 per lock for pleasure craft transits and $5.00 per lock for transit of other vessels.
   (b) Between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie (Welland Canal), in either direction, 50 per cent of the toll under item 1, provided that no toll will be assessed unless at least one lock is transited, with a minimum charge of $12.00 for pleasure craft transits and $20.00 for the transit of other vessels. No toll will be assessed for transits of Lock 1 of the Third Welland Canal at Port Dalhousie.

3. Welland Canal, lockage charge—applicable in lieu of Lake Ontario-Lake Erie charges per gross registered ton:

	1967	1968	1969	1970	1971
Cargo or Passenger Vessel, per lock	$20	$40	$60	$80	$100

3. FUTURE TRAFFIC ESTIMATES, TOLL REQUIREMENTS AND ANNUAL TRAFFIC REPORT: Copies of the Summary of Future Traffic Estimates and Toll Requirements, prepared by the Seaway Entities on the basis of their joint review of the sufficiency of Seaway tolls, and the Annual Traffic Reports of the St. Lawrence Seaway may be obtained by writing to The Secretary, the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, 396 Cooper Street, Ottawa 4, Ontario.

4. PRESENTATION OF ORAL TESTIMONY: Persons or organizations desiring to present oral testimony at the hearing shall submit their Notice of Appearance (in 10 legible copies), prior to May 16, 1966, to The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, 396 Cooper Street, Ottawa 4, Ontario (Attention: Secretary). The Notice of Appearance shall include the name and address of the party to be represented and of the person who will appear as a witness, an estimate of the time to be requested for oral presentation, and, if not accompanied by a written brief, it shall include a summary statement of the party's interest in the subject matter of the hearing and of the position to be taken.

5. SUBMISSION OF WRITTEN BRIEFS: Persons or organizations who do not desire or will be unable to be heard orally may present views, data or argument on the subject matter of the hearing by filing written briefs (in 10 legible copies) with the Authority at Ottawa prior to May 25, 1966.

6. SUPPLEMENTARY STATEMENTS: Within 10 days after the close of the hearing, supplementary statements or arguments may be filed (in 10 legible copies) with the Authority.

7. HEARING TRANSCRIPT: A transcript of the hearing will be made for the use of the Authority. Copies of the transcript and of written briefs will be available for sale to interested parties.

L. R. BELAND, Secretary.

$764,250 Paid

No Tuna, No Jobs

Subsidies Sailed Away with Seiner

By PAUL DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal transport and fisheries departments paid $764,250 in subsidies for construction of the tuna seiner Golden Scarab and that's about the last Canada saw of her.

Lloyd R. Crouse (PC—Queens - Lunenburg) detailed this history of the vessel with the exotic name for the Commons fisheries committee Tuesday, then rattled a series of questions at Dr. A. W. H. Needler, deputy fisheries minister.

Mr. Crouse had learned Scarab Fishing Ventures Ltd. had received $764,250 for construction of the Golden Scarab from the federal departments. However:

- No tuna had been landed by the vessel in Canada since its launching more than a year ago.
- Only one Canadian in a crew of 13 was known to be employed on the vessel (although the ship left the Maritimes on its maiden voyage with a Canadian crew, it completed one voyage, then dropped the Canadians and hired Mexican and Puerto Rican fishermen.
- The fisheries department paid the Scarab firm $25,000 in a special subsidy, because the firm is to construct a tuna processing plant in southern New Brunswick and to build three 210-foot tuna trawlers in Canada to supply the plant.

"What safeguards are being set up to protect the Canadian taxpayer from exploitation of this kind?" asked Mr. Crouse.

NORTHERN U.S.

A. M. A. McLean (L—Charlotte) said he understood the Scarab firm was constructing a processing plant in the northern U.S. and wondered if the Canadian plant would benefit from future tuna fishing.

Dr. Needler said he shared Mr. Crouse's concern "about the financing of processing plants." However, his department was "not the principal agency of government" concerned in the case mentioned.

The Scarab subsidies were almost all from other departments. The $25,000 from the fisheries department was "on a value received basis." Department personnel had used the ship's accommodations and its record, on research work.

The fisheries department had considered imposing "some conditions regarding crewing to assure that vessels are manned at least by people living in the Canadian fishing community."

He believed the manning situation on the Scarab would change "when the vessels have a home plant in Canada." The company had to fish tropical waters to get economical tuna catches.

Mr. Crouse said the government must insist subsidized ships are "crewed by Canadians."

Passion for Checkers Costs Woman $2,900

TORONTO — An 80-year-old Toronto woman's passion for playing checkers cost her nearly $3,000.

Two youths visited Edith McCullough at her home and while one matched her at checkers the other stole $2,900 from cannisters she kept in a cupboard.

Sequel to the game was an appearance in court of two Toronto truck drivers, Glenn Sydney Palmer, 16, and Thomas Richard Wilcox, 17.

Court was told the two youths learned of the old woman's money from a juvenile who claimed he had earlier taken $500 during a checker game.

The juvenile introduced the new checker players to the woman but later told police of the ruse.

Magistrate P. J. Bolsby place Palmer on probation and ordered him to repay $25 a week for 14 months as his share of the loot.

Wilcox—now serving two months in jail for driving while his operator's licence was suspended—was ordered to appear May 30 for sentencing.

Oil Lift To Zambia Near End

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian oil lift from The Congo to Zambia will end Saturday, it was learned Tuesday.

Informants said Zambia now is getting enough petroleum products by overland routes to make the RCAF airlift no longer necessary.

Starting Dec. 30, RCAF Hercules transport planes made three flights a day from Leopoldville, The Congo, to Lusaka and Ndola in Zambia.

Spotted by Students

Flying Object Seen Over City

An unidentified flying object was spotted by two city teenagers over Victoria Monday night.

Pat Hamilton, 15, 1448 Taunton, and Mike Woods, 14, 2587 Vancouver, both students at St. Louis College, said they spotted the object at about 8:30 p.m.

"We were on Taunton talking about flying saucers," said Pat. "We looked up and saw this object travel in an arc across the sky from the direction of Port Angeles.

NOT STAR

"It was a bit bigger than a softball and turned color from green to blue to a very whitish blue," said Pat.

"I'm sure it wasn't an aircraft, and it definitely wasn't a shooting star," said Mike.

"The shooting stars I've seen usually have something like sparks coming out behind them," he added.

"I didn't believe in them before," said Mike, "but I'm not so sure now."

Do you have to wear a tattoo to enjoy Old Style Beer?

Let's put it this way. You should be the type who has thought of it. At least once. Because Old Style is not for the faint of heart. There's a tang of manly adventure – a hint of old deviltries – in every golden drop of this boldly brewed beer. Is that your style? Then you don't need a tattoo. You're already marked as an Old Style man.

String of Canadiana Next for Sidney Publisher

* * *

Journalist, Cowboy Featured

* * *

By TIM GLOVER

The memoirs of one of the last Canadian crusading journalists, the life and times of a Cariboo Cowboy, and an all-Canadian edition of R. B. Patterson's The Dangerous River, will be put out by Sidney publisher Gray Campbell before Sept. 1.

"It's all very exciting," said Mr. Campbell, who entered the publishing field in 1962. "By Sept. 1 we will have published 13 books here."

Mr. Campbell broke into the big-time publishing field with No Man Stands Alone, the story of Arctic nurse Amy V. Wilson.

NEW EDITION

The book, which was rejected by Toronto publishers, was a sellout. Mr. Campbell said a new edition would be available in hard covers May 16.

"I have just heard that a ship carrying the books will be arriving in Victoria May 16. This will meet lot of requests I have had from people."

Being printed at the moment are the memoirs of Charles A. Bowman, who for 30 years was editor of the Ottawa Citizen.

Mr. Bowman, who lives in retirement at Wellington, near Nanaimo, is regarded as one of the last of Canada's crusading editors.

His editorials frequently got him into trouble with the establishment, and The Citizen during his editorship was involved in frequent legal actions.

CARIBOO WRITER

A forward to the book has been written by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside.

Scheduled for publication on June 1 is an all-Canadian edition of R. B. Patterson's The Dangerous River. Published first by Allen and Unwin in London, and then by Sloane in New York, this edition has been produced entirely on Vancouver Island.

Type is at present being set for Cariboo Cowboy written by Harry Marriot.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY

Mr. Marriot is something of a legend north of Cache Creek. Arriving with the first horse-drawn wagons to travel up the Cariboo Trail, he has spent more than 40 years cowpunching his way around the huge ranches of the Chilcotin.

Mr. Marriot, who lives in retirement at Big Bar Lake, was persuaded to write his autobiography after a fall from a horse cut short his colorful career.

He sat down with a pencil and a supply of school copy books and wrote the book. He they carefully transcribed the manuscript in pen and ink, and a team of friends typed the completed work for submission to Mr. Campbell.

ADVENTURE

"I am hoping for big things from this book," said Mr. Campbell. "Mr. Marriot is a cousin fo Eric Collier who wrote the best seller, Three Against the Wilderness, and I feel this work has the same adventure people like to read."

Museum Thief Drops Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — The normal quiet of the Metropolitan Museum of Art was shattered as guards chased a young man fleeing with a Gainsborough painting. The thief dropped the 18th century miniature and disappeared. The painting was recovered undamaged. Museum officials identified the Gainsborough as A Portrait of Lady Mulgrave.

COINS RING HEAVY

China Charges U.S. Intrusion

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China issued its 401st "serious" warning about alleged U.S. military "provocations" against Communist China, Peking radio reported. The Reds charged that a U.S. warship "intruded" in Chinese waters and that a U.S. military plane "violated China's airspace" on three occasions, the broadcast said.

Statutory Pay

Holiday Rule Beneficial To Thousands

By JACK FRY
Legislative reporter

Thousands of workers in British Columbia not covered by union contracts are expected to benefit from proposed regulations under which employers would have to pay wages for eight statutory holidays a year.

Deputy labor minister William Sands, chairman of the Board of Industrial Relations, will hold a series of four public hearings in the province before the regulations are brought in. The hearings will be held at Vancouver on May 24, Kelowna on May 30, Nelson on June 2 and Prince George on June 20.

MAIL SUBMISSIONS

Bill 38, passed at the last session of the legislature, gives the Board of Industrial Relations the authority to bring down the holiday pay order after the hearings are held.

Anyone who wishes to file a written submission about the question of holiday pay for emplyees can mail it to the chairman of the board, in care of the department of labor in Victoria.

A B.C. Federation of Labor official in Vancouver said Tuesday that the federation is "definitely in favor of paid staturtory holidays" for workers in B.C.

He said that while the group's officers have not yet discussed the question of the forthcoming hearings, the federation will probably submit a brief when the first hearing is held in Vancouver.

Labor Minister Peterson explained Tuesday that the paid holidays will not make a great impact on those industires which are organized and have statutory holidays recognized in their contracts.

"However, for those who do not now have statutory holidays this legislation will be welcomed by them. I would say many thousnads of workers in British Columbia will benefit from this legislation," he said.

The statutory holidays for which the workers, many of them in the retail trades, are to be paid under the scheme include New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day Thanksgiving, Remembrance Day and Christmas.

The change would not apply to farming and horticultural operations, domestice service in a private residence or any employee qualified in a profession, trade or calling who is licensed under professional statutes.

Woman Burned

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Mrs. Edith Hunter survived an explosion which destroyed her $35,000, 36-foot cruiser at the Thunderbird marina here.

She struck a match to light the propane gas heater and everything blew up. Mrs. Hunter received burns to her hair, face and hands.

He Learns While He Earns
TEEN AGE BUSINESSMAN Chooses own BOARD OF DIRECTORS
There's one very good reason why Ted is such a successful newspaperboy. When he first started organizing his own business, Mother and Dad agreed to act as an informal board of directors. Now the three of them hold frequent conferences and discuss better ways of serving regular customers and of obtaining new ones. From Ted's standpoint, this arrangement has been a real help. He can see it in the size of his bank account. His parents can see other advantages. First, it brings the family group close together in a worthwhile activity. Second, it has convinced them, as parents, that the business education which Ted is receiving on his route is just as significant, in its way, as lessons learned at home and at school.

with a NEWSPAPER BUSINESS of his own and his parents behind him a GREAT FUTURE lies ahead

By JIM TANG

It came out the way it should have come out. The two best clubs in the Western Hockey League, Victoria Maple Leafs and Portland Buckaroos, are to meet in the final, starting here Saturday night.

The Leafs made it last night by out-gaming San Francisco Seals, 6-1, in the seventh game of their semi-final, in one of the most satisfactory victories any of the 4,850 fans ever watched.

With at least four players on the limp and giving away youth to the Seals, the Leafs just went out and made King Clancy, assistant manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, look like a seer without peer.

THEY LAUGH

"They laugh when they talk about our old club but these veterans won three Stanley Cups for us and you saw what those old-timers did for Detroit tonight," Clancy said as he listed the over-30 Red Wings.

Well, no one will laugh at the Victoria veterans, and that is almost the whole club, after what they did to the Seals last night.

It was a series the Leafs should have won in five or six games but they came home from San Francisco last Saturday needing their 12th and 13th consecutive victories on home ice.

IN BAG

They needed almost 73 minutes for the 12th but the 13th was in the bag before the game was half over.

First there was the holler from Bud Poile about having to play an amateur goalkeeper, and this one has to be one of the real ironies of league history.

GOT HIS WAY

Poile got his way as the Leafs consented to let the Seals use standby-goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier after the first game and until such time as a pro puck-blocker became available.

That happened sooner than expected when Oklahoma City won the Central League final in four games to make Doug Favell available.

But Favell was late for the fifth game in San Francisco Friday and the Seals started amateur Bob Gray, and kept him for the whole game as he came up with a brilliant performance which beat the Leafs, 5-4.

But with Favell on hand, the Seals almost had to use him after their early cry about having to use an amateur. Favell was no Gray in either of the last two games and when the Seals swallowed their pride and sent Gray back into action in the third period last night, it was too late.

Then there was the war of nerves against John Henderson, obtained from the Seals when Al Millar and the Leafs parted company. Henderson was very good when he had to be last night, and he was also the happiest man in a happy dressing room.

And, finally, there was the attempt to stop Bob Barlow, the leftwinger who scored six goals and drew six assists in the first six games. The Seals obviously meant what they said, and their method of stopping Barlow did them no credit at all.

Ron Harris, too good a hockey player to resort to the tactics he used last night, was the self-appointed hatchetman, and he had a willing aide in Larry McNabb.

After McNabb had drawn a cross-checking penalty in the seventh minute of play as he and Harris ganged up on Barlow, Harris jumped the Leaf winger behind the San Francisco goal.

STUNNED ON ICE

Barlow was knocked to the ice stunned with a cut on the back of his head from Harris' stick. Harris, no Marquis of Queensburry guy, climbed aboard and flailed away.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour, who could have handed out a match misconduct, nailed Harris with a major penalty. And it could have been just the goad, and it provided the chance the Leafs needed.

Fred Hucul got the first of his two goals while the Leafs had the two-man edge. It made the score 2-0 and when Dick Lamoureux, who also came up with two goals in perhaps his best performance of the season, brought it to 3-0 as a penalty killer, the jig was up for the Seals.

MADE THEM WONDER

Milan Marcetta had opened the scoring at 47 seconds with a goal which must have made the Seals wonder about their goalkeeping choice.

Chasing Andy Hebenton's pass into the right corner under pursuit, Marcetta backhanded what was meant to be a pass across the goalmouth. The puck hit Favell's stick and went in on the short side.

Only once, in the last five minutes of the first period, did the Leafs let up in what was one of those outstanding team efforts that have liberally sprinkled their season.

ROAMS AROUND

They seemed to run out of legs and Charlie Burns got matters just a bit worrisome by sliding in a pass from Wayne Connelly, who had roamed in the Victoria zone for 15 seconds before he set it up.

But Gordie Redahl backhanded one in from the left side at 4:04 of the second period and Fred Hucul, intercepting a pass at the blue-line, brought it to 5-1 at 6:35.

From there, it was all downhill. The Leafs just checked and checked and when the Seals did get through, they found Henderson adamant.

SECOND GOAL

To add the final touch, the Leafs started carrying the play in the last half of the third period and got a second goal from Lamoureux.

It was enough to send Poile out of the arena as chagrined, and as mad, as the rooster who had slept in.

Poile Wouldn't Bet On Next Playoff

By ROBIN JEFFREY

Can Victoria Maple Leafs beat Portland in their best-of-seven Western Hockey League final?

"I wouldn't bet counterfeit money on the series," said San Francisco's general - manager Bud Poile.

Then Poile went on to his Seal's 6-1 loss in last night's seventh and deciding game against the Leafs. "They could not get up," he said. "They had a bad first period, and after that they just couldn't get up."

About the Leafs, Poile conceded, "They played well. They are a good hockey team. They have good balance."

Leafs' coach Frank Mario was pleased — particularly with the big win coming in front of Toronto Maple Leafs' Punch Imlach and King Clancy—but a little cautious about the upcoming Portland series which starts in Victoria Saturday.

GOOD TEST

"It'll be a good test," Mario said smiling. "I think we can beat them if it keeps going like it was tonight. We finally capitalized on our chances tonight. We outshot them in the other six games. We were averaging 40 shots a game. But tonight everything was going for us."

Referee Lloyd Gilmour called only four penalties, all of them in the first period. But one, a major to San Francisco's Ron Harris may well have been the turning-point.

AFTER BARLOW

Throughout the series, Seals have been concentrating on Leaf scoring-leaders Milan Marcetta and Bob Barlow, and about seven minutes into the first period Harris went after Barlow.

He clipped the Victoria player on the back of the head with his stick, Barlow slumped to the ice and couldn't fight back. Harris went off alone for five minutes, and while he was gone, Fred Hucul scored the Leafs' second goal.

IT WAS DELIBERATE

Leafs' general manager Buck Houle said of Harris' confrontation, "There wasn't anything more deliberate than that. The guy tried to take him (Barlow) off for five minutes."

Last night's victory assured Victoria of at least two more professional hockey games—Saturday and Friday, May 6. But beyond that, Toronto's Imlach wouldn't go.

NO COMMENT

Asked if Victoria would have a team next season, he replied, "I've got no comment on that at this time. It's hard to say. We'll have to look at the balance sheet and see how much money it's costing us."

Tribe Ties Win Mark

From AP, UPI

Cleveland Indians, led by Luis Tiant's three-hit pitching, beat Kansas City Athletics, 4-0, Tuesday night for their ninth victory, tying an American League record for the most consecutive victories at the start of the season.

The record was set by the St. Louis Browns of 1944. The major league record is 10, shared by the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers and the 1962 Pittsburgh Pirates.

For the Yankees, it was a happy story for a change. They broke a seven - game losing streak by topping Boston Red Sox, 7-6, in a wild game in New York.

The Sox scored four runs in the top of the ninth but Yankees came back with three in their half of the inning to win it.

In the National League, Sandy Koufax weathered 13 St. Louis hits for his third victory as the Dodgers broke a three-game losing streak by beating St. Louis, 4-2.

Atlanta Braves buried San Francisco, 11-3, as Felipe Alou got five hits, including two homers and two doubles. He has hit safely in all of the Braves' 14 games so far.

The Mets outlasted the Cubs, 14-11 in Chicago.

Baseball Requests Delay

MILWAUKEE, Wis (AP) — Baseball asked Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller Monday for an indefinite stay of his order directing the National League to prepare an expansion by May 16 or return the Atlanta Braves from Atlanta to Milwaukee two days later.

Wisconsin, which brought the state anti-trust action that resulted in the order, vigorously opposed the request.

Willard Stafford, special counsel for the attorney - general, said that if the stay is granted to permit an appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court of the court's April 13 decision, "there will be no baseball in 1966, and very probably not in 1967."

Under terms of Judge Roller's decision, the Braves may stay in Atlanta if the league presents an expansion plan that would provide Milwaukee with a new franchise in 1967.

Argentine Wins Dallas Tourney

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Roberto DeVicenzo charged from four strokes back with a four-under-par 67 Tuesday and won the $15,000 first money in the Dallas open golf tournament with a 276 total for 72 holes.

The sturdy man from the Argentine started the final round tied for ninth place. He lost ground only once as he moved over the muddy 6,923-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course to pass Harold Henning and John Lotz, who were tied for the lead at 54 holes.

Henning ended with a one-over-par 72 and a 72-hole total of 277 to tie for second with Ray Floyd and Joe Campbell. Each won $5,800.

Lotz, on the way to at least a tie for second place with Henning, went two over par on the 16th hole and lost his big chance at a championship. He finished with a 73 and a total of 278.

Doug Sanders and Gay Brewer, the tournament favorites, faltered on the final day and had over-par rounds to finish down the list.

Portland Makes It

PORTLAND—Portland Buckaroos last night rode a 3-0 first-period lead to a 7-3 victory over Vancouver Canucks in the seventh game of their semi-final to earn the right to defend their Western Hockey League playoff championship against Victoria Maple Leafs, the club they beat in the final last year.

Two goals by Art Jones, the second as a penalty - killer, around a scoring shot by Arnie Schmautz, got things under control for the Bucks in the first period.

Jones also set up the fourth and fifth goals as the Buckaroos took a 5-1 lead early in the third period, which was featured by a bit of stickswinging between Arnie Schmautz and Bryan Hextall.

Habs Humbled Again

Wings Head Home Two Up

By DICK BACON

MONTREAL — (UPI) The upstart Detroit Red Wings, broke up a tight struggle with four goals in the third period to defeat the Montreal Canadiens 5-2 Tuesday night and sweep the first two games of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup hockey finals on Forum ice.

The Red Wings, 5-2 underdogs, once again beat the defending cup champion Canadiens at their own game—skating, checking, shooting and superior goal-tending.

CROWD GROANS

The Forum crowd of 14,550 groaned in despair as the Red Wings poured two quick goals behind Gump Worsley early in the period on shots by Bruce MacGregor and Ab McDonald, a Canadien castoff, and then iced it with two more late in the period by Floyd Smith and Dean Prentice.

Yvan Cournoyer gave the Canadien fans a brief moment of hope midway through the final period when he narrowed Detroit's margin to 3-2 but Detroit regained its two-goal margin 28 seconds later on Smith's 20-foot backhander and were never in doubt the last eight minutes.

STAR PERFORMER

And for the second game in a row, goalie Roger Crozier was the standout performer, kicking aside the best shots the flying Frenchmen could author. Montreal, outshot in every period (14-7, 7-6 and 13-12), played the Red Wings to a virtual standstill over the first two periods after each team had registered power play goals in the first period.

J. C. Tremblay converted Jean Beliveau's passout from about 35 feet at 6:35 and Andy Bathgate, who now has six Stanley Cup goals to his credit in a fine comeback, got it back at 18:39, shoving in Prentice's passout from just in front of the Montreal cage.

The Red Wings broke the game open with a sudden scoring burst early in the final frame, beating Worsley twice within a 50-second span. First MacGregor deflected Paul Henderson's rebound shot underneath Worsley at 1:55 and then McDonald scored on a fluke shot. He was directly behind the Montreal net with Worsley pursuing the puck. He beat Worsley to it and flipped it out. It hit J. C. Tremblay and caromed into the empty net at 2:45.

MORE SPORT PAGES 15, 16

Despite the two-goal deficit, Montreal came on strong and finally got one back at 12:00 as Cournoyer flipped the puck into the far corner over Crozier's leg while on his knees at the opposite side of the cage.

SHORT RALLY

But the Montreal rally was short-lived as Smith scored 28 seconds later and then Prentice put the game out of reach at 16:25, converting Prentice's relay.

The Montreal defence was guilty of several lapses especially in leaving Detroit forwards unchecked in front of the Montreal net. The miscues resulted in three of the five Detroit goals.

Montreal coach Toe Blake shuffled his lines almost at random in the final period in hopes of coming up with a combination that could beat Detroit's 24-year-old netminding wizard. But aside from Cournoyer's effort, it was all in vain.

GREAT SPOT

Now the Red Wings, who would have been happy to gain a split here where they won only one game all year, return to home ice at the Detroit Olympia with a strong 2-0 lead. They need only two more victories and have four more games in which to do it.

The Red Wings haven't won the Stanley Cup since 1955, when they beat the same Canadiens in a seven-game final.

Blake Blisters Scribes, Team

MONTREAL—"Get out! Get out! I don't have anything to say. You saw the game. They scored five goals and we scored two. You have to play hockey to win, that's all."

Blake finally relented, and let reporters in about 20 minutes later but had little to say, except "we had 15 guys out there who couldn't do anything."

The players quickly dressed and somebody asked J. C. Tremblay what had happened.

"Oh nothing," was the soft reply.

In the madhouse that was the Red Wings' dressing room, Detroit coach Sid Abel had special praise for Dean Prentice and Leo Boivin, two late - season acquisitions from Boston.

Abel and the rest of the Wings also were loud in their praise of goaltender Roger Crozier. The big saves off Gilles Tremblay and Jean Beliveau at the start of the third period were singled out as the big ones.

"You know, this is as close as I've ever been to the Stanley Cup," enthused veteran Wing defenceman Bill Gadsby. "I hope we make it."

Olympic Thumbs-Down Sparks Revival

Garibaldi Boosters Active

ROME—Major beer-producing cities in Europe and Asia have been awarded the 1972 summer and winter Olympic games, but most of the fermenting Tuesday was being done in Canada.

Munich, West Germany, got the summer games over Montreal, and Sapporo, Japan, was the winter Olympics over Banff.

Munich has eight major breweries and a per capita beer consumption of 67 gallons a year—the largest in the world. Sapporo, a city of 700,000 in the same latitude as Munich, is famous throughout Asia for its expert beer.

But in Canada, the only places where there were no tears in last night's beer were Vancouver and the homes of conservationists.

In Vancouver, John Fraser, president of the Garibaldi Olympic Association, which lost out to Banff for the Canadian nomination for 1972, said he is confident that the 1976 Olympics will be held in the provincial park.

THIRD TIME

It was the third time a Banff bid for the winter games has failed, and Claude Brewster, Olympic '72 director for Banff, said that the Canadian Olympic Association might decide not to support a fourth Banff attempt.

The 7,112-foot Whistler Mountain in Garibaldi Park is about 70 miles north of Vancouver and had good rail and highway communications with the city.

Garibaldi, its sponsors claim, meets the most rigid Olympic requirements for facilities, and has never had a shortage of snow in the Olympic period.

HAPPY GROUP

Only other happy group was the conservationists. Dr. William Fuller, associate professor of zoology at the University of Alberta and co-chairman of the parks committee of the 3,000-member Canadian Audubon Society, said he hoped the protests of his group had influenced the voting.

"The Olympics don't have any place in national parks in Canada," Dr. Fuller said last night.

NO REGRETS

Another pleased group was the Alberta Fish and Game Association which had also fought against the games and possible desecration of the park. President Joe Balla of Lethbridge was sorry that Canada did not get the games, but had no regrets about the stand his group took on using national parks.

Another elated conservationist was Richard C. Passmore, executive director of the 160,000-member Canadian Wildlife Federation. He said he was "very pleased" that the games "are not going to Banff."

NOT IN PARK

"Of course, we would like to see Canada bid successfully for the winter and summer Olympics at some site, but it must not be a national park."

Prime Minister Pearson, however, had written to Olympic president Avery Brundage in an effort to offset the conservationists' protests, and Health Minister Allan MacEachen flew to Rome to support the Canadian delegation.

Forestry Minister Sauve last night described the IOC decision as a "shock." "We thought surely Banff would get it this time. We did everything we could."

"WE WERE SURE"

Backers of the Banff bid blamed the conservationists for its failure. Brewster said "we were sure we had it" after Montreal's bid for the summer games failed. It was unlikely that both summer and winter games would be awarded to the same country.

In Lake Louise, Jack McDowell, president of the Banff-Lake Louise Chamber of Commerce, also blamed conservation groups. "Seldom has so much benefit for so many been frustrated by so few."

DAWES THROUGH

Dawes, 77, declined to say how he had voted. "I don't think the vote's of any consequence. We know the chances of the people who try these things. I don't think how I voted is of interest to Canadian newspapers."

Earlier, during the voting, Dawes stepped from the conference room into a mass of reporters. One asked whether he could say whether voting had started.

"Oh, shut up!" Dawes replied. "Do you think I am a liar?"

ONLY CONGRATULATIONS

Mayor Jean Drapeau offered congratulations to Munich and said, "I can only say to Montreal that we are really sorry we couldn't win on this first try—but we put up a good fight. We hope to make it the next time."

Even the Russians were satisfied with the choice of Munich. Their IOC member Konstantine Adrianov said, "I am satified that Munich won because it means that politics did not play the feared role in the decision which was inspired only by sports."

Banff Went Down On First Ballot

ROME—It took two ballots, but Montreal's bid to hold the 1972 summer Olympics was passed over yesterday for that of Munich, West Germany, while Banff's attempts to get the winter games lost out on the first vote to Sapporo, Japan.

Although no official figures were released, some members of the International Olympic Committee gave a breakdown. Montreal and Madrid were tied with 16 votes each after the first ballot. Munich had 21—nine short of the simple majority required—and Detroit had six votes.

On the second ballot, Munich's total jumped to 31, Madrid had 15, and Montreal 14. Two votes were blank on the first round and one on the second.

Sapporo received 32 votes to 16 for Banff, nine for Lahti, Finland, and four for Salt Lake City.

Sapporo was scheduled to hold the 1940 games, while Munich will be the first German city to get the Olympics since 1936.

Munich has promised that there will be no entry difficulties or discrimination against communist East Germany which West Germany does not recognize.

Brundage Wrecks Banff Bid

ROME (AP)—The Banff delegation Tuesday accused President Avery Brundage of the International Olympic Committee of killing Banff's chances in its bid for the 1972 winter games.

Hans Maciej of Calgary, manager of the Banff Olympic campaing, said Brundage had read protests from conservationists to the IOC just before the committee voted on the 1972 winter site, which went to Sapporo, Japan.

"Mr. Brundage timed very expertly in bringing up the protests of some conservationists in our area at the very right moment—right before the vote—in order to have the greatest possible impact on IOC members."

Brundage, in an interview with The Canadian Press, acknowledged he had read excerpts from letters to the committee.

The protests of conservationists—they included some Canadians—may have been a factor in Banff's defeat, he added, but he could not be certain.

Maciej said he thought the wilderness angle was exaggerated "because we are the first ones to defend the natural aspect of our area."

Sentiment towards Europe is reported to have contributed to Montreal's defeat.

That was the opinion of Canadian delegates after a double blow was given Canada's hopes of staging the 1972 Olympic games, in whole or in part.

"Our defeat was hard," said Mayor Jean Drapeau. "But Banff's defeat was harder. We can explain our defeat by saying this is our first try and the IOC sentiment toward bringing the Summer Games back to Europe was strong. This was Banff's third try for the Winter Games in 1972.

Nor did Drapeau and his delegation believe the mayor's offer of free food and lodging for athletes and officials had any affect on the decision. H. W. Hoppener of Montreal, manager of the Canadian Olympic Association, said the offer appeared attractive to some IOC members and not so attractive to others.

Soccer So He Did

ROME (UPI) — Anastasio Marrucci was in jail today and his wife was nursing a broken rib—all because of the Internazionale-Real Madrid Soccer match.

Police said Marrucci, 73, beat up his wife and daughter because he thought they had tampered with the family television set so he couldn't watch the game.

Sandown Delay

Car Racing At Nanaimo

Vancouver Island Track Racing Association members, without a racing surface pending the outcome of their application to race cars at Sandown Park, will compete at Nanaimo for at least part of the season.

Plans to locate a racing plant at Sandown Park were at least temporarily held up when north Saanich council was presented with a petition from the residents living near the proposed site charging that a car race track would create too much noise in the area.

Club officials maintain that members have gone out and questioned residents and found most to be in favor of the racing site, with only one or two disapproving.

Both sides will now await the decision of the north Saanich council, which plans a verdict at its next meeting.

Association - spokesman Reg Midgely stated that if Sandown racing is approved, the track would be ready for use by the middle of June.

In the meantime, 15 to 20 cars will travel to Nanaimo to open the season there this Sunday.

Anticipation for one of the best salmon fishing seasons in years is building up in mid and north-Island resort centres as spectacular grilse runs converge from north and south.

The best fishing in 10 or 12 years is the word from Claytons at Nanoose, from Gerry Smith of Chemainus who fishes Porlier Pass and Tent Island waters, and from sports fishermen in the Nanaimo area.

These fish are heading north after providing winter fishing, just short of spectacular in Saanich Inlet and to a lesser extent Crofton. By mid-May they will be in the Qualicum area, if they follow the usual pattern. By the end of May they will be in the Qualicum Bay-Deep Bay waters as five-pound weighers for the King Fisherman Contest.

They will move in to mingle with what is now a good run of grilse at Comox. Gradually the run works its way up to Campbell River, but enough usually stay around at all the favorite spots to provide good summer fishing.

They reach Campbell River in June as full fledged coho, just about the same time as the big grilse run, now in Johnstone Strait, should be hitting Campbell River as four, five and six-pound coho.

Based upon returns from tagging programs fisheries officials believe Campbell River is the meeting place of the coho salmon of the inside waters from the north and south.

* * *

With unusually heavy runs moving in from both ends excitement is running high in Campbell River.

Sunday we went north from Campbell River to investigate the reports of fantastic runs of bluebacks (gralse) on their southward migration.

We not only found two to 2½-pound blues so thick we had to stall around so we wouldn't get our limit of 12 for three persons too quickly, we also found some fine spring salmon fishing and ling cod up to 25 pounds . . . and all this in waters where we saw no other boat sports fishing.

We took off from Campbell River with John Ebert and Ed Enns. Both are fishing guides. Ed operates Campbell River Marine Supplies at the Campbell River bridge and John works with him in the store, as well as operating a motel across the bridge.

We launched Ed' 16-foot hardtop Hourston Glascraft with 55-horsepower Homelite four cycle outboard at the Campbell River Spit ramp at 7:30 in the morning. By 8:20 we were at the fishing grounds in Nodales Channel, 25 miles north of Campbell River.

It was a smooth run in calm water and we were particularly interested in the, smooth performance of his boat.

As we have noted in earlier columns we are interested in moving into the outboard cruiser class in the next two or three years and are studying the various types of boats. This one impressed us, but at the moment we are dreaming of a slightly bigger over-nighter with heads, stove, and still light enough to trailer.

It was flate calm Sunday, but we are told this trip can be pretty dicy and should never be attempted in a small boat.

The Campbell River shoreline to the Duncan Bay mill was familiar territory. Going through Seymour Narrows was a great thrill. The water was smooth, there wasn't much tide, but we rmembered walking in the tunnels under the Narrows to below the north and south peaks of Ripple Rock.

Later we were on hand to cover the gigantic Ripple Rock blast and Enns pointed out to us the shoreline cliffs where huge rocks were blasted to high ledges. At Bloedel in Menzies Bay, just before the entrance to Seymour Narrows, it is possible to launch a small boat and fishing is usually best along the kelp beds on the south shore.

* * *

Both Ed and John believe that some day there will be a series of bridges spanning Seymour Narrows to the mainland to connect with a through highway to Kamloops.

Througs the Narrows and on to Browns Bay and the Adams Resort fishing paradise and across on the west shores of Quadra Island is Plumper Bay and Deepwater Bay, which are good spring salmon fishing spots.

White rocks on the tip of Quadra Island indicated Granite Point and across on the Vancouver Island side is Elk Bay with its logging operations. Then Sonora Island and Nodales Channel on the right and Chatham Point and Rock Bany on the left. At Rock Bay we went ashore and found it would be possible to launch light boats that can be carried over logs. This can be reached from the Sayward Road, by turning left several miles past Roberts Lake Resort.

This was our fishing grounds for the day. Ed is a former seiner and these were his waters. First we fished Nodales Channel along Sonora Island. Most people fish the main, Johnstone Strait channel, but on the seine boats we found the tides swept the salmon to this shore," Ed explained.

Five minutes after we started fishing we had the first hit on a Krippled K Spoon. Then Ed got a 14-pound spring on an Andy Reeker Needlefish. John got fish on a No. 4 Diamond. We lost another big spring and seemed to hit blues every two or three minutes on Henry Smith wobble spoons, bucktails on surface and behind a flasher, and anything else we wanted to use. This fishing area is only a few miles from the B.C. mainland at Frederick Arm or around Sonora Island to Stewart Island and the famed Yuculta Rapids.

We saved three or four of our limit to investigate the waters just above Rock Bay where we found bigger blues so quickly we could hardly keep our lines in the water.

Will the Lawn-Boy owner please stand up
Lawn-Boy with Grasscatcher picks up grass, leaves, and weeds as you cut!
If you're a Lawn-Boy owner stand up and take a bow. You're one of the smart ones. Then sit down and relax. Isn't that easier than raking or pushing a heavy old-fashioned mower? Lawn-Boy's grasscatcher does the raking for you. It picks up grass while you cut. It picks up leaves in the fall and tidies your lawn in spring. It collects weeds before they spread over your lawn. To empty, you just snap off the bag and unzip.
Lawn-Boy starts easier, too. You use just two fingers and 94% less effort than old-fashioned heave-and-haul type mowers. And Lawn-Boy is warranted for two years—that's longer than some mowers last.
See your dealer for the full line of Lawn-Boys: with grasscatcher, without grasscatcher, push-type, and self-propelled. In all, there are 18 reasons you should own a Lawn-Boy. Your dealer is itching to show you every one.

So Ron MacLeod, the pre-tournament favorite, is in line to become the first player to become a three-time winner of the Island Open Match Play Championship.

The Jasper pro who looks as if he is in control of every shot he plays will have the Gorge Vale amateur Lex Sutcliffe as his 36-hole opponent in Sunday's final at Oak Bay.

The general opinion is that he will prove too strong on his own course for the little man from Gorge who for a number of years has been a consistent performer without ever getting in the winners' circle in a major event.

In his progress to the final MacLeod has come through at least two very tough matches. The first was against his buttons partner George Bigelow when it took him single putts on four successive greens to get ahead of the tenacious doctor.

Then in Sunday's 36-hole semi-final Laurie Carroll appeared to have him stone-stiff when he holed a bunker shot and went four up with 15 holes to play.

But Laurie missed two little putts and opened the way for a salvo of birdies by the Jasper bomber that enabled him to win five out of seven holes and transform a match that looked all over bar the shouting.

Sutcliffe is a compact little golfer with deft touches around the green and with his hickory-shafted blade putter, but in a handicap event he would be receiving ten strokes from McLeod over a 36-hole course and that is perhaps just about the odds that are against him on Sunday.

* * *

The Mainland open championship has also reached the final stage and here amateurism prevails with two former Willingdon Cuppers Don Gardner and John Russell contesting the final.

In this event for the first time the championship although still be played on a man-against-man basis is being reckoned, not by holes won and lost, but by strokes.

This new departure for golf means that the rules for stroke play as against match play apply, and it is the first time I remember an important competition being conducted in this manner.

It is probably difficult for the older golfer to appreciate why a match should be played as a medal, but the modern craze is for figures and as the ball is holed out at every hole there is a record established that is not available in match-play, when a player may pick up or concede a putt.

In B.C. the medal score has a special importance because it is the only factor which counts when the provincial Willingdone Cup team is being selected.

On Vancouver Island, the qualifying round of the Island Open and the three rounds of the city amateur championship are the only local events which are used to help the local aspirant into a place on the provincial team.

Elected to the executive committee were Dick Flanagan, Bill McColl and Dean Brian Whitlow.

The members declined to support a resolution by the committee that the members' dues should be increased and the status quo will remain for another year.

The club showed a small surplus last year but expects a shrinkage of revenue from entrance fees in the coming year. The committee sought to increase the dues for active men by $36 a year and by $15 a year for active ladies.

Women Cricketers Thrive in Britain

By MIM CONWAY

LONDON (CP) — The idea of women playing cricket may seem to be an advanced form of female emancipation but in fact the sport was played by girls long before suffragettes began fighting for the right to vote. At one time there was even a professional women's cricket team but it disappeared with the departure of the 19th century and times have been tough ever since.

This spring, however, marks a high spot for England's cricket-playing team from New Zealand is coming to Britain in May to challenge the English women, the first such trip since a successful 1954 tour.

Women's teams are fielded by five countries — England, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and The Netherlands — but international tours are relatively rare because of lack of money.

RAISES FUNDS

The Women's Cricket Association, founded in 1926, represents the 22 English county associations, each with three or more member clubs. The WCA has to provide the money to pay for visits. It raises the funds by such means as sweepstakes, priduce and clothing sales, dances, amateur theatrical shows and football pools.

It took nearly three years to rise the £4.500 ($13,500) needed to pay for the New Zealanders' tour and before that the WCA had just finished paying the cost of a similar 163 tour by an Australian team.

The English women started touring in 1923 when they visited Australia and New Zealand. They were able to make further trips in 1948 and 1956.

The Australians came to Britain in 1937, 1951 and 1963. This will be New Zealand's second trip here, and the South Africans have yet to return a 1960 English visit although tentative plans have been made for a 1968 trip.

The first recorded women's cricket match was in 1745 between two teams of "maids" from rival Surrey villages, dazzled sports writer said the girls "Bowled, batted, ran and catched as well as most men could in that game."

Women's cricket was played mainly on public holidays and religious feast days as part of village festivities. During its most popular period, in the 1890s, the first (and last) professional team The Original English Ladies Crickets, played demonstration matches up and down the coutry.

Today the women are strictly amateur. The WCA organizes local matches and tournaments. It has its own small band of administrators and coaches and is constantly on the lookout for up-and-coming youngsters in schools and colleges.

Bombers Sign Two Imports

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers have announced the signing of two new imports for the 1966 Western Football Conference season.

John Cannon, a linebacker and offensive guard from Virginia State College, and Doug McNeil, and offensive guard and tackle from the same state, bring to five the number of newcomers recruited by Bombers.

Rugby Tours Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Rugby Union team from Twickenham, England, will make a five-game tour of Canada Sept. 23 to Oct. 7.

President Robert B. Spray of the Rugby Union of Canada has also announced visits by three other teams—the New Zealand All Blacks, Oct. 14-18; the British Lions, Sept. 14-17; and Australia's national team, the Wallabies, in February, 1967.

Spray said Twickenham likely will open its tour in British Columbia and close in the East.

New Zealand will play in Vancouver Oct. 14 and in the East Oct. 18. The British Lions will play B.C. in Vancouver Sept. 14 and the Canadian Nationals in Toronto Sept. 17. Australia will play two games in B.C.

Then Christmas Music

Screams Recorded

CHESTER, England (Reuters) — The screams of a schoolgirl about to be murdered were recorded on tape, a court was told Tuesday. After the screams came the sounds of jolly Christmas music.

The prosecution in Britain's sensational "moors murders" trial alleges Ian Brady, 28, a stock clerk, and his blonde mistress, Myra Hindley, 23, made the recordings before sexually assaulting Lesley Ann Downey, 10, murdering her and burying her body on local moors.

They also took pictures of the child in various nude poses, police said.

FOUND LAST FALL

Brady and Miss Hindley also are accused of murdering a 12-year-old boy, John Kilbride.

The bodies were recovered last fall.

The police officer said the tapes included the voices of Brady, Miss Hindley and the girl and closed with the tunes Jolly Old St. Nicholas and We Wish You a Merry Christmas.

The accused couple made no attempt to hide the tapes, he said.

Rescue Vain

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (Reuters)—A seaman trapped in an air pocket inside a sunken hulk in 82 feet of water was rescued by frogmen after his desperate knocking signals attracted attention Tuesday, but he died shortly after reaching hospital.

He was one of the five men and a woman in the crew of the West German coaster Heinz Bernd which went down off Denmark Monday after colliding with the Swedish tanker Torne.

Death Stills Healing Heart

The cause of the rupture was not determined but an autopsy report said DeRudder's heart, damaged by 25 years of illness, had begun healing by the time death came.

DeRudder never regained consciousness and the autopsy disclosed that was caused by a blood clot in a major brain artery. The long illness of the former coal miner had included numerous blood clot situations.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Harry T. Griffith didn't get the "little more time" he wanted. The 62-year-old former major league baseball pitcher died of cancer in Chestnut Hill Hospital Monday. Death came before the end of a waiting period to determine the effect of an experimental transplant of cancer tissues with another bone cancer victim.

Mountie Gets Five Years

STELLARTON, N.S. (CP) — Magistrate W. A. Richardson Tuesday sentenced former RCMP Cpl. Harry Sutherland to five years in penitentiary.

Sutherland, 32-year-old native of Plaster Rock, N.B., had pleaded guilty to the armed holdup of a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Trenton.

Rail Strike Hits Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — Tokyo, the world's biggest city, and other densely-populated centres in Japan were crippled Tuesday by a nation-wide strike of railway workers backing demands for higher wages. The work stoppages, ranging from four to 24 hours, halted long-distance trains, commuter services and subways and inconvenienced about 20,000,000 persons.

Actress Cleared Of Theft

The 51-year-old former movie star smiled as the court clerk read the verdict, then walked to the jury box and shook hands with and thanked the seven men and five women as they departed.

18 ITEMS

The actress had been charged with petty theft of 18 items of merchandise worth a total of $86 from a department store last Jan. 27.

"I think everyone's been very kind," said the green-eyed, Viennese-born actress.

Did she expect the acquittal?

"I really did—but you never can tell."

Miss Lamarr said she has several movie offers, "but I don't know what I'll do except get a night's sleep."

Expert Predicts Major U.S.-China Clash

By JERRY BOULTBEE

Greene

The United States is going to push the Viet Nam war into a major clash with China, an expert on the subject predicted Tuesday night.

Felix Greene, English-born writer-journalist-lecturer who lives in Palo Alto, Calif., drew on the experiences of four trips to China to deliver his sinister warning to an audience of close to 600 persons at McPherson Playhouse.

Describing himself to the press as a "non-political liberal-minded humanist," Mr. Greene also showed slides of a trip he made late last year to North Viet Nam.

TALK SPLIT

He split his talk into remarks about China and Viet Nam, but warned the two might become closer allies yet if the U.S. appears to be winning the war.

To the Chinese mind, he said, the Viet Nam war has assumed far bigger size "than just the proportionate size of Viet Nam."

The Chinese consider it a "pivotal war," in much the same way the Spanish civil war was pivotal, he said.

"The Chinese feel that on its outcome a great deal will depend. They feel that the war will escalate, and that ultimately China will become involved."

Because of this, the civilian population is almost expecting a showdown with the U.S., and is preparing itself for it.

"They (the Chinese) have organized a vast civilian militia to take care of the homeland. They could mobilize 100,000,000 people in hours in the militia, and be obsolutely sure they would look after the matters at home.

"This would leave their very considerable army free to be deployed wherever necessary in order to fight a war with the United States."

WAR LIKELY

Later Mr. Greene said to the press that he considered the U.S. was anxious for some sort of showdown with China, and that he thought it quite likely there would be war "before too long."

"It will be a ghastly and disastrous war," he said.

He also said it would prove pointless for the U.S.

"It could only set back China's industrial development by a generation or so, and then the process would likely start over again. What could America possibly gain? She can't go in and occupy the country."

ENDLESS

His reasons for saying this were that the vast population of China would be against the U.S., that the people's civilian militia would go underground. The result would be an endless guerrilla war on mainland China.

"And what possibility would there be there, when at this very moment the most powerful military country in the world cannot wrest the initiative out of the hands of the Viet Cong in South Viet Nam?" the speaker asked.

OVER AND OVER

"The first thing that strikes one, landing at Hanoi airport, is the utter simplicity—and this is reflected over and over in the simplicity of the country's economy," Mr. Greene said.

"The North Vietnamese feel that some monsterous injustice is being done them," he said, referring to the American bombing north of the 17th parallel.

Rather than bombing the Vietnamese into submission the Americans have succeeded in giving their enemies fresh determination to hold out against them, the speaker said.

SCHOOLS, HOSPITALS

"The bombing is extensive and pretty indiscriminate. I saw bombed out schools, hospitals and old folks' homes—villages with little or no strategic value were bombed and strafed.

"There are some pretty thin excuses for the bombing. One of the targets, we're told, might ultimately be the 'industrial complex' of Hanoi," said Mr. Greene.

"Let me tell you, there is no 'industrial complex." I'll tell you just what there is.

"There's a textile plant that the Chinese gave them; there's a bicycle workshop, which even the Vietnamese admit turns out pretty bad bicycles; there's an iron foundry and there's an electrical generating plant. And that's about it," he said.

"The 'industrial complex' does not exist, save as an excuse to American policy-makers to carry the bombing a little farther."

Mr. Greene said that his criticism of U.S. policies was in no way to be construed as criticism of the American people or his chosen homeland.

"But I do think the best thing their friends can do for them is warn them that they are wrong, and where they are going is wrong. This is all I am trying to do," he said.

Russian Woman Stricken

The 6,000-ton Victor Vasnetcov put to sea again after a routine customs and immigration inspection.

* * *

A spokesman for the fisheries department said there was very little conversation. The captain of the Russian ship did not say if he would return to pick up Miss Tamar.

* * *

The spokesman said the Victor Vasnetgov is a transport ship of the type that picks up frozen catches from the mother ships of Russian fleets and takes them back to the Soviet Union.

The ship was directed to Prince Rupert Monday after it radioed for help for the stricken woman.

Fly-Fishing Expert Dies in Hospital

Major Roger George Monteith, 81, was for 30 years proprietor of a sporting goods shop on Fort Street. He retired about six years ago.

One of Victoria's best-known sportsmen, he was a crack shot both as a hunter and a trapshooter. He was responsible for getting many Victoria anglers to take up fly-fishing. When he operated his tackle store, it was the meeting place for hunters and fishermen and it was there that they learned the correct fly patterns to use in the right places.

GUN CLUB

Shawnigan Lake was one of his favorite fishing spots. He was one of the early members of the Victoria Gun Club and whenever an old-timers' night was held in outdoor circles, he was one of the guests of honor.

He had competed almost up to the present time in trap shooting and was one of the keen contestants in the Colonist 500 Fund trap shoot, despite failing eyesight.

VICTORIA-BORN

Major Monteith was born in Victoria. As a young man he rowed with the James Bay Athletic Association. He served with the 47th Battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the First World War. During the 30s he was a provincial civil service commissioner.

Aat one time he served as president of the Victoria Conservative Association.

He is survived by his wife, Ernestine Doris, at the residence, 2272 Oak Bay; a daughter, Mrs. Fred (Betty) Beckett of Brampton, Ont.; a brother, W. Berkeley Monteith, and two sisters, Letitia (Tiny) Monteith and Mrs. Arthur (Baba) Beasley, all of Victoria; two grandsons and a great-granddaughter.

FUNERAL

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Friday, in Hayward's funeral chapel, 734 Broughton, with Canon George Biddle officiating.

Students Plan Big Trip

Five University of Victoria students will leave for West Germany in May to see European culture for themselves under an unusual work-scholarship plan.

The plan underwrites students' travel expenses and provides employment in West German offices and industries during June and July. In August the students may travel where they like.

Policy Memo 'Refutes' Firing Reasons

OTTAWA (CP)—A CBC policy memorandum about television program hosts approved by management last September is a "complete and total refutation" of the stated reasons for removing Laurier LaPierre from the Seven Days program, executive producer Douglas Leiterman said Tuesday.

Mr. Lieterman told the Commons broadcasting committee the policy statement says a "classic - type host" occasionally "by intonation of facial expression" may convey his feelings to the audience, but by and large should stick to the script.

Another kind of host, the permanent program personality known in CBC circles as ppp, according to the policy statement is allowed to express views which may be provocative and "project a considerable degree of individuality," Mr. Leiterman said.

TABLED

The confidential policy directives to producers were tabled with the committee. It is investigating removal of Mr. LaPierre and Patrick Watson as co-hosts of the public affairs program, This Hour has Seven Days.

Mr. LaPierre said he was told by Mr. Leiterman his contract would not be renewed because management questioned his loyalty and because he used Seven Days to express personal views.

Mr. Leiterman listed incidents since last fall where Seven Days producers ran into trouble with management.

The first involved projected interviews with federal party leaders during the election campaign and almost resulted in the show's permanent cancellation, he said. Several in the last two months involved the Gerda Munsinger affair.

He said last November he was informed management had decided to scrap the program because it was tired of answering questions about it and being challenged by producers on what items might be shown.

'GRADUAL RETREAT'

Mr. Leiterman told Ron Basford (L — Vancouver-Burrard) that during his 8½ years with the CBC he has never heard of a member of Parliament asking to have an item changed or deleted.

He said he has the impression CBC senior management is undergoing a "gradual retreat from anything that requires courage" to a "safe and tranquil solution to problems."

Ottawa Offers Assistance

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will be glad to use its good offices, short of "intervention in the affairs of the CBC" to help settle the dispute between the publicly-owned corporation and its program producers, Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Tuesday.

Heavy Snow Centred On Calgary

EDMONTON (CP) — Heavy snow fell Tuesday in southwestern Alberta with a two-inch or more snow cover in the area from Edson-Red Deer to Brooks and southwest to the mountains but increasing to 11 inches in the Calgary area and diminishing eastward to one inch in the Maple Creek area.

Little or no snow has fallen in the rest of Saskatchewan and northeastern Alberta although strong gusty east winds made the day rather miserable. Little change in the cold weather pattern is expected today except winds will turn into the north as a fresh surge of cold air with snowflurries spreads over the western prairies by late this afternoon.

Crash Probe Hampered By Weather

HOPE (CP)—Rain, snow and overcast skies continued Tuesday to hamper efforts by a team of RCAF officers investigating a fatal plane crash on a mountainside near here.

The five senior officers who make up the board of inquiry probing the Saturday crash of a twin-engine Albatross amphibian were to have their first look at the unnamed mountain where five airmen died.

KORATRON Treated Fabrics

You wouldn't do this to just any fabric . . . most fabrics would wrinkle at the thought of such treatment. "Koratron" treated fabrics defy a krinkle . . . keep a crease even in damp weather. Because of "Koratron" you can buy clothes that machine wash and dry, never need ironing, shed wrinkles in minutes and always look as though you just put them on. Great stuff for casuals. So come on down to Eaton's for a "Koratron" casual . . . then . . . go jump in a lake.

"Koratron" is a Treatment . . . Not a Fabric!

The result of a process in which a resin is applied to the fabric at the mill . . . the fabric is then fashioned into garments. It is during the final pressing that creases are "baked" in and wrinkles "baked" out . . . permanently!

Price of Assessment Efficiency

Lagging Outsiders Raise Cost in City

By A. H. MURPHY

Victoria property is assessed at 49.8 per cent of market value as required by provincial legislation. The fact that property in adjacent municipalities is not is costing this city plenty of money, aldermen were told Tuesday.

However, City Treasurer James Bramley was optimistic about the possibility of holding the tax line this year, although he did point out that because of the increase in taxable assessment, holding the line at 62.9 mills would mean that the taxpayers still had to ante up $502,130 more to the city.

General taxable assessment is up nearly $13,000,000, Mr. Bramley's report pointed out, and assessment for school purposes is increased by $13,800,000.

EXTRA OUTLAY

Although it was possible to reduce the school rate from 24 to 23.2 mills, city taxpayers would be required to pay an additional $221,554 to the school board this year because of increased assessment.

The 1966 school budget has increased by $1,353,302 to more than $13,000,000. Provincial and federal governments have picked up more than $1,000,000 of this increase, but municipalities are required to meet the balance of $274,683.

The requisition has increased in Victoria and Saanich and decreased in Oak Bay and Esquimalt. Victoria taxpayers are hit for $221,554 of the boost.

BETTER STAFFED

School assessments have increased at a greater rate in the city than in other municipalities, the report states, and a reason for this was that the city assessment department was possibly more efficient and better staffed.

As evidence of the "efficiency" of the city department, Mr. Bramley pointed out that the rate of assessment increase here was 12.05 per cent as compared to 7.64 in Saanich, 2.32 in Oak Bay and 2.38 in Esquimalt.

"Considering the tremendous increase in both commercial and residential land values that has taken place over the past 12 months, I find is somewhat difficult to reconcile some of these small percentage increases with present market conditions. As has been stated, land assessments have been increased by some $8,000,000 in the city of Victoria," the budget preamble states.

HACK AT BUDGET

It was to be hoped, said the treasurer's report, that the five per cent limit recently placed on annual assessment increases by the provincial government would not work to the detriment of Victoria, particularly if other rates were lagging.

Aldermen spent all of Tuesday hacking away at the provisional budget, trying to sweat $135,000 to $140,000 out of it in order to maintain the 1965 mill rate of 62.9 mills.

They will resume the battle of the budget today.

Going to Cwmbran

Home Still Lure After 44 Years

He is Donald H. T. Hodges, 65, who retired last week after 12 years with the caretaking staff at Bay Street Armory.

Hodges

Mr. Hodges, who lives at 433 Niagara with his wife Esther, was presented with a plaque and a silver cigarette case by militia units, cadet corps and members of the armory staff.

BOYHOOD HOME

Mr. Hodges was piped into the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) sergeants' mess at the armory by Pipe Major F. E. Knight, and Lt.-Col. David Coell, commanding officer of the militia regiment, made the presentations.

Mr. Hodges will revisit his boyhood home where, at the age of 12, he was parcel boy and window-cleaner in a millinery shop.

"There'll be lots of work waiting for me in my garden when we get back in August," he said Tuesday night.

Taggers Sought

Vocational Centre May Be Makeshift

By JACK FRY
Legislative Reporter

A vocational training program for lower Vancouver Island will be started even if temporary quarters have to be found, Education Minister Peterson said Tuesday. He was reiterating a statement he said he made to a delegation of school trustees.

The minister was replying to criticisms made by trustees of Greater Victoria, Saanich and Sooke school boards last weekend that the government was apparently balking on its promise to build a regional vocational school next spring on a 30-acre site at Burnside and Trans-Canada Highway.

Mr. Peterson said the trustee didn't give the full story when they made public their charges about government inaction.

'IGNORED'

"My remarks seemed to be ignored by some of them, that should there be any great delay in the establishment of the school, I would consider establishing training programs in temporary quarters until such time as a school is constructed," he said.

The minister said he also asked the trustees for any advice they had to offer in connection with the proposed vocational school.

He said he told the delegation "that we were endeavouring to get the school established as quickly as possible," and that "there had been problems with the site, in terms of acquiring additional property."

The department of public works is now negotiating for the extra land, and meanwhile, an advisory committee has been given unil the end of May to develop the vocational programs which will be required, Mr. Peterson said.

Hoteliers Called To Talks

Representatives of city motels, hotels, and restaurant associations were urged Tuesday to attend meetings of the Greater Victoria celebrations committee more regularly.

The committee members voted unanimously to send letters to the associations pointing out that Victoria Day celebrations bring many thousands of visitors to the city and a great deal of trade to hotels, motels and restaurants.

CLASHES

It was pointed out to committee members that the hotel association was represented at the committee general meetings quite regularly, although sometimes meetings clashed and a representative was unable to attend.

Preparations for this year's celebrations are now nearing completion. Seventeen out-of-town bands have said that they will be taking part in the parade.

Campaign Needs $50

Greater Victoria's 1966 Easter Seal campaign needs only $50 to reach its $16,000 quota.

Rody Ryan, executive secretary of the B.C. Society for Crippled Children, said more money is coming in.

Aged Prestige Car Will Be Replaced

The police constable swept around to open the door of Victoria's "prestige car" for the mayor of Montreal last year—and the handle fell off.

For that reason there was not too much argument Tuesday when Police Chief J. F. Gregory explained that it was time the venerable 1957 model, which is used by the mayor and other dignitaries on official occasions, was replaced.

The amount of $12,000 was included in the police budget for the acquisition of three new vehicles for the department.

Total estimated 1966 police budget will come to more than $976,000.

Saanich Finds $112,000 Error in Appeal

Victoria Breaks Ice For Hospital Fund

Victoria city council Tuesday made an $83,850 allocation to an emergency hospital fund, a few hours before Saanich found a $112,000 blunder in the brief which sought municipal money.

They said the money was needed urgently if a major hospital crisis was to be averted.

Meanwhile, Saanich council was told by Reeve Hugh Curtis that hospital council chairman Joseph Casey had confirmed the $112,000 error.

Saanich Coun. Ed Lum said later that if the mistake had not been found it more than likely would have gone into this year's budget and been paid.

The planning council had submitted a proposed program to the intermunicipal committee to deal with the emergency situation at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

The program would cost $1,600,000. The intermunicipal cost would be $248,665, plus architectural and other fees amounting to $168,000, a total of $416,665. Saanich would pay 35.5 per cent on the intermunicipal cost sharing basis.

At Monday night's budget session in Saanich, a delegation of the hospitals' council headed by chairman Casey was there to explain the proposed hospitals' program to council.

Architects' Fees

The councillors asked if the $168,000 architects fees were to be split on the intermunicipal basis, because it had been omitted from the brief.

If this were so council claimed the total would be $304,655 and not $416,665 as the brief stated — a difference of $112,000. Then Saanich share would be about $110,000 and not $145,000.

Mr. Casey said he was certain the amount was $416,000. Another delegation member said he thought Saanich council was right in assuming the architect's fees would be shared on the intermunicipal basis.

Mr. Casey said he would find the correct answer and inform the reeve Tuesday.

Reeve Curtis said that in a telephone conversation with Mr. Casey Tuesday it was confirmed that the architects fees would be split between the municipalities.

Third of Cost

When making the intermunicipal request, chairman Casey said only the hospital's minimum requirements would be met by district contributions of $415,665.

This amount is less than one-third of the total amount of a building program the hospitals hoped to continue. Mr. Casey said at the time. The other two thirds would be contributed by the federal and provincial governments.

Royal Jubilee Hospital is asking assistance in construction of a new laboratory, boiler room, isolation ward and cardiac intensive care unit.

St. Joseph's urgent requirements include a laboratory and radiology room, maternity rooms, nurseries, intensive care units and a short-stay unit.

"This is definitely a 'must.' We must keep our hospitals in shape," said Victoria Ald. Percy Frampton, Tuesday.

His motion that the city allocate the amount in this year's budget hinged on cost-sharing payments by other Greater Victoria municipalities.

With this Ald. Michael Griffin did not agree.

"This thing has to get moving whether other municipalities come in or not," said Ald. Griffin. "The need is acute and it is up to Victoria to give leadership. If we go ahead and make the money available, they will at least be able to get going with part of the program that they have in mind."

"Yes, I realize that, but we have to get things in motion somehow," said Ald Griffin.

Rupert Passes Tests

Pleased Crew Takes Queen To New 'Home'

By BOB PETHICK

"I'd call that a tight turn," said First Officer Gerald Ruddick, as he brought the Queen back on course for another try at the mile.

ENGINE LEVEL

Tuesday was the last day she will be seen off Victoria. She left late in the afternoon for Kelsey Bay and waters off Prince Rupert on a familiarization cruise.

Object of Tuesday's cruise was to allow ship's engineers to set propeller pitch and engine revolutions at the most efficient level for speed through the water and best running results.

"We can split control of the pitch and the engine revolutions down here, but they can't do it up in the wheelhouse," said Chief Engineer Sandy Ritchie.

The speed of the big white-and-blue ferry pleased officials. Top run was 20.46 knots, with an over-all two-way average of 19.38 knots.

'UNBELIEVABLE'

"The specifications called for 19 knots," said operations manager W. B. Weston.

"It's unbelievable what she can do. Some of my friends in marine work believe she is the most remarkable ship they have ever been aboard," said Capt. Thomas Parkinson.

From the spotless stainless steel galley to the 133 individually temperature-controlled cabins, the Rupert seems like the ship to do the job.

CABIN GUIDES

There are one or two criticisms. Cabins on the main accommodation deck might be hard to find as there is such maze of them. Direction signs are in the making.

Cooks found placing of some gear in the galley not to their liking, and before the ship left Tuesday that was being taken care of by a ship's engineer.

STABILIZERS

There are some who say the Queen will take a pasting in wicked Queen Charlotte Strait.

Not the crew. They point to a set of dials on the bridge controlling folding-arm active-fin stabilizers which they believe are the answer.

Inaugural run will be made May 20 and all space is booked.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Any woman who works as a janitress knows more about personal habits of secretaries than the most accomplished psychologist in the world. I hope you print my letter and maybe it will wise some of them up.

I work in a beautiful, modern office building where the company has spent a fortune on the very best furniture, and equipment. Some secretaries are smart enough to make $500 a month but they don't know that a wastebasket was built to hold paper. It was never meant to be a garbage pail. You'd be shocked at the secretaries who throw orange peelings, half-filled coffee cups and soggy tea bags into the wastebaskets. Of course they leak through and make a terrible mess. For good measure they dump in shavings from the pencil sharpener.

I find sugar spilled on the tops of desks and it just stays there right along with the blobs of coffee cream, cookie crumbs and hunks of chewing gum stuck any old place.

I just found three pairs of old shoes under a desk, and a good cashmere sweater, rolled up in a ball like it was a rag.

Every evening I turn off electric typewriters and photo copy machines which were left on. I unplug electric coffee makers and defrost small refrigerators. It isn't my job to do these things but it's against my nature to let things burn out and get ruined.

Women are always yelling about how messy men are, but so help me I'd rather clean up after 20 men than two women. Thanks for letting me get this off my chest. I feel better already. — MINNIE

Dear Minnie: I'll bet you a soggy tea bag that this column is going up on hundreds of office bulletin boards all over the country. And do you know who will post it? The MEN!

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14-year-old girl who needs advice. My mother's older sister never married. Aunt Bonnie is nice looking, wears expensive clothes and holds down a good job. Aunt Bonnie comes over about twice a week for dinner. Lately she has been getting me alone and running down my father. She says she could have married several men who were a lot better looking and richer than my mother did. She also says mother could have done better if she hadn't grabbed the first thing that came down the pike. I don't know why my aunt insists on running dad down. He is a wonderful person and he and mom seem very happy.

I don't like to hear these things but I don't know how to shut my aunt up. Please help me. — WISH I HAD EAR-PLUGS

* * *

Dear Wish: Aunt Bonnie is ashamed of her single status so she is trying to belittle your mother's marriage. Tell her you don't think it's very nice of a guest to come into a home and talk about people who offer her hospitality. That ought to settle her hash.

Couple to Live In Manitoba

Centennial United Church was the setting for the mariage of Bessie Jane Musselwhite and Mr. Malcolm George McInnes. Rev. S. J. Parsons officiated at the evening ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Musselwhite, 3371 Veteran Road, and the son of Mr. Hector McInnes, Napinka, Man., and the late Mrs. McInnes.

Miss Marilyn McInnes, sister of the groom, sang Because, during the signing of the register.

Given in mariage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white chiffon over peau do soie. She wore a Grecian style headdress and shoulder-length veil. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, and pink roses formed her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Phyllis Frost, as her sister's only attendant, wore a cocktain-length gown of dusty rose peau de soie with matching jacket. She carried white carnations.

Mr. Wayne McInnes was best man. Ushering were Mr. George Musselwhite and Mr. Gerald Pue.

* * *

For a honeymoon to the United States the new Mrs. McInnes chose a green, imported knit suit and brown accessories.

The newlyweds will make their home in Napinka.

Mr. McInnes travelled from his home in Manitoba for his son's wedding. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. P. Pue and family, Melita, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Whiley, Mr. and Mrs. M. Francis, Mr. and Mrs. J. Garfat, Vancouver; Mr. J. Musselwhite, Ladysmith.

Pink and White Wedding Theme

Large standards of spring flowers decorated Alliance Church for the marriage of Alice Eleanor Moolin and Mr. Douglas Allan Parliament. Rev. T. W. Chapman officiated at the evening ceremony for the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moolin and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Parliament, Cannington, Ont.

At the beginning of the ceremony Miss Cherie Chapman sang I Come to Thee and during signing of the register the Wedding Prayer.

* * *

The bride chose a floor-length lace gown en train featuring a bouffant skirt and fitted bodice with round neckline and lily point sleeves. Her bridal veil misted to her shoulders from a aurora borealis tiara and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls. She carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis.

Mr. Douglas C. Hartley gave the bride in marriage.

Maid of honor, Miss Silvia E. Moolin, and Mrs. Martha Williams, both the bride's sisters, and Mrs. G. McCurrach, bridesmatrons wore street-length gowns in varying shades of rose nylon over taffeta styled with semi-full skirts and short-sleeved bodices. They wore matching rosette headdresses and carried cascade bouquets of white carnations with pink ribbon. Crystal and pearl necklaces, gifts of the bride, complemented their ensembles.

* * *

Mr. Jack Taylor of Toronto, Ont., was best man. Ushering were Mr. Robert Arnett and Mr. George McCurrach.

The lower auditorium of the church was decorated in pink and white streamers, carrying out the wedding theme. Pink roses topped the all-white wedding cake which centred the bride's table.

For travelling to the San Jaun Islands for their honeymoon the bride chose a turquoise and white suit in three-piece style. She wore a pink hat and bone colored accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parliament travelled from Cannington for the marriage of their son.

'What's Inside' More Important Than Beauty to Photographer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The theory that outstanding bone structure is the secret of photographing well is "very old fashioned—1930's talk," says a famous photographer of feminine faces and fashions.

"The inner quality of the person matters more—I can make her beautiful" — these are the comforting words from the photographer Hiro to all of us who confront a camera of any sort with cold chills.

"The term photogenic is overused," said Hiro. "More important is what's inside . . . the loving, the living shining through."

He is unable otherwise to define that inner quality, he admitted. Whatever it is, Mrs. John F. Kennedy is one of its owners. Elegance is another word he uses in connection with the former first lady.

"But," he added, "a woman can own Balenciaga gowns and Cartier jewels and still not be elegant."

* * *

Hiro said when he works with models — and he's done uncounted numbers of them for magazine covers and advertisements—he must "communicate" with them. He must in a sense, he said, have a "crush" on them while they're in front of his cameras.

He added that he can't photograph Jean Shrimpton, one of the world's most photographed faces "because I don't react to her, beautiful as she it." He froze on a trip to Russia—"I just couldn't photograph there."

To Hiro, after that elusive quality, from a photographer's viewpoint the eyes are the most important feature in a feminine face. Next he said, is the mouth.

"The nose," said Hiro, "is a beast."

Yet he added, "an ugly nose can have more quality than the classic. Look at Barbara Streisand. If she didn't have that nose, she might not be where she is today."

Hiro, 34, is a slightly built man of Japanese heritage who came to New York in 1954, studied photography formally, and worked 10 months with the renowned Richard Avedon. Now he has been named the number one photographer for the fashion magazine, Harper's Bazaar He's under agreement with Bazaar to do fashion and beauty photography for it exclusively, but otherwise his works in fashion, still life, in reportage have appeared in magazines ranging from The New York Times to Fortune.

* * *

The photographer's full name is Yasuhiro Wakabayshi and he was born in Shanghai. After the Second World War, the family returned to Japan, but his father's holdings were frozen in China, ending his dreams of studying medicine. He elected to try photography in the United States because it "was either New York or Paris, and I didn't speak French."

He's married now to a Canadian-born artist, and the couple has two sons, five and four years old.

"There's no mystery to the camera," said Hiro. "If you have something to offer creatively, you can be a star overnight."

He's glad, he said, that he's able to do more than fashion photos—"to shoot fashion all the time, I'd be bored. Like eating German food all the time would be boring."

He sees fashion photography as a step ahead of what's being done, as "fantasy, a dream, a point of view." Often it has to be shocking, and one of his most talked-of photos, appearing in Harper's Bazaar and made in Japan, was of a model with naked, heavily tattooed back showing off a necklace.

Spring Tea At St. Mary's

Members of the Afternoon Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Anglican Church are planning a spring tea, to be held May 4 from 2 to 4:30 p.m. in the upper hall.

There will be a food table, thrift table and book stall. An innovation this year is a candy stall arranged by the Junior Auxiliary.

Parson Late

ABERDEEN, Scotland (CP) —A new variation on the old theme of being left at the church happened here when the bride turned up and the groom was on time but there was no sign of the minister. Rev. P. M. Hollands said later, "I was sure the wedding was next Saturday."

CHARRINGTON TOBY BEER... NOTED FOR ITS BRITISH GOOD TASTE

The British are noted for good taste. And so is British beer. Does this mean that Charrington Toby has MORE good taste than Canadian brews? No. It simply means that British brewers like Charrington omit a great deal of the fizz inherent in Canadian beer. And when interfering fizz is removed, you get full flavour. THIS is how Charrington Toby achieves good taste: less gas... fuller flavour. Have a Toby!

PERSONAL MENTION

By Dorothy Wrotnowski

And book lovers are a class of people all on their own. It seems that book lovers will go any place, any time if they get on the trail of something that they want.

Time doesn't mean anything either. They will spend hours and hours searching shelves for a special book.

What a time they are going to have at the book and record sale put on by the Women's Committee to the Victoria School of Music.

But you don't have to be a book buff to be interested in this sale which opens on Thursday evening (28th) at 5 p.m. in a warehouse building opposite Scott and Peden's on Pandora Avenue.

Last year the venture was undertaken for the first time and it was such a resounding success ($1,700 take) that efforts have been doubled.

It was at this first sale that Agnes Newton Keith, well known author who lives here now, found a first edition of her book "Land Below the Wind."

You can just imagine how she felt about the find—Mrs. Keith's own copy had been lost when the Japanese took over in Borneo. She had looked in book stores everywhere but up until last year had been unsuccessful in finding one.

Is Mrs. Keith going to attend the sale this year? She wouldn't think of missing it and will be on hand on Friday morning to see what she can find this year. The sale is also all day Friday from 9 to 9 and if there is anything left it will continue on Saturday. But I doubt very much if there will be anything left.

Back to Agnes Keith. She says that although she and her husband do collect books they really aren't collectors in the true sense of the word.

They like collecting books on countries where they have lived, Borneo, North Africa, to name just two.

Agnes Keith has given quite a number of books for the sale. As she says their bookcase supports the roof of their house and if any more were put upstairs she would fully expect the ceiling to come crashing down. So the Keiths clean-out could be your gain.

* * *

There is just about everything you can imagine. I wouldn't doubt but there are some real finds in the lot which is roughly double of last year.

Every book is in alphabetical order. I mean by author's name. So if you are a Costain lover you just head for the C section. And so on.

Prices start at the very low sum of 10 cents and range up to $1, although there are a few that go over. One, for instance, is a practically new book, a biography of Queen Mary priced at $4. Cost $9, new.

There is a whole section of biographies and historical novels. Another on hobbies and do it yourself—taxidermy, knitting, old fashioned plumbing, gardening, cooking, art, religion. You name it and they've got it. Children's books are all neatly catalogued, too. And there is a wide selection.

The records section is a treasure trove. Something for every taste ranging from classical to whatever you want to call some of the modern stuff.

There are new records and old, all in good condition. Any cracked or chipped records are thrown out.

Had to laugh at reading a note attached to a Bob Dylan record read "Played once with pickup 1½' Empire. Some one else's cup of tea."

* * *

I wrote my notes on a 1950 diary—kept peeking inside but didn't find anything startling. However, I only sampled two or three items so there MAY have been something worth reading.

Forgotten pictures, little notes, birthday cards and such items keep popping up in the books and make interesting reading in themselves.

There has been a tremendous amount of work behind the scenes. The committee started working last February in the building which has been loaned by Peter MacDonald.

Mrs. Gordon Grant is chairman of the group and Mrs. W. Munro is looking after the record section.

"It was really cold when we started, four electric heaters going and we wore lined boots," says Ginny Grant. "It's fun though and I don't mind saying that I've done a lot of things for this that I wouldn't do for anything else."

Other members of the committee, all working hard and having fun at the same time are Janey Gudewell, Peggy Gage, Connie Westinghouse, Mary Henderson, Pep Gross, Margaret Wade, Catriona Graeme, Betty McCully, Elaine Quebec, Heather Baker and Grace Patterson.

Just as I was leaving I heard a little bell tinkling. "That is to remind us to move our cars," said Margaret Wade. Well, wouldn't you think?

Don't forget—Thursday, April 28 from 5 to 9 p.m., Friday, all day and evening, and possibly Saturday at 507 Pandora.

Probably see you there. Among quite a few others, I'm after a Fanny Farmer Boston Cookbook for 50 cents.

Europe in May

Friday will be a red letter day for Judge M. A. and Mrs. Tyrhitt-Drake. With daughter Elizabeth they are off to Europe for the month of May.

Rome is their first destination and they will be in England before they leave for home. It is possible Elizabeth may stay on in England for a while.

Round the World

The J. M. Porters are back from a three-month trip that took them all round the world.

The Porters left on the SS United States and England was their first stop. From there they sailed in the P and O liner Chitral to the Far East. Tokyo, Hong Kong, Malaya and Ceylon were ports of call. On the return trip they sailed in the President Cleveland via Honolulu.

Lunch at Marina

Mrs. Scott Wallace is busy these days making last-minute preparations for the social events in connection with B.C. Division of the Canadian Medical Association meeting with the College of General Practice of B.C.

She is convener of the ladies committee. Others are; Mrs. R. LeHuquet, Mrs. J. Fowler, Mrs. J. Morrison, Mrs. A. McGregor and Mrs. N. B. Reilly.

There will be a coffee party at the Empress on Monday morning and the Oak Bay Marina will be the setting for the luncheon and fashion show to be held on Tuesday.

That evening there will be a dinner dance at Victoria's newest motel, the Red Lion.

Opening Tonight

Incidentally, the big opening of the Red Lion will be tonight and I hear it is to be quite a posh affair. I'm looking forward to have a look-see. From what I hear, this place has just about everything.

Pool Show

Opening of motels and apartments are happening so fast around Victoria. Down at the Lord Simcoe they are planning for the opening of the new pool. It will be a fashion show and tea on Friday afternoon. Open to the public, for a price. If it rains there won't be any party this week.

Mrs. Lloyd Brereton, left, entertained in her Fairfield Road home yesterday afternoon during the tea hour in honor of Mrs. Felix Greene, right. Mrs. Greene is the wife of the well-known British journalist who gave a talk last evening in McPherson Playhouse on his recent visits to North Viet Nam and Red China.

Looking forward to meeting their many friends again at the linen shower and donation tea are these youngsters at B.C. Protestant Orphanage. From left to right, Charlotte, four; Donna May, 2½; Darcy, three, and Bud, five. Sponsored by the Ladies' Committee to the Orphanage, the annual affair will be held from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., May 5, at the home. The children will entertain with songs during the tea hour. —(Kinsman)

Hawkes-Pugh

Quiet Home Wedding

Evely Lorraine Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Pugh, 816 Condor Avenue, became the bride of Mr. Richard Douglas Hawkes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas T. Hawkes, at a quiet wedding held at 2713 Cavendish Avenue, home of the groom's parents. Rev. Albert E. King officiated.

Baskets of white stock, pink carnations and roses flanked the fireplace and decorated the reception rooms. The table, covered with a white lace cloth crocheted by Mrs. Gordon C. Thomas, grandmother of the groom, was centred with a wedding cake, decorated by the bride's uncle Mr. Dick Jewsbury.

Organist Mrs. Mae Landwer played The Bridal Chorus from Lohengren as the radiant bride entered the church on the arm of her father. For the occasion she chose a white boucle suit, with appliques of lace highlighting the bodice. Her shoulder length veil misted from a single white satin rose. Elbow length satin gloves and a bouquet of pink carnations with tapers of white stephonis completed her wedding ensemble.

Miss Karen Berry attended the bride wearing a pink lined suit accented at the waist and collar by overlays of lace. Roses en tone topped her short veil and she carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Best man was Mr. Jim Jeffs. Miss Janice Pugh, sister of the bride, and Mr. Glen Lynch were ushers.

Violist, Mr. Harry Brawn, played Leibestraum during the signing of the register. Mr. Reg Pugh proposed the toast to his niece, with a responding toast to the bride's parents from the groom.

The bride donned a grey borg jacket over her suit and wore pink accessories with a corsage of pink and white carnations for travelling.

On returning from the honeymoon trip on the mainland to the States, Mr. and Mrs. Hawkes will make their home at the Fort Harrison Apartments, 1410 Fort Street.

R. Sarkanak Wins Prize

A number of local students were present at a meeting of l'Alliance Francaise, for a competition in French speaking.

Invited guests included Miss E. McQueen, chairman of the committee, Mr. J. Chell, superintendent of French language teaching in High Schools, and Mr. V. Thomson, principal of Victoria High School.

Linda Glauser, Grade 9, Gordon Head Junior High School, was awarded second prize for her description of a trip through France to Paris.

Other contestants were Susan Ross-Nutt, Grade 12 Esquimalt Senior High School, "Trip to England"; John Adams, Grade 11, Victoria High School, "Wilfred Laurier"; Susan Toone, Grade 12, Victoria High School, "Confederation"; Dallas McLean, Norfolk House, "Life of Henri Duval" and Penny Davis, Norfolk House "Everything that IS True."

GOODBYE CHARLIE

Leather for Detailing

Wide Variety of Furs in Fashion

MONTREAL (CP) — Mink looks almost old-fashioned alongside the increasing variety of furs now being shown.

The latest treatments and dye jobs make many distinctions difficult.

For instance, a gold horizontally seamed and belted coat was introduced as muskrat, along with a similar wrap in red, at the annual fur fashion convention Tuesday.

The collections, representing 60 manufacturing furriers in Ontario and Quebec, exhibited youthful styling, with much of the look stemming from dyed furs.

Horizontal seaming was even more prevalent last season and use of leather to join the pelts has increased. Narrow pelts were sometime diagonally seamed.

Leather also was used for detailing. A fleecy coat of white Mongolian lamb had armholes outlined in leather with leather belt and buttons. Most coats were double-breasted.

A zebra stenciled mouton coat reverses to navy fabric for wet days. One in white mink reversed to black broadtail with white mink muffs and collar to hem band.

Most unusual was a fur for lounging. It came in light, fluffy floor-length Mongolian lamb and was trimmed with brown satin ruffles.

The Canadian majestic mink was luxuriously fashioned, of along more traditional lines. But a violet mink coat came with a hood and a dark mink had narrow set-in shoulders and was semi-fitted.

Mrs. Scott Leader LOBA

Mrs. C. Scott of Nanaimo was elected leader of the Ladies Orange Benevolent Association at the Grand Lodge convention held recently in North Vancouver. Mrs. L. Hamilton of Victoria was elected auditor.

Reports on the Association's projects were given, among them the Loyal Protestant Home for Children in New Westminster.

Hailing Police Car Gave Away Driver

Kenneth Tidbury flagged down the wrong car for help when he got a flat at Douglas and Hillside early Tuesday morning.

The car he hailed was a police patrol car. The police got out, smelled liquor on Tidbury's breath and took him to the station for a breathalyser test.

He gave a reading of .24 per cent.

Tidbury, 1719 Emerson, pleaded guilty in central magistrate's court Tuesday to impaired driving and was fined $350. His licence was suspended.

A youth charged in connection with a brawl Dec. 26 in a Saanich home was remanded without plea for one week.

Court was told that Kelly had just returned to Victoria and gave himself up to Saanich police Sunday.

OTHERS JAILED

Two other men have been sentenced on charges of assault and creating a disturbance during the same incident.

Kent Henley, 1114 Marchant, was sentenced to three months in jail for causing a disturbance and causing mischief.

Allan Robinson, 2843 Blackwood, was jailed for three months for causing mischief and assault.

A man who stole while he was on probation was jailed for nine months.

Magistrate William Ostler told Timms he was too leniently treated last time.

* * *

Wayne Reed needed a complete change of attitude and environment, said Magistrate Ostler.

Reed, 1271 Faithful, had pleaded guilty at an earlier hearing to possession of stolen property.

He admitted then to having three chains worth a total $93 at his home. They had been stolen from Ideal Fuel.

Reed was jailed for three months.

Carl Hanes didn't pay for some cheese and pork chops he got from the Colwood Shop Easy April 9.

Hanes, 537 Rocky Point, pleaded guilty to theft under $50 and was remanded to May 4 for a pre-sentence report.

Pedestrians Killed by Car

VANCOUVER (CP) — One elderly pedestrian was killed and another died later in hospital Monday night when hit by a car in a crosswalk. Two police officers witnessed the accident from their parked car and said the men, not identified, were knocked out of their shoes and one of them was thrown more than 80 feet. The driver of the car was taken into custody.

Retrial, Murder Will Be Heard In Spring Assizes

A retrial of two men charged with being in possession of narcotics for trafficking purposes begins in the Spring Assizes in the Law Courts Monday.

Robert Lawrence Paul, 23, of Victoria, and Thomas Robert Norman Bradley, 28, of Prince George, were sentenced to five years each last June.

They appealed the sentence and were allowed a retrial.

Their arrest followed police seizure March 20, 1965, of a paper bag containing a large quantity of pharmaceutical drugs in liquid and tablet form.

The trial of 16-year-old Francis Ottley Wollaston, charged with the capital murder of seven-year-old Linda Crocker, Feb. 10, will begin May 9.

DIRECTED VERDICT

In the case of Robert McDonald, charged with the capital murder of 83-year-old Frederick Dyer, 1213 Walnut, Sept. 27, there will be a directed verdict.

This is expected to be given following the Wollaston trial.

The charge has never been read to McDonald. Following his arrest, he was committed by order of the provincial cabinet to be detained at the Riverview Hospital in Essondale.

Racing Chief Gets $2,000

A cabinet order said he will be allowed $2,000 per fiscal year. The old amount was $1,000.

Bargaining Rights

Ottawa Plan Gives B.C. Ammunition

Prime Minister Pearson's scheme for collective bargaining rights for federal employees was hailed here Tuesday as a good arguement for similar rights for provincial civil servants.

David Lyttle, president of the 8,000-member B.C. Government Employees' Association, said all civil servants in Canada are seeking the right to collective bargaining and that the B.C. group has been pressing for this "for some time."

"What position would any employer be in if he doesn't grant the rights granted by all other employers in a particular field?"

OTHER PROVINCES

Mr. Lyttle said he does not anticipate there will be any immediate reaction here to Ottawa's proposal for a system of bargaining with cumpulsory arbitration to settle disputes.

"We just hope the fact there will be bargaining in the federal field will perhaps promote some action in this regard in British Columbia," he said.

The BCGEA president said the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario now have granted forms of collective bargaining to their civil servants and that similar developments are taking place in Nova Scotia.

BEFORE COMMITTEE

He said the B .C. government is "naturally bound to consider what other provinces do in respect to people in their jurisdictions."

The federal legislation, introduced in the Commons Monday, will go before a joint Commons-Senate committee for hearings before final approval.

Salaries, Prices Move Upward With New Year

Higher salaries and consumer prices and increases in other economic indicators were reported Tuesday in Trade Minister Loffmark's monthly bulletin of business activity.

"Indicators of economic activity in January and February showed solid gains over equivalent 1965 levels," the report said.

However, consumer prices "continued their upward drift," with the price index increasing 4 per cent in March after the wholesale index climbed 5 per cent in February.

In primary industry, logging "continued to expand in February with the timber scale 16 per cent higher—however, snow conditions in February 1965 were much worse and part of the gains reflect improved weather conditions."

January crude oil production reached 1,319,000 barrels, well above the January 1965 figure of 1,004,000 barrels, and natural gas production was at the same time 31 per cent greater.

DECREASE

Also in the primary category, fish landings showed a decrease of 9 per cent in value, reaching $1,251,000.

In manufacturing, "January factory shipments at $233,000,000 were 12 per cent above January, 1965.

"The forest industry continued to show good gains in February with pulp production up 12 per cent, paper production up 7 per cent and plywood production rising by 11 per cent."

MORE BUILDING

Construction also showed increases with a $3,000,000 rise in the value of building permits to a total of $26,000,000.

In other categories, retail sales in January at $176,000,000 showed an increase of $18,000,000 over January 1965, waterborne tonnage from Vancouver harbor increased 151,000 tons over February 1965 and January life insurance sales were $51,000,000 compared with $35,000,000 for January, 1965.

Cheque Forger Sent to Prison

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Albert Charles Edward Hartley, 55, a cheque forger who jumped bail while on trial in October 1964, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary in magistrate's court Monday. He was convicted last week of forging nine cheques using forms stolen from a Vancouver cartage firm.

Union Resumes Space Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The International Union of Electricians (IUE) says it has "no alternative but to resume" a strike against the United Technology Centre, which tied up construction jobs at Cape Kennedy early this week.

The IUE also said it has filed charges with the National Labor Relations Board charging the centre with failure to bargain in good faith.

Sailor Killed In Fall

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — A Canadian sailor fell to his death on board the Canadian navy's mobile repair ship, HMCS Cape Scott in Halifax, Tuesday.

Leading Seaman Sydney Seymour, 36, a hull mechanic, was killed when he fell about 35 feet down an open hatch on board the Cape Scott as it was tied up at the naval dockyard in the maritime port.

Seymour, a native of Toronto, is survived by his wife and four children. He had served with the Royal Canadian Navy for the past 15 years.

Naval authorities said an investigation will be held.

COAST TO COAST NEWSPAPERS SELL THE MOST

the other half begins in vineyards uniquely favored by soil and climate, where the Andres' vines of old world heritage, French Columbar, Golden Chasselas and Johannesburg Riesling are tended by master vintagers. After careful pressing of the choicest grapes, the new-born wine is deposited in oaken casks to age and mellow naturally. Every unhurried step, from the ripening of the grapes to the final bottling, is attended by experts who are dedicated to producing fine wine.

This is the half of the story most people never know, but without it, there couldn't be a happy ending.

U.S. Cats Best In Show

They topped the 150 entries in the annual event.

COMMONERS

But on Sunday, the haughty peers of the feline realm stood by and watched two commoners crowned king and queen of the show's pet parade.

Best cat opposite sex, male, El Distino of Chalet, seal point Siamese owned by Mrs. B. V. Davison, of Edmonton; female, Glory-S. Suntan of Glynneath, Havana brown, Mrs. Ivor Thomas, Nanaimo.

Flag Raising To Open Appeal

The Salvation Army flag will be raised on the Causeway flagpole at 9:30 a.m. May 2, to launch the army's Red Shield Appeal.

It will be flown there throughout May, during the appeal.

Colorful, Noisy, 'Adequate'

Yesteryear's Politics Recalled

The color of yesteryear's provincial politics was outlined by historian-newspaperman James Nesbitt at a meeting of the Alumni Association of the University of Victoria Monday.

Speaking of an incident 66 years ago in the Legislature, Nesbitt outlined a shouting match that makes today's sessions look tame.

The incident began when Lieutenant-Governor T. R. McInnes removed Charles A. Semlin from the post of premier and installed Joseph Martin, leaving the legislature in chaos.

When the lieutenant-governor arrived to prorogue the House a rebellion led by James Dunsmuir began and members walked out of the house on the lieutenant-governor's arrival.

"One newspaper claimed they couldn't publish Mr. de Cosmos' political speeches in full because they did not have enough capital 'I's' in their print shop," Mr. Nesbitt said.

Looking back at B.C. governments he said it would be difficult to call any particular one either really good or really bad. They were all adequate for their particular time.

"I think the present government is adequate, maybe even more than adequate," he said.

Building Death Stalls Jury

OTTAWA (CP) — An inquest into the death of Flavio Carozzi, 35, of nearby Orleans, Ont., in the March 31 collapse of a high-rise building under construction, ended with the jury unable to establish individual responsibility.

Construction of the 12-storey office and apartment building had progressed to the fourth floor when the structure suddenly collapsed, burying Carozzi.

Oak Bay, Mt. Douglas 'Heard Nothing Better'

Two School Bands Share Highest Rating

By BERT BINNY

"I can honestly say that I haven't heard anything better!"

So said band adjudicator Randall Spicer, at the Festival band session Tuesday night. He was referring to the performances by Oak Bay and Mount Douglas Senior Secondary school bands, both of which were rated "Superior," the highest rating possible.

SECOND TO NONE

Mr. Spicer has just been visiting or adjudicating in most of the western states and he finds those two Victoria bands second to none of the performers he found elsewhere.

Thus on a note of considerable triumph the seventh full day of the current Music Festival came to an end. Still to come are two Honor Performances, tonight and Friday, plus eight more sessions of competition which wind up Thursday.

Withdrawals prevented the performance of two more senior bands and a senior orchestra Tuesday night, but if the program was low in quantity it was sky high in quality.

There were folk dance classes for girls or for boys exclusively yesterday morning.

Up to the end of tuesday afternoon and with only one more contest to go, the Grade 7 boys from Monterey School (Division 1) have outscored everybody else in the Festival as far as folk dancing is concerned. They received 95 points; their counterparts, the Grade 7 girls, had a top of 94.

Both Margaret Jenkins school (Divisions 1 and 2) in the social dance class and Gordon Head Grade 7 girls with their modern Israeli item, Mayim, scored 90's. Monterey, (Division 2) made 94 with the Scottish number, Angus McLeod.

Adjudicator Rose Hill had a word of genuine encouragement for the dancers who didn't gain certificates. Their standards, she said, were "very creditable."

Two trombone quartets, one from Victoria Senior Secondary school and one form Colquitz Junior secondary, were described by adjudicator Randall Spicer as "very outstanding." They received 89 and 90 marks respectively.

The string classes, who migrated from Memorial Hall to Fellowship Hall on Monday morning, flitted back again first thing Tuesday.

MARKS HIGH

Marks, however, were high; there were scores of 90 or more in three out of the four competitions and not one out of the 13 performers earned less than 86. Ruth Curran's 92 in the under-10 division was top mark for the morning though Linda Tucker (under 14) had 91 and John Rigby (under 16) had 90.

In the afternoon the strings graduated upwards to senior solos, conertos and sonatas. Here, again, entries were minimal and actual competition barely noticeable.

For instance, two young ladies contested the senior solo and another two the junior concerto. The senior concerto and sonata saw Miss Trudi Conrad, as it were, in recital and the junior sonata presented Miss Elizabeth Gibson—alone. But both had, between them, provided half the senior solo and junior conerto classes. Where would yesterday afternoon's proceedings have been without them?

Eminent pianist Robin Wood, director of the Victoria School of Music, accompanied Miss Conrad in her three appearances. She scored 90, 92 and 93, displaying, in the words of the adjudicator, "beautiful tone."

Dance classes, outside of one adult competition, ended yesterday afternoon and on precisely the same note as they started Monday morning. The very first entry, Braefoot school, scored 94 for their Roman Soldiers. The last item on Tuesday afternoon, 28 performers from the Marge Lindley school, received 94 marks for a traditional Hawaiian Canoe Dance.

But the afternoon's competition was sadly depleted by lack of entries or by withdrawals. Of eight classes only one was contested.

FOLK DANCES

This one, for folk dances, under 14, was most interesting. The items were the Hawaiian Canoe Dance, this time by the Katherine Costain Studio, an Irish Slip Jig, a Phillipine dance executed with bamboo poles and called Tinikling and a Sailor's Hornpipe accompanied on piano and banjo.

The Hornpipe won, followed by the Canoe Dance and the Slip Jig.

There was an upward revision of marks yesterday. Playing in the junior orchestra class on Monday evening, the Greater Victoria Junior Secondary Schools orchestra received 90 points.

School choral classes, with adjudicator Ralph Manzo, start this morning and run all day and evening at the McPherson Playhouse.

Also this evening, 8 p.m. at Central Junior, is the Dance Honor Performance with a program of outstanding items selected from the last two days of competition.

Tuesday results:

The British enjoy Toby by the Yard

Old English yard glasses like the one illustrated here were very popular in the 18th century, about the time that Toby was first brewed. They were kept in English Inns for a special type of competition that occurred when two gentlemen would compete to see who could down the contents of such a glass first. The yard glass is still in evidence today, and is especially popular with British university clubs where initiates are invited to down the contents of the yard glass in one draught. Have a yard of Toby!

TV TALK

By ROBIN JEFFREY

". . . And the OVEN stares back at me when it's off, and the WASHER stares back at me when it's off . . ."

Since the discovery a few months ago that a former U.S. congressional investigator had tried to manipulate the sacred Nielsen ratings, the big advertising agencies have been doing a little soul-searching (or whatever big advertising agencies research).

The Nielsen system has always worn a halo of sanctity. On the basis of its calculations most shows are dropped or retained, and millions of advertising dollars are committed.

Nielsen selects 1,100 homes and installs on the TV sets a mechanical device which records the programs watched. In theory, the sample homes are kept secret. Nielsen changes 20 per cent of them every year.

All this was perfectly acceptable until the former investigator began contacting the "secret" sample homes to try to influence their program choices.

Now the advertising agencies (six of them pour about $750,000,000 into TV) are re-examining the whole rating set-up. They say that in the meantime they will continue to use Nielsen, but they will try to come up with something better.

So, if a lovely blonde knocks at your door and begs you to watch My Mother the Car, don't do it. You might be saving the darn show.

Opening lead: Club king

If you can afford to lose a trick in the process of establishing a long card, loser-on-loser play can produce winning results in situations that look impossible at first glance. You may have to look twice to spot the neat manoeuvre that enabled South to make his slam on this hand.

A one no trump response to the Big Club shows 9 to 11 high-card points and, like any other positive response, is forcing all the way to game. Thus, there was no need for South to force on the next round, so the "unneccessary" double jump bid of four spades showed a semi-solid suit with just one missing higher honor. (An "unnecessary" single jump in this situation shows a completely solid suit.) Armed with this knowledge, North headed for the proper spot—six spades.

On the lead of the club king, the slam seemed at first to hinge on the even-money finesse for the diamond queen, but declarer spotted a different line of play that boosted his chance to 75 per cent.

He won dummy's club ace, cashed the heart ace and entered dummy with the second round of trumps. He then led dummy's heart jack, throwing the club loser from his hand when East did not cover. Having ruffed West's club return, declarer crossed to the diamond king and led the heart ten from the table, taking the ruffing finesse against East queen. South thus built a heart trick in a way that took care of both a club and a diamond loser, and made the diamond finesse unnecessary.

GOODACRE TOWERS
TWIN HIGHRISE COMPLEX
880 and 890 DOUGLAS STREET

Due to the response of people of discriminating taste our choice of 1- and 2-Bedroom Suites is rapidly diminishing. We are sorry to say that our Studio Suites have met with such approval that at the present time we have none available for occupancy.

If you are contemplating a change to this most modern form of living see Goodacre Towers, compare your dollar value. Join the many happy residents who have found that we make every effort to provide you with accommodation you are pleased to call "Home."

CLOSE TO JUBILEE HOSPITAL

The cathedral entrance adds a feeling of privacy to the large living room with brick fireplace. The dining room leads to a spacious modern kitchen with built-in range. A bathroom with added storage space, master bedroom and cozy den complete a truly convenient main floor.

The second floor provides two bright, airy bedrooms. 3-pce bath with shower and large attic storage.

The full extra high basement has a roughed-in rumpus room with brick fireplace, ample space for 2 large bedrooms and a large unobstructed work space.

The attractive exterior with shake roof, carport with blacktop driveway complete this wonderful home. This house is not quite complete and some of your own ideas as to finish could still be incorporated.

Garden Notes

There's a Lazy Way

By M. V. CHESNUT

When I attend the fall horticultural shows, I always wind up at the vegetable displays, gazing with awe at the prize-winning carrots—long, slim, elegantly tapered, reminding one of a modern miss attired in one of those waistless "sack" gowns.

The amount of work that goes into the raising of these blue ribbon specimens is appalling. To win a prize with carrots, you need a deep, rich sandy soil, and it is necessary to dig it over thoroughly to a depth of about two feet, breaking up all the lumps and taking out all the stones and twigs and litter. Manure which isn't completely rotted makes for hairy or forked or deformed carrots, so you feed your soil a good six months before ever a seed goes in the ground.

* * *

As a natural-born lazy gardener, with a propensity more for the hammock or the deck chair than for the business end of a spade, I get tired just thinking about all those strenuous procedures, so I by-pass most of the labor by growing only the short, stumpy kinds like Nantes or Chantenay which will make a crop of sorts even in soil that has been given only a lick and a promise.

At our house, we don't grow carrots for winter storage, partly because our basement is too warm for good storage, partly because I figure the market gardeners can grow better carrots than I can, and they are cheap and plentiful all winter in the stores. We grow carrots purely for the pleasure and the taste-thrill of pulling and eating them while they are still very young—not much bigger than your middle finger.

Served raw in salads, or lightly cooked and eaten with a dab of butter, these little fellows have a flavor all their own; moreover, this is something you can't buy in the stores, for market gardeners and commercial growers can't afford to pull and sell baby carrots—they must wait until the crop has put on some bulk and weight.

* * *

Mind you, you're not quite out of the woods, as far as strenuous labor goes, even when you sow the short, stumpy kinds, for weeding and thinning carrots is a miserable chore. The job must be done while the plants are still in the seedling stage, and the finely-cut, ferny foliage is hard to distinguish in a weedy bed. I have managed to eliminate at least a portion of this back-breaking work of weeding by using a little stunt taught to me by an old-time Scottish professional gardener.

After the carrot seeds are sown in the furrow, they are covered with a half-inch of fine soil, and then firmed by walking toe-to-heel down the row. Then, using the draw hoe, a little ridge of soil, about two inches high, is drawn up over the sown row.

* * *

Eight days after the seed is sown, when it is just beginning to sprout away down under the surface, this ridge is levelled off with the back of the rake. The levelling-off process will disturb and kill the more quickly germinating weed seeds, leaving the carrots to come up in comparatively weed-free rows.

So far, I haven't figured out any way of thinning the carrots except by squatting down between the rows and pulling them up by hand, but I'm working on it.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Exit Leslie, Enter Inger

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Warren Beatty discovered Inger Stevens at the Oscar awards. He now seems to be wooing the farmer's daughter. I use "seems" advisedly because Inger is not married. Poor Leslie Caron. Like every woman in love with Warren, she believed she would succeed where other charmers—Natalie Wood, Joan Collins, to name two—had failed. But the cards were stacked against her. To do Warren justice, after he was slighted as the other man in Leslie's divorce from British director Peter Hall, he did tell Leslie, "If you want me to marry you, I will." But Leslie is too shrewed to take a man on such a lukewarm declaration. It is not as though Warren were rich or had anything but his charm going for him. Let other wives beware. Warren is simply not marriage-minded.

* * *

Barbra Streisand's million-dollar baby will cost her another million with the postponement of her starring role in the movie version of Funny Girl. Planned for September, the production for Ray Stark's Seven Arts has perforce been post-baby-dated to the spring of 1967.

* * *

Mon Dieu! How the British reviewers chopped those two delictable French pastries, Brigitte Bardot and Jeanne Moreau in Viva Maria, just released in London. I am said, remembering director Louis Malle's great enthusiasm at having corralled France's two leading beauties. You never know what you have in the pot, do you?

Mel Ferrer phoned between planes. He had flown in with Terence Young who will direct Mrs. Ferrer, whom I don't have to tell you is Audrey Hepburn in Wait Until Dark—for the screen. "And the best part is that we will make it in Hollywood this winter." Mel is the producer. The story of the blind girl who is going to be murdered sounds very Oscar-ish. Mel was dashing back to Switzerland to take their five-year-old son, Sean, to his first morning of school.

* * *

The feud between Peter Sellers and producer Charlie Feldman is said to have reached the point where Peter had a banner strung across the Casino Royale set in London with the message, "Yankee Go Home." . . . Perhaps everything will return to normal when we see Sir Alec Guinness in a comedy again. Hotel Paradiso will soon be released and Sir Alec, who knows more about comedy in his big toe than Sellers, who paid him the tribute of imitating him, knows in a whole leg, will show us the finer aspects of his art. What I means is that when we see Guinness the master on the screen, Sellers' contribution to this form of art may not seem as important. And then Feldman will not have to worry about Peter so much.

* * *

The late Adlai Stevenson's bodyguard, Chicago-born, ex-Los Angeles cop Robert Phillips, landed a good role in The Dirty Dozen. And all because Oscar winner Lee Marvin went to bat for him. Robert originally landed with the late U.S. ambassador to the United Nations because he did not avoid the awkward duty of giving Stevenson's son a traffic ticket. Such are the strange avenues to film fame.

What's Obscene?

SYDNEY HARRIS

The most recent U.S. Supreme Court decision on obscenity—in which the judges divided five against four—Only further points up the utter impossibility of deciding what is "obscene" in any legal sense.

Not only does one generation disagree with another about what is "obscene," but within the same generation, different classes and groups of people will disagree about it. There may be some absolute standard, but no one has found it yet.

* * *

It might be useful here to compare the idea of "obscenity" with the legal concept of "fraud." In order to prove fraud in a court of law, it is first necessary to show "intent to defraud." If it can be shown that a man did not intend to commit fraud, he may be guilty of something else, but he is not guilty of fraud.

In the same way, "obscenity" resides in the intent of the author. And how can one demonstrate such intent, or lack of it? The court has used as a yardstick "whether the material has some redeeming social value." But this is a foolish criterion: I might write a novel consisting of 90 per cent pornography, and put in 10 per cent of "redeeming social value," simply to placate the authorities and satisfy the letter of the law.

* * *

"Intent" is a highly subjective matter, and does not easily lend itself to legal probings. I have seen, for instance, foreign movies which the average person would unhesitatingly call "obscene," yet in my view they sprang from an honest attempt to depict reality as the scenarist saw it.

On the other hand, I have seen Hollywood movies which the average person would call "light sex comedies," yet in my view these have been more obscene than the foreign films, for their whole intent seems to be to titillate the subject of sex in a coy and vulgar manner.

Who is right or wrong about this? There is no way to tell; it is a matter of taste, judgment, background, conditioning, and cultural atmosphere.

* * *

It may be that obscenity, like beauty, lies in the mind of the beholder; or there may be an evolutionary morality, as Teilard de Cahrin put it, whose value depends on "collective feeling, common insight and the culture of the time."

Furthermore, I don't happen to believe that obscenity, of any sort, is as harmful as some people seem to think. The profound immoralities of our time are cruelty, indifference, injustice, and the use of others as means rather than as ends in themselves.

If everything deemed indecent or obacene were wiped out overnight, it would not make for a conspicuously better world, or for a more "moral" citizenry.

The Childless Ones

By ERMA BOMBECK

A few columns back, I wrote a profile on mothers of large families, listing some of the items in their survival kit.

Now it seems another group wishes to be heard from; the women with no children who have a unique survival kit of their own.

The childless woman heads up one of the largest families in the world: everybody else's. She has probably held more babies at christenings, attended more baby showers, bought more cuddly bunnies and candy canes, knitted more booties than any other woman alive.

* * *

To the children of her friends, she's Mary Poppins with a magic umbrella. To herself, she's a woman Nature has played a trick on, and she must adjustt o it in her own way.

PLIMLEY

* * *

She didn't plan for a quiet house any more than the woman with 10 childred planned for wall-to-wall children. It just happened.

In her survival kit, she, too, lists a hard shell. This protects her from the bluntly curious, who ask, "How come you don't have a child?"

* * *

A long-playing record that plays "No": A must for the woman with no family who is reminded of this fact every time they want a chariman, a hostess, or a fund-raiser.

A bonus card: That allows her to pass "Go" and collect five minutes of conversation that doesn't mention toilet training and pregnancy. The group that ignores the activities and interests of the childless woman is missing out on an opportunity to expand its own world. It's just possible she may have read a book she could share, or report on some fascinating phase of the BOW (Big Outside World).

* * *

A sense of humor: When well-meaning friends want to fill up her life with children by dropping theirs off for a few hours each week. Also to be employed when it becomes known she has the house with "space" which becomes a storage bin for 56 cartons of leis for the church luau, 500 pounds of paper for the paper drive, and a garage full of bleach bottles and dried flowers for the bazaar committee.

* * *

The childless woman who is the envy of very few, ironically is the target of much resentment from mothers who take pot shots at her free time, well-manicured nails, freedom, lack of responsibilities, coffee table with the ceramic ashtrays, the absence of plastics in her home, and her well-cared-for dog or cat, as the case may be.

Midnight Monday New Tax Deadline

OTTAWA (CP)—Personal income tax returns for 1965 may be filed without penalty up to midnight Monday night, May 2, Revenue Minister Benson said Tuesday in the Commons. The normal deadline is April 30 but this falls on a Saturday this year.

Super Germ-Killer Found

Antibiotic Attacks Diseases of Man, Plants, Animals

OTTAWA (CP)—A red-colored liquid discovered and tested by three federal agriculture department microbiologists may furnish new anti-biotic weapons to fight diseases of plants, animals and man.

It kills the germs which cause tuberculosis and staphylococcus aureus, the "golden staph" germs which resist current antibiotics and which have caused the shutdown of a number of Canadian hospitals to check its spread.

Its potential to battle cancer now is being studied by the cancer research institute at the University of Saskatchewan but the results won't be known for a year or more.

* * *

Besides medical uses, the new antibiotic kills bacteria which cause potato ring rot, alfalfa wilt, fruit tree fireblight, halo blight in oats and the fungi that rot cereal roots.

Announcing the discovery at a press conference Tuesday, Agriculture Minister Greene predicted that the names of the three discoverers "will long be rembered and honored in the annals of man's struggle against disease."

* * *

Their discovery is named Myxin for the group of soil bacteria known as myxobacters from which it was extracted. In lab tests, it has prevented growth of 34 species of bacteria, 49 species of fungi, 12 species of actinomycetes and 12 species of yeast.

Actinomycetes is a genus of higher bacteria, reproducing by spores. They may infect the human body.

Myxin strikes at a wider variety of disease-causing organisms than any other known antibiotic, is relatively easy and cheap to produce and can be used on crops as a spray, a control method too costly up to now for antibiotics.

Dr. Fred Delmar Cook, 45, now on the faculty of the University of Alberta, noted in a soil research project that a one-celled microbe prevented growth of many other organisms causing serious crop dis-

After Quake

Soviet Chiefs View Havoc

At least four persons were killed and 150 others hospitalized in the early morning quake which crumbled "several" hospitals, destroyed many older homes and leveled schools, public buildings and factories, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported. The reports of collapsed hospitals raised fears of a major disaster.

* * *

Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev, in an unprecedented move for Kremlin leaders, flew to the capital of Uzbekistan shortly after the first shock jolted the city of 1,127,000. The new shocks began nearly 14 hours after the initial quake while Kosygin and Brezhnev were inspecting damage.

More tremors were felt later but Tass made no report of additional casualties or damage.

Terrorist Mine Kills 11

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong terrorists exploded a mine at an intersection on the suskirts of Saigon early Wednesday, killing 11 persons and wounding 20 others. All casualties were believed to be Vietnamese.

Four Americans were wounded along with five Vietnamese in one of the incidents. A terrorist threw a grenade into the Americans' jeep, and one of them quickly pitched it back out just before it exploded, probably saving their lives.

Close to Chinese Line

Missile Downs Red Super Jet

SAIGON (AP) — American planes shot down a MiG-21 over North Viet Nam only 35 miles from China's frontier Tuesday, a U.S. spokesman announced. It was the first kill of the best Communist jet in Asia.

Peking's New China news agency said North Viet Nam's air force shot down two U.S. jets and damaged several others. It did not mention the MiG-21.

Proximity of the action to the frontier led to speculation MiG-21s were using Chinese bases.

China is believed to be producing planes at this type.

SIDEWINDER

Cyprus R. Vance, U.S. deputy defence secretary, said Sunday North Viet Nam is believed to have about 15 MiG-21s. They could have come either from the Soviet Union or from China.

Sidewinder missiles from a U.S. Air Force F-4C Phantom brought down the MiG in a dogfight 65 miles north-northeast of Hanoi. The pilot is believed to have parachuted.

Ground fighting in South Viet Nam against the Viet Cong dwindled.

Within the South Viet Nam capital of Saigon terrorists staged four separate incidents. They hurled grenades at U.S. military personnel and at a billet for South Korean soldiers, injuring five Americans and seven South Vietnamese.

HEAT SEEKING

The Sidewinders used in the latest engagement are heat-seeking missiles thathome in on jet exhaust pipes of opposing planes. A skilled pilot, however, may be able to out-manoeuvre them until they lose momentum.

Britain Reaffirms Pro-U.S. War Stand

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's new Labor government Tuesday night firmly backed U.S. Vietnamese policy and warned that an American withdrawal could be a disaster for free nations in southeast Asia.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, in a major review of the government's overseas and defence policies, said North Vietnamese Communists forced the pace of the war by their military interference in the south and refusal to negotiate peace.

He told parliament: "If the conflict in Viet Nam were to end by the complete abandonment of the area by the United States or of an outright communist victory, this would be a matter of the gravest concern to all non-Communist states in that part of the world.

He said the only solution to Viet Nam lay in negotiation—and the United States was ready to talk peace with Hanoi whenever it wished . . . "and it ought so to wish."

Opposition Chiefs Worried

Truscott Fate In High Court

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The fate of Steven Truscott is in the hands of the Supreme Court of Canada and opposition spokesmen are worried those hands may already be tied.

Conservative leader Diefenbaker said Tuesday "The limitatations on the Supreme Court are of such a nature that they deny the completeness of investigation that is warranted.

"I have great respect for the Supreme Court. But the responsibility placed on it is an inordinate burden on its members.

"This just doesn't cover the situation at all. The Supreme Court hasn't the means it should have to look into this matter."

A justice department official said referring the case to the Supreme Court could have one of three probable outcomes:

- An affirmation of the murder conviction in the June 9, 1959, sex strangling near Clinton, Ont.
- An outright pardon for Truscott.
- A second trial for Truscott, who was 14 when sentenced to hang. The sentence was commuted to life.

The official said the reference gives the Supreme Court unfettered discretion to hear any evidence it feels relevant.

APPEAL DISMISSED

Steven Truscott is the 21-year-old youth convicted seven years ago of murdering 12-year-old Lynn E. Harper. A powerful book written by Isabel Lebourdais maintained he was innocent.

The Ontario Court of Appeal dismissed his appeal and the Supreme Court refused to hear one.

QUESTION

"Had an appeal by Steven Murray Truscott been made to the Supreme Court of Canada, what disposition would the court have made of such appeal on a consideration of the existing record and such further evidence as the court in its discretion may receive and consider."

UNPRECEDENTED

A high government source said Tuesday night the key word is "further." Its use makes the reference without precedent in Canadian history.

In routine murders, the Supreme Court now has the power to decide a case on matters of law or "new" evidence, which means evidence not available at the time of trial.

The use of the word further, in place of new, will allow the court to consider any evidence

The Empty Chair

Government's announcement Tuesday that case of Steven Truscott will go to Supreme Court brought new hope to family of the convicted murderer, shown in their Richmond, Ont., home. Surrounding chair which has been empty since boy's conviction in 1959 are sister Barbara, 13; Daniel Truscott, Steven's 48-year-old father; brother Bill, 16, and Mrs. Truscott. Missing also is Steven's oldest brother, Ken, 22, who lives in Montreal.—(CP)

Civil Servants

Ottawa Can Order Strikers to Jobs

OTTAWA (CP)—The government cannot stop civil servants going on strike, but Parliament can order them back to work with compulsory arbitration, Revenue Minister Benson said Tuesday.

* * *

The minister, chairman of the cabinet committee responsible for the government's employee relations, told a press conference that all groups in the civil service but postal workers apparently will accept collective bargaining procedures and a no-strike rule under new legislation being introduced in the Commons.

The postal workers want to take the alternative option, conciliation procedures under existing labor law which recognizes the right to strike. Mr. Benson said they could do so.

Employees among whom a strike would seriously affect the safety and security of the state would be debarred strike action under the legislation.

* * *

Mr. Benson said that if postal workers or any other group of civil servants "are determined to go on strike, . . . there is nothing we can do to prevent it."

With Welfare Cheques

Mayor Plays Samaritan

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Albert Kent says he will continue to sign welfare cheques for a Newmarket man with assets of $18,000 despite town council objections.

* * *

But Gilbert Gray, welfare administrator, says he is unable to issue any more cheques for the mayor to sign.

"I cannot disobey council," he said. "After all, they employ me."

Newmarket is 30 miles north of Toronto.

When council objected Monday night to the issuing of two welfare cheques of $142 each to the man, Mayor Kent warned that he will refuse to sign other welfare cheques until council reverses its position.

* * *

The man in question has been unable to work for two years. His sick benefits ran out two months ago and he has a wife and five-year-old daughter to support.

Mayor Kent read a letter from Ontario's director of welfare services stating that the man is qualified for welfare without having to mortgage his home or sell his car.

* * *

Mr. Gray said the man owns his home and lot, a cottage and a six-year-old car with a lien against it.

"A person shouldn't have to be absolutely destitute before receiving welfare assistance," Mr. Gray said.

After Mayor Kent walked out of Monday's council meeting, the councillors reconvened and struck the man's name off the welfare rolls.

* * *

"Council is at complete liberty to decide who they should give welfare to," Mr. Gray said Tuesday. "If the man is dissatisfied he can lodge an appeal with the Ontario public welfare office."

Maple Leafs in WHL Finals After Finally Subduing Seals

By JIM TANG

It came out the way it should have come out. The two best clubs in the Western Hockey League, Victoria Maple Leafs and Portland Buckaroos, are to meet in the final, starting here Saturday night.

The Leafs made it last night by out-gaming San Francisco Seals, 6-1, in the seventh game of their semi-final, in one of the most satisfactory victories any of the 4,850 fans ever watched.

With at least four players on the limp and giving away youth to the Seals, the Leafs just went out and made King Clancy, assistant manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, look like a seer without peer.

THEY LAUGH

"They laugh when they talk about our old club but these veterans won three Stanley Cups for us and you saw what those old-timers did for Detroit tonight," Clancy said as he listed the over-30 Red Wings.

Well, no one will laugh at the Victoria veterans, and that is almost the whole club, after what they did to the Seals last night.

It was a series the Leafs should have won in five or six games but they came home from San Francisco last Saturday needing their 12th and 13th consecutive victories on home ice.

IN BAG

They needed almost 73 minutes for the 12th but the 13th was in the bag before the game was half over.

First there was the holler from Bud Poile about having to play an amateur goalkeeper, and this one has to be one of the real ironies of league history.

GOT HIS WAY

Poile got his way as the Leafs consented to let the Seals use standby-goalkeeper Marcel Pelletier after the first game and until such time as a pro puck-blocker became available.

That happened sooner than expected when Oklahoma City won the Central League final in four games to make Doug Favell available.

But Favell was late for the fifth game in San Francisco Friday and the Seals started amateur Bob Gray, and kept him for the whole game as he came up with a brilliant performance which beat the Leafs, 5-4.

But with Favell on hand, the Seals almost had to use him after their early cry about having to use an amateur. Favell was no Gray in either of the last two games and when the Seals swallowed their pride and sent Gray back into action in the third period last night, it was too late.

Then there was the war of nerves against John Henderson, obtained from the Seals when Al Millar and the Leafs parted company. Henderson was very good when he had to be last night, and he was also the happiest man in a happy dressing room.

And, finally, there was the attempt to stop Bob Barlow, the leftwinger who scored six goals and drew six assists in the first two games. The Seals obviously meant what they said, and their method of stopping Barlow did them no credit at all.

Ron Harris, too good a hockey player to resort to the tactics he used last night, was the self-appointed hatchetman, and he had a willing aide in Larry McNabb.

After McNabb had drawn a cross-checking penalty in the seventh minute of play as he and Harris ganged up on Barlow, Harris jumped the Leaf winger behind the San Francisco goal.

STUNNED ON ICE

Barlow was knocked to the ice stunned with a cut on the back of his head from Harris' stick. Harris, no Marquis of Queensburry guy, climbed aboard and flailed away.

Referee Lloyd Gilmour, who could have handed out a match misconduct, nailed Harris with a major penalty. And it could have been just the goad, and it provided the chance the Leafs needed.

Fred Hucul got the first of his two goals while the Leafs had the two-man edge. It made the score 2-0 and when Dick Lamoureux, who also came up with two goals in perhaps his best performance of the season, brought it to 3-0 as a penalty-killer, the jig was up for the Seals.

MADE THEM WONDER

Milan Marcetta had opened he scoring at 47 seconds with a goal which must have made the Seals wonder about their goalkeeping choice

Chasing Andy Hebenton's pass into the right corner under pursuit, Marcetta backhanded what was meant to be a pass across the goalmouth. The puck hit Favell's stick and went in on the short side.

Only once, in the last five minutes of the first period, did the Leafs let up in what was one of those outstanding team efforts that have liberally sprinkled their season.

ROAMS AROUND

They seemed to run out of legs and Charlie Burns got matters just a bit worrisome by sliding in a pass from Wayne Connell who had roamed in the Victoria zone for 15 seconds before he set it up.

But Gordie Redahl backhanded one in from the left side at 4:04 of the second period and Fred Hucul, intercepting a pass at the blue-line, brought it to 5-1 at 6:35.

From there, it was all downhill. The Leafs just checked and checked and when the Seals did get through, they found Henderson adamant.

SECOND GOAL

To add the final touch, the Leafs started carrying the play in the last half of the third period and got a second goal from Lamoureux.

It was enough to send Poile out of the arena as chagrined, and as mad, as the rooster who had slept in.

FIRST PERIOD

1—Victoria, Marcetta (Hebenton) :47; 2—Victoria, F. Hucul (S. Hucul, Redahl) 7:28; 3—Victoria, Lamoreux (Keenan, Labrosse) 13:50; 4—San Francisco, Burns (Connelly, McNabb) 17:04.

Poile Wouldn't Bet On Next Playoff

By ROBIN JEFFREY

Then Poile went on to his Seal's 6-1 loss in last night's seventh and deciding game against the Leafs. "They could not get up," he said. "They had a bad first period, and after that they just couldn't get up."

About the Leafs, Poile conceded, "They played well. They are a good hockey team. They have good balance."

Leafs' coach Frank Mario was pleased — particularly with the big win coming in front of Toronto Maple Leafs' Punch Imlach and King Clancy—but a little cautious about the upcoming Portland series which starts in Victoria Saturday.

GOOD TEST

"It'll be a good test," Mario said smiling. "I think we can beat them if it keeps going like it was tonight. We finally capitalized on our chances tonight. We outshot them in the other six games. We were averaging 40 shots a game. But tonight everything was going for us."

Referee Lloyd Gilmour called only four penalties, all of them in the first period. But one, a a major to San Francisco's Ron Harris may well have been the turning-point.

AFTER BARLOW

Throughout the series, Seals have been concentrating on Leaf scoring-leaders Milan Marcetta and Bob Barlow, and about seven minutes into the first period Harris went after Barlow.

He clipped the Victoria player on the back of the head with his stick, Barlow slumped to the ice and couldn't fight back. Harris went off alone for five minutes, and while he was gone, Fred Hucul scored the Leafs' second goal.

IT WAS DELIBERATE

Leafs' general manager Buck Houle said of Harris' confrontation, "There wasn't anything more deliberate than that. The guy tried to take him (Barlow) off for five minutes."

Last night's victory assured Victoria of at least two more professional hockey game—Saturday and Friday, May 6. But beyond that, Toronto's Imlach wouldn't go.

NO COMMENT

Asked if Victoria would have a team next season, he replied, "I've got no comment on that at this time. It's hard to say. We'll have to look at the balance sheet and see how much money it's costing us."

From AP, UPI

Cleveland Indians, led by Luis Tiant's three-hit pitching, beat Kansas City Athletics, 4-0, Tuesday night for their ninth victory, tying an American League record for the most consecutive victories at the start of the season.

The record was set by the St. Louis Browns of 1941. The major league record is 10, shared by the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers and the 1962 Pittsburgh Pirates.

For the Yankees, it was a happy story for a change. They broke a seven-game losing streak by topping Boston Red Sox, 7-6, in a wild game in New York.

In the National League, Sandy Koufax weathered 13 St. Louis hits for his third victory as the Dodgers broke a three-game losing streak by beating St. Louis, 4-2.

Atlanta Braves buried San Francisco, 11-3, as Felipe Alou got five hits, including two homers and two doubles. He has hit safely in all of the Braves' 14 games so far.

The Mets outlasted the Cubs, 14-11 in Chicago.

Baseball Requests Delay

MILWAUKEE, Wis (AP) — Baseball asked Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller Monday for an indefinite stay of his order directing the National League to prepare an expansion by May 16 or return the Atlanta Braves from Atlanta to Milwaukee two days later.

Wisconsin, which brought the state anti-trust action that resulted in the order, vigorously opposed the request.

Willard Stafford, special counsel for the attorney-general, said that if the stay is granted to permit an appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court of the court's April 13 decision, "there will be no baseball in 1966, and very probably not in 1967."

Under terms of Judge Roller's decision, the Braves may stay in Atlanta if the league presents an expansion plan that would provide Milwaukee with a new franchise in 1967.

Argentine Wins Dallas Tourney

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Roberto DeVicenzo charged from four strokes back with a four-under-par 67 Tuesday and won the $15,000 first money in the Dallas open golf tournament with a 276 total for 72 holes.

The sturdy man from the Argentine started the final round tied for ninth place. He lost ground only once as he moved over the muddy 6,923-yard Oak Cliff Country Club course to pass Harold Henning and John Lotz, who were tied for the lead at 54 holes.

Henning ended with a one-over-par 72 and a 72-hole total of 277 to tie for second with Ray Floyd and Joe Campbell. Each won $5,800.

Lotz, on the way to at least a tie for second place with Henning, went two over par on the 16th hole and lost his big chance at a championship. He finished with a 73 and a total of 278.

Doug Sanders and GAY Brewer, the tournament favorites, faltered on the final day and had over-par rounds to finish down the list.

Portland Makes It

PORTLAND—Portland Buckaroos last night rode a 3-0 first-period lead to a 7-3 victory over Vancouver Canucks in the seventh game of their semi-final to earn the right to defend their Western Hockey League playoff championship against Victoria Maple Leafs, the club they beat in the final last year.

Two goals by Art Jones, the second as a penalty-killer, around a scoring shot by Arnie Schmautz, got things under control for the Bucks in the first period.

Jones also set up the fourth and fifth goals as the Buckaroos took a 5-1 lead early in the third period, which was featured by a bit of stickswinging between Arnie Schmautz and Bryan Hextall.

Habs Humbled Again

Wings Head Home Two Up

By DICK BACON

MONTREAL — (UPI) The upstart Detroit Red Wings, broke up a tight struggle with four goals in the third period to defeat the Montreal Canadiens 5-2 Tuesday night and sweep the first two games of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup hockey finals on Forum ice.

The Red Wings, 5-2 underdogs, once again beat the defending cup champion Canadiens at their own game—skating, checking, shooting and superior goal-tending.

CROWD GROANS

The Forum crowd of 14,550 groaned in despair as the Red Wings poured two quick goals behind Gump Worsley early in the period on shots by Bruce MacGregor and Ab McDonald, a Canadien castoff, and then iced it with two more late in the period by Floyd Smith and Dean Prentice.

Yvan Cournoyer gave the Canadien fans a brief moment of hope midway through the final period when he narrowed Detroit's margin to 3-2 but Detroit regained its two-goal margin 28 seconds later on Smith's 20-foot backhander and were never in doubt the last eight minutes.

STAR PERFORMER

And for the second game in a row, goalie Roger Crozier was the standout performer, kicking aside the best shots the flying Frenchmen could author. Montreal, outshot in every period (14-7, 7-6 and 13-12), played the Red Wings to a virtual standstill over the first two periods after each team had registered power play goals in the first period.

J. C. Tremblay converted Jean Beliveau's passout from about 35 feet at 6:55 and Andy Bathgate, who now has six Stanley Cup goals to his credit in a fine comeback, got it back at 18:39, shoving in Prentice's passout from just in front of the Montreal cage.

The Red Wings broke the game open with a sudden scoring burst early in the final frame, beating Worsley twice within a 50-second span. First MacGregor deflected Paul Henderson's rebound shot underneath Worsley at 1:55 and then Mcdonald scored on a fluke shot. He was directly behind the Montreal net with Worsley pursuing the puck. He beat Worsley to it and flipped it out. It hit J. C. Tremblay and caromed into the empty net at 2:45.

MORE SPORT PAGES 15, 16

Despite the two-goal deficit, Montreal came on strong and finally got one back at 12:00 as Cournoyer flipped the puck into the far corner over Crozier's leg while on his knees at the opposite side of the cage.

SHORT RALLY

But the Montreal rally was short-lived as Smith scored 28 seconds later and then Prentice put the game out of reach at 16:25, converting Prentice's relay.

The Montreal defence was guilty of several lapses especially in leaving Detroit forwards unchecked in front of the Montreal net. The miscues resulted in three of the five Detroit goals.

Montreal coach Toe Blake shuffled his lines almost at random in the final period in hopes of coming up with a combination that could beat Detroit's 21-year-old netminding wizard. But aside from Cournoyer's effort, it was all in vain.

GREAT SPOT

Now the Red Wings, who would have been happy to gain a split here where they won only one game all year, return to home ice at the Detroit Olympia with a strong 2-0 lead. They need only two more victories and have four more games in which to do it.

The Red Wings haven't won the Stanley Cup since 1955, when they beat the same Canadiens in a seven-game final.

Blake Blisters Scribes, Team

MONTREAL—"Get out! Get out! I don't have anything to say. You saw the game. They scored five goals and we scored two. You have to play hockey to win, that's all."

Blake finally relented, and let reporters in about 20 minutes later but had little to say, except "we had 15 guys out there who couldn't do anything."

The players quickly dressed and somebody asked J. C. Tremblay what had happened.

"Oh nothing," was the soft reply.

In the madhouse that was the Red Wings' dressing room, Detroit coach Sid Abel had special praise for Dean Prentice and Leo Boivin, two late-season acquisitions from Boston.

Abel and the rest of the Wings also were loud in their praise of goaltender Roger Crozier. The big saves off Gilles Tremblay and Jean Beliveau at the start of the third period were singled out as the big ones.

"You know, this is as close as I've ever been to the Stanley Cup," enthused veteran Wing defenceman Bill Gadsby. "I hope we make it."

Courtenay

One Mill Increase

COURTENAY—The mill rate for the city of Courtenay has been set at 47 mills, an increase of 1 mill from last year.

The annual budget received its first, second and third readings at a special meeting of council held April 26. It will come up for reconsideration and be finally adopted at the regular meeting May 2.

The budget total is $931,000 of which $256,000 is school costs. The school mill rate is 27.711 compared to 26.441 last year.

Some of the major breakdowns of the budget are community services, $50,483; sanitation, $46,528; public works (maintenance) $51,240; protection, $74,528; social welfare, $99,729; general government, $34,657; miscellaneous grants, $3,009.

Contributions to capital and loan $79,016; new paving, $41,-599; Centennial project, $19,797, which is on a shareable basis with the provincial and federal governments; traffic lights, $3,000; parks capital, $13,035; storm sewers, $9,256 and city replotting scheme, $15,036.

Salvation Army was given permission to use Lewis Park May 15.

Driver Jailed

SMITHERS (CP) — Colin Edward Pattison, 21, was sentenced to a total of six months in jail after being found guilty of driving without a licence for the third time in a month. He received three months for failing to stop for a police officer.

Harewood Land Owners Want 'Bought' Sewers

NANAIMO—Nineteen land owners in Harewood have petitioned the provincial government, claiming they are paying for services they don't receive.

The land owners maintain they are paying taxes on sewers they don't have.

* * *

Rod Glen, secretary-treasurer of the Harewood Improvement District, said the levy is for sewers and parks, which was passed by an 84 per cent majority several years ago.

"The water act says if you impose a tax, it must be on land," he said.

Airport Gets Boost

DUNCAN—The long-awaited Duncan airport in the Glenora area near downtown Duncan will get a boost Thursday night when the Duncan Jaycees will form an airport society.

At the helm of that society will be Ernie Hamm, president of the local Jaycee unit.

The next stage in developing the airstrip will be levelling of the cleared land.

Mr. Hamm said "It is hoped costs will be kept down by the use of volunteered equipment and operators."

Disturbed Children To Benefit

LADYSMITH — Town council has authorized Mayor Kay Grouhel to serve as director on the board of the Vancouver Island summer camp for special children.

The camp will be held from Aug. 17 to 30, at the Cliffside Preparatory School on the eastern shore of Shawnigan Lake.

The camp will be limited to 20 children, boys and girls between 6 and 13 years of age.

ABILITY

The cost per child will be $170 but the charge to the parents will depend on their ability to pay.

The children will be drawn from the area served by the mental health clinic except Greater Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula.

LARGE STAFF

In attendance at the camp will be the entire staff of the mental health clinic under the supervision of Dr. S. E. Jensen, psychiatrist and director of the Vancouver Island Mental Health Clinic.

TOTAL LACKS

In a letter, chairman of the board of directors of the summer camp, M. G. Zorkin of Nanaimo stated, "The purpose of the camp is to provide an intensive treatment experience not otherwise available since hospital facilities for the treatment of nervous disorders in children are totally lacking."

He said the number of children was limited to make individual treatment possible.

Records Set But Who Cares?

CUMBERLAND — General meeting of Cumberland Hospital Association was very poorly attended.

The meeting received the reports of operation for the year 1965. All-time records for the number of patients admitted, patient days and volume of work in all departments were set.

After adjustments for the year by B.C. Hospital Insurance Service the hospital showed an net deficit of $612, on a total expenditure of $200,000.

The meeting amended two articles in the bylaws of the society, and voted unanimously in favour of the hospital board continuing efforts to effect the construction of new kitchen facilities and renovation to the hospital as well as continuing to press for extended care beds.

C. J. Parnham was voted a life membership in the society and was also elected as a life member of the hospital board.

Following the annual meeting the new hospital board named G. E. Apps as president, Jack Shilton as vice-president and C. A. Cousins, hospital administrator, as secretary-treasurer.

Students Plan Big Trip

Five University of Victoria students will leave for West Germany in May to see European culture for themselves under an unusual work-scholarship plan.

The plan underwrites students' travel expenses and provides employment in West German offices and industries during June and July. In August the students may travel where they like.

Duncan Girl Wins Speaking Contest

DUNCAN — Roberta Jameson received congratulations on winning the provincial public speaking contest from fellow 4-H members, when the Cowichan-Cobble Hill 4-H Council met Friday.

She also gave a report on the new junior council, the council's first venture, providing refreshments for the plowing match had been financially successful.

President Mrs. Henry Westwick advised that a 4-H field day will be held at Duncan, June 4.

Mrs. Harry Standen of the provincial advisory council told of a plan to send 200 outstanding 4-H members to Expo 67 at Montreal next year.

There is to be a contest for a new design in 4-H decals to advertise the work of the clubs.

Island Duo Among Four Canadians

Children Win Norway Trip

Goldie-Dawn

Geoffrey

By PETER TAYLOR

NANAIMO—Two bright youngsters, sparkling with intelligence will be part of a group of four that will represent Canada in July at the Children's International Summer Village at Hurdal, Norway.

Chosen from the upper Island area are two 11-year-olds, Goldie-Dawn Smith of Cedar and Geoffrey Hicks of Westholme.

Coping with the variety of languages would stagger most adults but these children look upon this as a minor detail.

"If I play with them, even if I can't speak their language I'll get along," Goldie said.

More than 270 children entered the contest from Vancouver Island, with forms being distributed by schools and various youth organizations.

On Sunday, 20 finalists from the area north of the Malahat were observed at the Departure Bay firehall as they attempted to solve tests set for them.

* * *

Goldie remembers the group had to make up a play.

They chose a modernized version of Little Red Riding Hood, while Geoffrey attempted to summon a doctor using only sign laguage, for a buddy who had tooth ache.

Goldie's father operates a meat market in Nanaimo, and she attends Grade 6 at North Cedar Elementary School.

This week is especially busy for her, as she has entered several classes in the Upper Island Music Festival.

On Tuesday her choir won a first and she still has to compete in the recorder and piano competitions.

A keen bowler, she has won a trophy this season and a pin for perfect attendance at league games.

She has two brothers and two sisters.

Large families appear to be in order with both children, as Geoffrey owned up to seven sisters and five brothers, at least 13 wasn't an unlucky number for him.

* * *

He said his hobby is "building little radio sets and I'm going to take one along as a gift."

Geoffrey said he let out a loud "yahoo" when the phone call came with the news he had been picked.

Goldie Smith said she was in bed when the news reached her house, but her father told her "I knew somebody else thought you were smart besides be."

Now the children are looking forward to their jet trip across the Atlantic, and trying to think of suitable souvenirs they can exchange with excited campers.

In Duncan

Liquor Case Quashed

DUNCAN — Magistrate Lance Heard quashed a case laid by RCMP against 14 minors and juveniles for possession of liquor on the grounds "the charge should have been served and separate information laid in each case."

The defendants and their parents filled the city council chamber where court was held Tuesday, because Motor Vehicle Branch officials were using the courthouse for driving tests.

ACTS QUOTED

Counsel for the defendents G. A. Lauder, Victoria, opened the proceedings by submitting a charge "cannot have more than one person on the information or summons at one time."

He quoted from the Summary Convictions and Liquor Acts.

Maffeo Almost Well

Mayor Pete Maffeo of Nanaimo, badly hurt in a curling accident March 27, is almost completely recovered and should be back at his desk in a week or two, Royal Jubilee Hospital authorities in Victoria reported Tuesday.

Mayor Maffeo, [illegible], was moved Victoria early this month for brain surgery. His condition was described as critical for a considerable time afterward, and there were reports that he had suffered a heart attack while in hospital.

Garbage Can 'Dumped'

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — Kenneth M. Hoffman is somewhat put out. He's lost tuns of garbage.

CONTAINERS GONE

Mr. Hoffman values his lost porperty at $10 a tun, and he wants it back. Tuns are large cask-like containers.

He put two of them out with his regular garbage, and the two tuns and the garbage container were all taken, with contents, to the garbage dump by the regular crew.

Phone calls to the city works yard, to the works superintendent and to Ald. George Cole, had availed him nothing, Mr. Hoffman complained.

VANISHED

Finally, adding insult to injury, he got a demand to purchase two new approved garbage containers. He did find out his garbage can had been taken because it had a hole in it, but of his two wooden tuns, not an ounce could be found.

Terming the action "A lack of respect for citizens' property," Mr. Hoffman said if his container had holes in it, he should be advised to get another but that collectors still had no right to take the old one, holey or not.

He previously had a note on the big barrels that they should not be removed, Mr. Hoffman stated, but had assumed the men now knew he wanted them left and did not have them so designated when they disappeared.

COMPLAINTS

Mayor Les Hammer and Superintendent Len Crowshaw agreed they have more complaints about unusual containers that are left behind than they do about ones picked up and disposed of.

Said Mr. Crowshaw, "We are quite insistent that people have proper size containers. I am really surprised that the large barrels were picked up at all, since they are open, the contents was wet, and we have had men suffer hernias trying to handle such outsize loads."

CRUSHED

However, council agreed to further investigate in the hope of returning Mr. Hoffman's wooden barrels, if possible, but the crushing mechanism on city garbage trucks, like the mills of God, grind exceeding small. The barrels have, by now, been either crushed, burned or perhaps both, sanitation officials felt.

Mr. Hoffman may not get his barrels back, but he will receive an appropriate written reply from the sanitation department, council decreed. Meantime, if anyone sees a tun of garbage . . .

Forced Onto Street

Students in Danger

RCMP Sgt. Harding said he is worried about the safety of pupils, because of the many cars parked in the area.

In a letter to council, Sgt. Harding said youngsters are forced to walk in a traffic area, because of cars parked on the shoulders of Bruce and Anderson.

PETITION

However, some 70 to 100 feet of the frontage runs along the side of a private residence.

The owners already have a front sidewalk, and have little need of the additional walk along the side of their property, Mr. Reynolds indicated.

Said Ald. Ron Lyon, "This item has been in the school board budget for many years. For 100 feet isn't the city big enough to build the needed sidewalk? We have a responsibility to the 400 or 500 children who attend Maquinna."

Fear that it would set up a serious precedent was expressed by Ald. Reynolds, who felt other citizens owning corner property might then demand reductions or rebates for similar sidewalks.

However Mr. Reynolds suggested signs should be posted there to eliminate parking until the end of the school term.

Fence Judging Set Thursday

NANAIMO — Judging of Nanaimo's entries in the fence painting contest will take place Thursday.

First prize is $50, second $30, and third $20.

Ambulance Society Formed

NANAIMO — A five-member executive has been formed to organize an ambulance fund raising society here.

Bert Moss disclosed Tuesday the Hospital Employees Union turned down the idea of forming a society, but 15 union members decided to form the society as individuals.

Mr. Moss is chairman of the executive and other members are Al Carter, Mrs. Kathleen Greinnell, Jack Brow, and Lloyd Closson.

MEETING MAY 4

The first organizational meeting will be held May 4.

Mrs. Dolly Fearon said Tuesday the ambulance fund now stands at $8,000, which leaves another $5,500 to reach the target.

VEHICLE ORDERED

A new four-stretcher vehicle is already on order for Island Ambulance. The society is needed because many large corporations will not donate to a private enterprise, but will to a society.

Mrs. Fearon and the union have jointly sponsored a drive to raise the money.

Non-Drinkers Aroused

Friendly Cove Not All 'Wet'

GOLD RIVER—If a Tahsis magistrate intends to prove his contention that there is evidence of excessive drinking on the part of every adult in Friendly Cove, he will run into a problem, according to Indian spokesmen.

In fact, he may run into at least three problems, three couples regular resident in Frienly Cove who answered the magistrate's allegation.

Their answer . . . "we don't drink, and we never have."

That statement, on behalf of himself and his wife, was made by Jerry Jack, hereditary subchief of the Nootka band, the band involved at Friendly Cove.

Mr. Jack, 28, and wife Mary, 22, recently moved to Gold River. But they said during their lives in Friendly Cove, they haven't had a drink.

Another family regularly living in Friendly Cove, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dick, said in Gold River they also are non-drinkers.

ANOTHER COUPLE

And both couples were able to name at least one other couple now in Friendly Cove, Mr. and Mrs. James Skyler, who do not drink.

Magistrate H. A. Tasker has announced intention to go to Friendly Cove soon to start interdiction proceedings against each adult.

From Scotland

School Head Named

Appointment of a new superintendent of Brannen Lake School for Boys at Wellington, north of Nanaimo, was announced Tuesday by Welfare Minister Black.

He is John Noble, 35, who recently came to British Columbia from Scotland and who formerly was assistant superintendent at Oakbank Training School in Aberdeen for a number of years.

STARTS MAY 1

He and his wife and two sons are taking up residence at Brannen Lake, where on May 1 Mr. Noble will replace Frederick Hassard, who has been superintendent since the school was opened in 1955.

Mr. Hassard, whose retirement had been postponed, will retire when his successor takes over. He has served with the provincial government since 1931.

IN SCOTLAND

The new superintendent was born and educated in Scotland, receiving his teacer's training at Aberdeen Teachers' College and graduating with Master of Arts degree from Aberdeen University.

His career has been focused on work in institutions similar to Brannen Lake School and his education has included a special one-year course at Durham University in this field.

Courtenay

Island Park Opened

The provincial government has opened a new community park adjacent to Forbidden Plateau near Courtenay.

A parks branch spokesman said Tuesday the 240-acre park formerly owned by Elk River Timber Company was acquired by the government in a trade for forest land in the Quinsam district.

The new park, which was developed by Courtenay and has a chairlift, will be called the Wood Mountain Ski Park.

The recreation commission will continue to operate the chairlift in the Class C park, where development is permitted, the spokesman said.

Work Awaits Many

Job Training Outlined

NANAIMO — The B.C. vocational programs drive to reduce hard core unemployment was outline to Kiwanis Tuesday.

He gave highlights of each course at the school starting with the six-month general welding course, as well as pipe welding, which is the only such program in Canada.

FROM NOVA SCOTIA

"People come from as far east as Nova Scotia to take this course," he said.

The heavy equipment class is now building a road off the Hammond Bay road, and will commence classes in shifts from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Every year three or four courses are given in log scaling, and regularly 10 students complete the six-week log loading course.

These men, Mr. Hindle said, complete the course on Friday and are able to find work in the woods starting the followijg Monday.

This course will soon end, Mr. Hindle said, and the Empress Hotel and Princess Mary Restaurants in Victoria, the Georgia Hotel and Harrison Hot Springs Resort of the mainland will each employ one graduate.

For people whose jobs have been done away with, the timekeepers and the First Aid attendants course has proved popular with 50 per cent of the students over age 40 and some as high as 54 years of age.

An upgrading program on office machinery still has not found its niche.

Hr. Hindle said "There was not as much demand as we expected but it's the first year for this."

He urged the businessmen present to encourage their staff to take advantage of the course, where instruction will be given on any piece of office equipment.

Port Hardy: Yes!

PORT HARDY — Residents have voted to form a municipality.

The vote was 73.6 per cent in favor of a municipality.

There were [illegible] property owners who could vote but an official said many do not live in the area. He estimated about 175 could have physically made it to the polls.

This meant the turnout of 103 was excellent, he said.

One ballot was spoiled. The vote was 75 in favor of a municipality, 27 against.

Socred Wants:

Ballot Box Afloat

Residents in isolated areas of Vancouver Island and the northern coast are not getting the same voting opportunity as the rest of British Columbia, says an executive member of the B.C. Social Credit League.

But Isabel Dawson of Powell River, the league's fourth vice-president, also has a solution.

SHIPS FOR POLLS

Mrs. Dawson, who's also president of the Mackenzie Riding Social Credit League, suggests that government vessels—such as forestry ships—could be employed as travelling polling stations.

Mrs. Dawson pointed out there is a fair number of voters living in the many coast inlets, as well as in isolated areas on Vancouver Island.

SMALL BOATS

"These people often have long distances to travel to a polling station, and in a number of cases, the trip would have to be made in a small boat," she said.

"Should the weather be bad, the trip would be impossible, and even under the best of conditions, it might still mean great expense and a day off work."

NO VOTES

According to Mrs. Dawson, many people have not voted for years because of these reasons.

She said she'll submit her suggestion that forestry boats be utilized, to the provincial government.

CONTRIBUTION

"It is my personal feeling that these people in isolated areas of the coast, Vancouver Island, and other places in the province, should have an opportunity to cast their ballots," Mrs. Dawson said.

"Through the years, they have contributed much to the healthy economy of our province, while deriving little benefits from the economy."

Midnight Monday New Tax Deadline

OTTAWA (CP)—Personal income tax returns for 1965 may be filed without penalty up to midnight Monday night, May 2, Revenue Minister Benson said Tuesday in the Commons. The normal deadline is April 30 but this falls on a Saturday this year.

Super Germ-Killer Found

Antibiotic Attacks Diseases of Man, Plants, Animals

OTTAWA (CP)—A red-colored liquid discovered and tested by three federal agriculture department microbiologists may furnish new anti-biotic weapons to fight diseases of plants, animals and man.

It kills the germs which cause tuberculosis and staphylococcus aureus, the "golden staph" germs which resist current antibiotics and which have caused the shutdown of a number of Canadian hospitals to check its spread.

Its potential to battle cancer now is being studied by the cancer research institute at the University of Saskatchewan but the results won't be known for a year or more.

Besides medical uses, the new antibiotic kills bacteria which cause potato ring rot, alfalfa wilt, fruit tree fireblight, halo blight in oats and the fungi that rot cereal roots.

Announcing the discovery at a press conference Tuesday, Agriculture Minister Greene predicted that the names of the three discoverers "will long be remembered and honored in the annals of man's struggle against disease."

Their discovery is named myxin for the group of soil bacteria known as myxobacters from which it was extracted. In lab tests, it has prevented growth of 34 species of bacteria, 49 species of fungi, 12 species of actinomycetes and 12 species of yeast.

Actinomycetes is a genus of higher bacteria, reproducing by spores. They may infect the human body.

Myxin strikes at a wider variety of disease-causing organisms than any other known antibiotic, is relatively easy and cheap to produce and can be used on crops as a spray, a control method too costly up to now for antibiotics.

Dr. Fred Delmar Cook, 45, now on the faculty of the University of Alberta, noted in a soil research project that a one-celled microbe prevented growth of many other organisms causing serious crop dis-

After Quake

Soviet Chiefs View Havoc

At least four persons were killed and 150 others hospitalized in the early morning quake which crumbled "several" hospitals, destroyed many older homes and leveled schools, public buildings and factories, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported. The reports of collapsed hospitals raised fears of a major disaster.

★ ★ ★

Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev, in an unprecedented move for Kremlin leaders, flew to the capital of Uzbekistan shortly after the first shock jolted the city of 1,127,000. The new shocks began nearly 14 hours after the initial quake while Kosygin and Brezhnev were inspecting damage.

More tremors were felt later but Tass made no report of additional casualties or damage.

Terrorist Mine Kills 11

SAIGON (UPI) — Viet Cong terrorists exploded a mine at an intersection on the outskirts of Saigon early Wednesday, killing 11 persons and wounding 20 others. All casualties were believed to be Vietnamese.

Four Americans were wounded along with five Vietnamese in one of the incidents. A terrorist threw a grenade into the Americans' jeep, and one of them quickly pitched it back out just before it exploded, probably saving their lives.

Close to Chinese Line

Missile Downs Hottest Red Jet

SAIGON (AP) — American planes shot down a MiG-21 over North Viet Nam only 35 miles from China's frontier Tuesday, a U.S. spokesman announced. It was the first kill of the best Communist jet in Asia.

Peking's New China news agency said North Viet Nam's air force shot down two U.S. jets and damaged several others. It did not mention the MiG-21.

Proximity of the action to the frontier led to speculation MiG-21s were using Chinese bases.

China is believed to be producing planes at this type.

Cyprus R. Vance, U.S. deputy defence secretary, said Sunday North Viet Nam is believed to have about 15 MiG-21s. They could have come either from the Soviet Union or from China.

Sidewinder missiles from a U.S. Air Force F-4C Phantom brought down the MIG in a dogfight 65 miles north-northeast of Hanoi. The pilot is believed to have parachuted.

The Sidewinders used in the latest engagement are heat-seeking missiles that home in on jet exhaust pipes of opposing planes. A skilled pilot, however, may be able to out-manoeuvre them until they lose momentum.

With Welfare Cheques

Mayor Plays Samaritan

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Mayor Albert Kent says he will continue to sign welfare cheques for a Newmarket man with assets of $18,000 despite town council objections.

★ ★ ★

But Gilbert Gray, welfare administrator, says he is unable to issue any more cheques for the mayor to sign.

"I cannot disobey council," he said. "After all, they employ me."

Newmarket is 30 miles north of Toronto.

When council objected Monday night to the issuing of two welfare cheques of $142 each to the man, Mayor Kent warned that he will refuse to sign other welfare cheques until council reverses its position.

★ ★ ★

The man in question has been unable to work for two years. His sick benefits ran out two months ago and he has a wife and five-year-old daughter to support.

Mayor Kent read a letter from Ontario's director of welfare services stating that the man is qualified for welfare without having to mortgage his home or sell his car.

Mr. Gray said the man owns his home and lot, a cottage and a six-year-old car with a lien against it.

"A person shouldn't have to be absolutely destitute before receiving welfare assistance," Mr. Gray said.

After Mayor Kent walked out of Monday's council meeting, the councillors reconvened and struck the man's name off the welfare rolls.

★ ★ ★

"Council is at complete liberty to decide who they should give welfare to," Mr. Gray said Tuesday. "If the man is dissatisfied he can lodge an appeal with the Ontario public welfare office."

Ottawa Can Order Strikers to Jobs

OTTAWA (CP)—The government cannot stop civil servants going on strike, but Parliament can order them back to work with compulsory arbitration, Revenue Minister Benson said Tuesday.

The minister, chairman of the cabinet committee responsible for the government's employee relations, told a press conference that all groups in the civil service but postal workers apparently will accept collective bargaining procedures and a no-strike rule under new legislation being introduced in the Commons.

The postal workers want to take the alternative option, conciliation procedures under existing labor law which recognizes the right to strike. Mr. Benson said they could do so.

Employees among whom a strike would seriously affect the safety and security of the state would be debarred strike action under the legislation.

Mr. Benson said that if postal workers or any other group of civil servants "are determined to go on strike, . . . there is nothing we can do to prevent it."

NEVER SPIED SAYS GERDA

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Gerda Munsinger, subject of a Canadian sex-and-security inquiry, denied Tuesday allegations made Monday before the commission, in a statement issued by Neue Illustrierte magazine, publisher of her memoirs. (See also Page 3.)

To an allegation that she had been refused an entry visa to Canada in 1952, Mrs. Munsinger replied she never at that time applied for a visa to Canada, although she applied for one to the United States.

According to the statement, she denied having been arrested in West Germany in 1949 and admitting spying for the Soviet Union, as chief commission counsel J. L. O'Brien said Monday an RCMP security file states.

"I have never been interrogated and therefore have never admitted spying for the Soviet Union," she was quoted as saying. "I have never been a Soviet spy."

To allegations she was sentenced by a West German court for prostitution and theft, she replied: "This claim has been seized out of the air. I have never been brought before a West or East German court and convicted."

The statement concluded: "There are no proofs for these dishonoring allegations, because there can be no proofs. They have been freely invented."

Britain Reaffirms Pro-U.S. War Stand

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's new Labor government Tuesday night firmly backed U.S. Vietnamese policy and warned that an American withdrawal could be a disaster for free nations in southeast Asia.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart, in a major review of the government's overseas and defence policies, said North Vietnamese Communists forced the pace of the war by their military interference in the south and refusal to negotiate peace.

He told parliament: "If the conflict in Viet Nam were to end by the complete abandonment of the area by the United States or of an outright communist victory, this would be a matter of the gravest concern to all non-Communist states in that part of the world.

He said the only solution to Viet Nam lay in negotiation—and the United States was ready to talk peace with Hanoi whenever it wished . . . "and it ought so to wish."

Truscott Case Goes To Supreme Court

By FRASER KELLY
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The fate of Steven Truscott is in the hands of the Supreme Court of Canada and opposition spokesmen are worried those hands may already be tied.

Conservative leader Diefenbaker said Tuesday "The limitatations on the Supreme Court are of such a nature that they deny the completeness of investigation that is warranted.

"I have great respect for the Supreme Court. But the responsibility placed on it is an inordinate burden on its members.

"This just doesn't cover the situation at all. The Supreme Court hasn't the means it should have to look into this matter."

A justice department official said referring the case to the Supreme Court could have one of three probable outcomes:

- An affirmation of the murder conviction in the June 9, 1959, sex strangling near Clinton, Ont.
- An outright pardon for Truscott.
- A second trial for Truscott, who was 14 when sentenced to hang. The sentence was commuted to life.

The official said the reference gives the Supreme Court unfettered discretion to hear any evidence it feels relevant.

APPEAL DISMISSED

Steven Truscott is the 21-year-old youth convicted seven years ago of murdering 12-year-old Lynn E. Harper. A powerful book written by Isabel LeBourdais maintained he was innocent.

The Ontario Court of Appeal dismissed his appeal and the Supreme Court refused to hear one.

QUESTION

"Had an appeal by Steven Murray Truscott been made to the Supreme Court of Canada. what disposition would the court have made of such appeal on a consideration of the existing record and such further evidence as the court in its discretion may receive and consider."

UNPRECEDENTED

A high government source said Tuesday night the key word is "further." Its use makes the reference without precedent in Canadian history:

In routine murders, the Supreme Court now has the power to decide a case on matters of law or "new" evidence, which means evidence not available at the time of trial.

The use of the word further, in place of new, will allow the court to consider any evidence

Tornado Hits Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A tornado whirled through a rural section of central Mississippi Tuesday night damaging a number of houses and leaving at least one person dead, the highway patrol said.

Authorities said two or three houses were reported blown down when the twister struck near the little town of Goodman.

Oil Rights Net Millions

EDMONTON (CP) — Sale of oil and gas exploration rights in the Rainbow Lake and Nipisi oil fields in northwestern Alberta brought the provincial government $10,375,795 Tuesday.
